Ky Surprised By Thieu Bid For Election

SAIGON (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky apparently was surprised by Saturday's announcement that his most powerful potential opponent in the upcoming presidential election has decided to run.

When told at Bien Hoa Air Base that Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu had announced his intentions, Ky's jaw dropped.

Since Ky has said several times that in the interest of military unity he would pull out of the race if Thieu decided to become a candidate, newsmen asked him what he planned to do.

"I don't know," Ky said. "I will have a talk with him first."

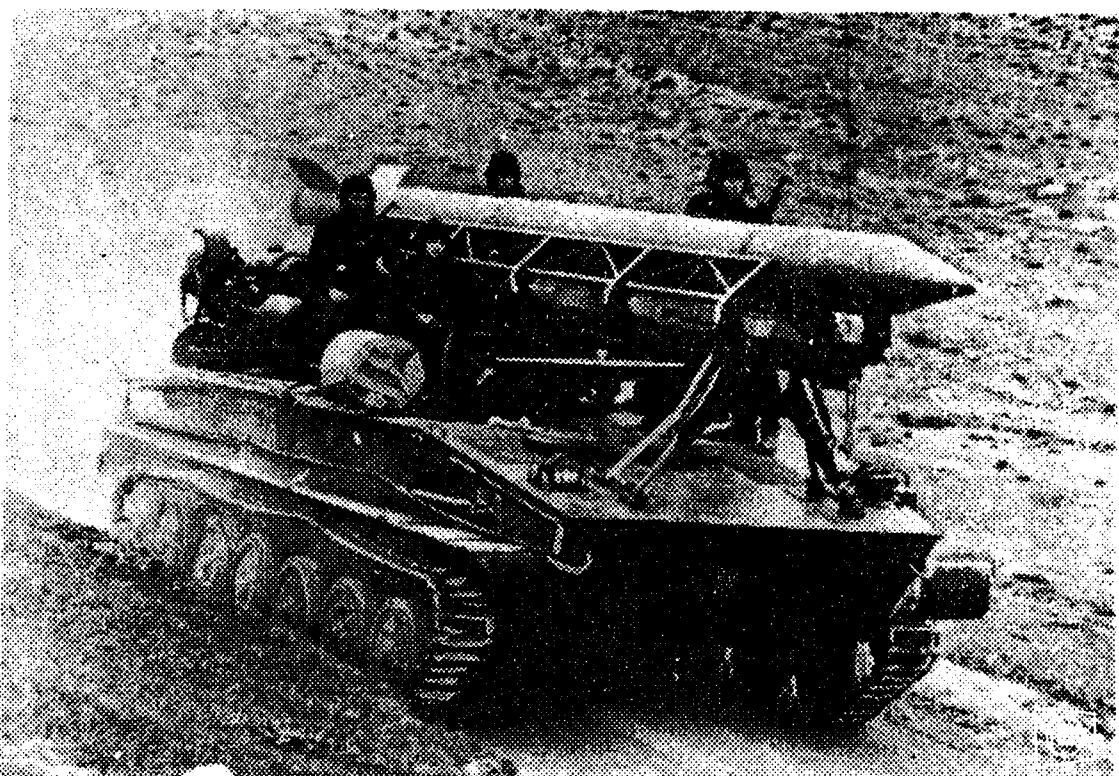

Could there be two military men running for president, Ky was asked. Ky is an air force marshal and Thieu is a lieutenant general.

"It's possible, but I don't know," he said, and then, as if to show that he was not worried about the competition, added: "I have no comment. I'm indifferent."

Thieu's decision, relayed through a spokesman, was definite. The spokesman said Thieu's decision would make the Sept. 3 election a free-for-all and that a formal announcement of his candidacy would come in proper time, probably early in June.

Ky has repeatedly said Thieu would not run.

Although the powerful Armed Forces Council, made up of the officers who rule South Vietnam, had decided not to publicly endorse any military man for the presidency, a show of hands last Sunday was overwhelming in favor of Ky.

Worried UN Chief Maps Cairo Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant warned the Security Council Saturday that the Middle East crisis is more menacing than at any time since 1956 when Israeli, French and British forces attacked Egypt in an attempt to seize the Suez Canal. Thant announced he will go to Cairo Monday to talk with Egyptian leaders.

Egypt has massed troops on Israel's southwest border, and Syria has moved 40,000 soldiers to Israel's northeast border. Israel's armed forces were alerted.

The United Nations Emergency Force that has been on the Israeli-Egyptian border withdrew Friday at Egypt's request.

Thant said in a report to the U.N. Security Council that the confrontation of Egypt and Syria against Israel could flare up at any time. He reported a brief shooting incident on the Egyptian-Israeli line Friday, but said he did not know which side was to blame.

Thant's planned trip to Cairo appeared to halt a move by some U.N. members for an emergency council meeting on the crisis.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg issued a statement saying the United States was "highly conscious of the responsibilities of the Security Council under the circumstances of the secretary-general's report."

He did not exclude a council meeting, but said "we feel that immediately we ought not to prejudice" Thant's Cairo talks.

In Jerusalem, an Israeli army spokesman said two bundles of explosives were found Saturday under a culvert on the Beersheba-Arad road six miles inside Israel's border with Jordan. The

US Jets Bag At Least 5 Enemy MIGs

SAIGON (AP) — Some 10,000 U.S. Marines and 4,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen consolidated their positions along the Ben Hai River in the demilitarized zone Saturday and started probing for enemy fortifications, the U.S. Command said Sunday.

The U.S. 3rd Marine Division announced that 55 Marines have been killed and 415 wounded since the operation opened Thursday in the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam. The allied force reported killing 543 enemy soldiers so far.

In the air war, Communist MIG's and U.S. jets battled over North Vietnam Saturday for the second day in a row, and U.S. Air Force pilots shot down five Communist jets and possibly a sixth while other warplanes raided targets near Hanoi.

It was the second day that the American jets and Russian-made MIGs had tangled in dog-fights. Friday's score was four MIGs shot down with a fifth probable and seven American planes lost — four by MIGs and three by ground fire. American plane losses over North Vietnam stood at 52.

Hanoi radio claimed eight U.S. planes were shot down Saturday, but there was no confirmation in Saigon.

The sky battle brought enemy plane losses in two days to nine, with two possible kills, and sent MIG losses since the aerial war began to 69.

In the central highlands of South Vietnam, beside the Cambodian border, North Vietnamese regulars renewed their attack against a company of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division.

The Communist infiltrators slammed 225 rounds of mortar shells and 40mm rockets into the U.S. position late Friday and then made a frontal assault.

The jungle-hardened U.S. infantrymen drove the North Vietnamese back and began a sweep early Sunday of their defensive perimeter. The North Vietnamese again attacked and the battle was continuing, a U.S. spokesman said.

U.S. losses were reported to be 11 killed and 36 wounded. There was no report of enemy casualties.

Air Losses Attributed To Radar

WASHINGTON (AP) — The toll of U.S. planes over North Vietnam is rising steeply because they are concentrating more and more on targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, where most of North Vietnam's 6,000 anti-aircraft guns are employed.

The pilots who undergo the ordeal by anti-aircraft fire refer to Hanoi as "Dodge City."

Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, says the Hanoi-Haiphong area represents "the greatest concentration of anti-aircraft weapons that has ever been known in the history of defense in any town or any area in the world."

More than 100 U.S. planes have been lost over North Vietnam since the first of the year — about half of them since early last month.

Conventional anti-aircraft guns can be credited with downing about 480 of the over-all total of 552 American aircraft lost in the air war over North Vietnam.

Only 22 have fallen before MIG jets. And only about 50 have been lost to surface-to-air missiles, although the Communists have fired about 2,500 of the SAMs at the raiders.

Many U.S. officers argue that the North Vietnamese were given time and freedom to build up their air defense concentrations around Hanoi and Haiphong because targets in those sectors were highly restricted for a long time.

The North Vietnamese anti-aircraft guns have been increased tenfold.

Nucleus of the system are 37mm and 57mm guns which comprise over 60 per cent of the anti-aircraft weapons in North Vietnam.

In addition, the North Vietnamese have what is described

Fear Anti-British Protests To Spark Hong Kong Fight

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist-inspired anti-British demonstrations grew in size and intensity Saturday and fear spread through this colony that reaction against them might trigger street battles between pro-Communist and pro-Nationalist Chinese.

Fighting between the two factions in October 1956 killed 60 persons and wounded more than 240. A Swiss diplomat's wife was burned to death when her car was overturned, drenched with gasoline and ignited.

Anti-Communist posters were pasted on the walls of the Hong Kong post office Saturday. One called Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung a thief.

After dark, gangs of pro-Communist Chinese teen-agers, led by older persons, roamed streets in the Chinese Wanchai area of Hong Kong Island, smearing buildings and people with red paint. They splashed at least one European with paint, roughed up another and chased a third.

Earlier, pro-Communist demonstrators massed at Government House for the third straight day. They also assembled at the Supreme Court building and other government offices.

The disorders, including four days of rioting in the Kowloon section, began May 1 after police broke up demonstrations by striking artificial flower workers.

Hong Kong Communists and spokesmen in Red China spurred the outbreaks with demands that the British release all Chinese arrested during the riots, punish the police and guarantee against further "racial suppression of Chinese."

The Communists also are believed hoping to force a crackdown on Nationalist Chinese activities in this colony on the edge of Red China and to prevent its use by American servicemen on leave from Vietnam.

Pro-British demonstrators also gathered in the Kowloon section, and police broke up demonstrations by striking artificial flower workers.

Claims Dodd Ethics Probe Incomplete

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lobbyist Julius Klein has accused the Senate ethics committee of not making the necessary investigation he contends would remove a "cloud of doubt" about his association with Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Klein, who has been a registered agent for West German business interests, wrote Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., complaining the language of the ethics committee's report "leaves a cloud of doubt over my relationship with Sen. Dodd and more significantly over the sworn testimony of Sen. Dodd and myself."

The report, which recommended no action against Dodd in connection with the Klein aspect of its investigation, goes before the Senate June 13 for debate on a resolution to censure the senator for alleged financial misconduct.

Klein objected to the committee's conclusions that Dodd was influenced by him to make a trip to Germany in April 1964, to intervene with clients Klein feared he was losing after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's previous inquiry into his activities.

He took issue with the ethics committee's formal opinion that the relationship between Dodd and Klein "was indiscreet and beyond the responsibilities of a senator to any citizen, but that there was not sufficient evidence of wrongdoing to warrant recommendation of disciplinary action by the Senate."

Klein, a Chicago publicist, challenged the committee's statement that it was unable to get evidence on whether Dodd did any business favors in Germany for Klein because a foreign government was involved.

Klein said there was nothing irregular about his correspondence with Dodd.

Federal Budget Faces Trouble In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hard line adopted by the House on what Republicans repeatedly have attacked as a budget gimmick could spell more trouble for a federal budget which is becoming more complex with each passing week.

The House, at Republican insistence, curbed by $2.35 billion the government's power to raise money by selling shares, called participation certificates, in pools of government-owned mortgages and loans.

The net result, if it holds up, would be to increase the budget deficit by $2.35 billion for the fiscal year which begins July 1 if all other budget items remained the same—which they apparently won't.

Treasury officials said Saturday the administration is certain to ask the Senate to reverse the action and grant full power to sell PCs which are much like stock certificates.

Although $2.35 billion is relatively small compared with the entire budget, it would exceed the amount the administration plans to spend for aid to elementary and secondary education in the year beginning July 1.

The House curb could be enough to produce in fiscal 1968 the biggest peacetime administrative budget deficit in history.

The peacetime deficit record is a little over $112 billion.

Here's how the estimates for the coming fiscal year go:

1. In January, the administration estimated the deficit at $8.1 billion, which is more than the government actually spent in any year between 1920 and 1936.

2. Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Charles L. Schultz, the Budget Bureau director, officially revised the deficit last week to $11 billion but placed a variety of conditions on that figure. The deficit for fiscal 1967 ending June 30 was $11 billion.

3. The Business Council, a blue ribbon business panel, figured the fiscal 1968 deficit at up to $18 billion, including in that a $5 billion escalation in Vietnam and no tax increase. It used $8.1 billion—not the revised $11-billion figure—as its base.

4. The staff of the Senate House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation came up with an estimated deficit ranging from $16.9 billion to $17.4 billion based solely on what it said the government can expect from tax collections, without a surtax.

Fowler said his $11-billion estimate was based on the absence of any escalation in Vietnam, adoption of the proposed 6 per cent surtax by July 1, which he has conceded won't be met—and no further falloff in corporate tax collections.

Refusal by Congress to accept the administration's plan to sell $5 billion in PCs next fiscal year would drive the deficit even higher in each case.

He said Friday's bombing in downtown Hanoi was justified despite any civilian casualties which may have been incurred because "no city should stand in the way of victory."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said Saturday that the United States entry into the Vietnamese demilitarized zone was justified.

NEW YORK: Flying physicians Dr. Francis Sommer (L) of Bartonville, Ky. and Dr. John Rieger of Los Gatos, Calif., board their single engine plane here Friday in advance of their flight to commemorate the 40th anniversary of Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis trip. (UPI Telephoto)

Retrace Lindberg Flight

PARIS (AP) — Munching hard-boiled eggs and drinking fruit juice, two American doctors flew the Atlantic Saturday, using Charles A. Lindbergh's flight plan just 40 years after his history-making hop.

All went well until the last few minutes, when the doctors were steered away from Le Bourget airport, where Lindbergh landed, and were directed instead to tiny Cormeille Airport, about 20 miles northwest of Le Bourget.

The doctors, Francis Sommer of Bartonville, Ky., and John Rieger of Los Gatos, Calif., said they had been cleared to fly from New York to Le Bourget.

"But when we got into the Le Bourget flight pattern we were directed to the other airport," they added.

The Le Bourget administrative office said the airport was closed to private craft early Saturday morning because of unusual activity due to the Paris air show, which begins Friday.

The doctors, both sprouting beards and looking haggard, had omelets for a late breakfast after landing at Cormeille.

Stranded, they caught a ride into Paris with a news photographer.

They went off to a hotel. They hoped to go on to Nice, on the Riviera, Sunday, and then continue on around the world by way of Rome, Istanbul, Tehran, Karachi, Calcutta, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Tokyo.

World War III Threat

Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations has brought into the open the great, overriding question about the Vietnamese War. His opinion was given in response to inquiry as to where the fighting in Vietnam might lead. "In my view," he said, "if the present trend continues I am afraid direct confrontation first of all between Washington and Peking is inevitable. I hope I am wrong. I am afraid we are witnessing today the initial phase of World War III."

Some are inclined to discount the threat of world war as a result of the rising conflict in Vietnam. They may take comfort from Ambassador Goldberg's prompt rejoinder that the United States government does not share U Thant's "current assessment of the situation."

But U Thant's warning must be regarded as a serious pronouncement by one who is in a unique position to judge what is happening and what may happen. He was not boasting, but stating an important truth, when he said that he knew "the intention, not only of the principal parties primarily concerned, but also of some of the parties not directly involved at present." It is these other parties, notably China and the Soviet Union, that complicate the situation. It is the chance of their direct involvement that raises the spectre of a third world war.

Hotheads tend to shrug off that threat, as though undue concern about it were a mark of cowardice and irresolution. The sober truth, as most thoughtful men acknowledge, is that global war in the nuclear age is a catastrophe to be averted at almost any cost. It is folly to rationalize along the lines that we can safely proceed because Peking and Moscow would balk at direct confrontation.

Something else U Thant said is instructive in this connection. "If you recall the series of events leading to World War I and World War II," he said, "you will realize that the prologues were quite long. What I mean is the psychological climate, the creation of political attitudes, took some time and when conditions were ripe for some plausible excuse, then the global wars were triggered."

We are not immune from repetition of this pattern. The deterrent effect of nuclear arsenals has served us well, but it may not serve us forever. Something else is needed — a willingness to assess the developing situation with a realistic eye to the danger of which U Thant has warned, and to alter our course as realism demands. This is not at all equivalent to saying that we should simply pull out of Vietnam. But reassessment should not exclude the idea of drawing back instead of escalating the war, and meanwhile following every possible avenue toward settlement.

Subsidized Opinion

How far should intelligence agencies of a free society be allowed to go in secret efforts to influence thought and opinion—among free men, necessarily, as well as among those under totalitarian governments? The question is posed by the disclosure that Encounter, a leading British journal of opinion, has received indirect financial support from the CIA for more than a decade.

This disclosure has caused Stephen Spender, the British poet who helped to found Encounter in 1953 and has since contributed many thoughtful articles, to quit his present post as a contributing editor. He was justified in this action as protest against having been used unwittingly as a tool of government.

The CIA's support of Encounter may be defined by some on grounds that the cold war's so-called battle for the minds of men warranted the use of any weapon. We disagree. The secret subsidy of publications by agencies of government erodes one of the vital principles underlying a free society.

Communication

To the Editor:

It has come to my attention that there is a bill in Illinois Legislature to change the automobile license law to a flat fee of $24.00 instead of the present law based on horsepower. This would require the low mileage, small car driver to pay as much as the high mileage car.

This is discriminatory and would fail to yield the income necessary to rebuild our roads and should be opposed by all.

I hope that people will show enough concern to write their representative to take action against this bill.

The Great Society 'Fish' Delight Republican Gals

By DAVE BURGIN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

When some 5,000 Republican women took over the city for their biennial convention, they got to meet and hear some of the GOP stars.

They saw Michigan Gov. George Romney, Illinois Sen. Chuck Percy, Oregon Sen. Mark

Hatfield, Tennessee Sen. Howard

Baker and a host of others.

But what seemed to please the GOP girls most was a fishing lesson — what's a swim in Great Society waters.

"The kingfish (commonly known as the basking Lyndon loverfish — highly-migratory, unable to stand pressures of deep water, this fish is often seen in rivers from the Peder-nales to the Potomac. Prefers basking in limelight . . . known to adopt varying hues to hide its true colors . . . when pressed, known to turn on its attackers, but is seldom hooked. Unpopular in many areas of the nation, it is expected to become extinct after the 1968 season.

"False kingfish (also known as the obscure veepfish) — difficult to identify because of its transparency which enables it to blend at will into surroundings . . . it has a long tail, flashy jaws which work constantly and a large mouth . . . often attacked by other fish when straying from the protectiveness of the kingfish . . . its future is in doubt after 1968.

"Creeping Bobbyfish (often referred to as Kennedesis graspus) — extremely aggressive, with powerful tentacles, this fish has insatiable appetite and has even been known to attack the kingfish and obscure veepfish . . . sharp teeth and bushy-appearing head . . . migrates from state to state. Has many young, indicating species may be around for some time.

"Southern reef-runner (sometimes called Georgus Alabama or third-partyfish) — small but dangerous. Slashes at anything . . . will not integrate with other schools . . . it is a communal species, alternating with wife-fish to protect nesting grounds."

Gov. Romney's speech to the national Federation of Republican Women really didn't include anything new — except a couple of catch phrases.

Weaving the phrase, "There's a better way than LBJ," into key points as he enumerated the "ills of the Great Society," Romney thundered along, bringing 5,000 cheering ladies to the edges of their seats.

And the newsreel cameras were whirring and the reporters were scribbling furiously and the governor was picking up momentum . . .

"Do you agree there's a better way than LBJ?"

Wild applause.

"Yes, and our job as Republicans is to show the people of this nation how to achieve that better way."

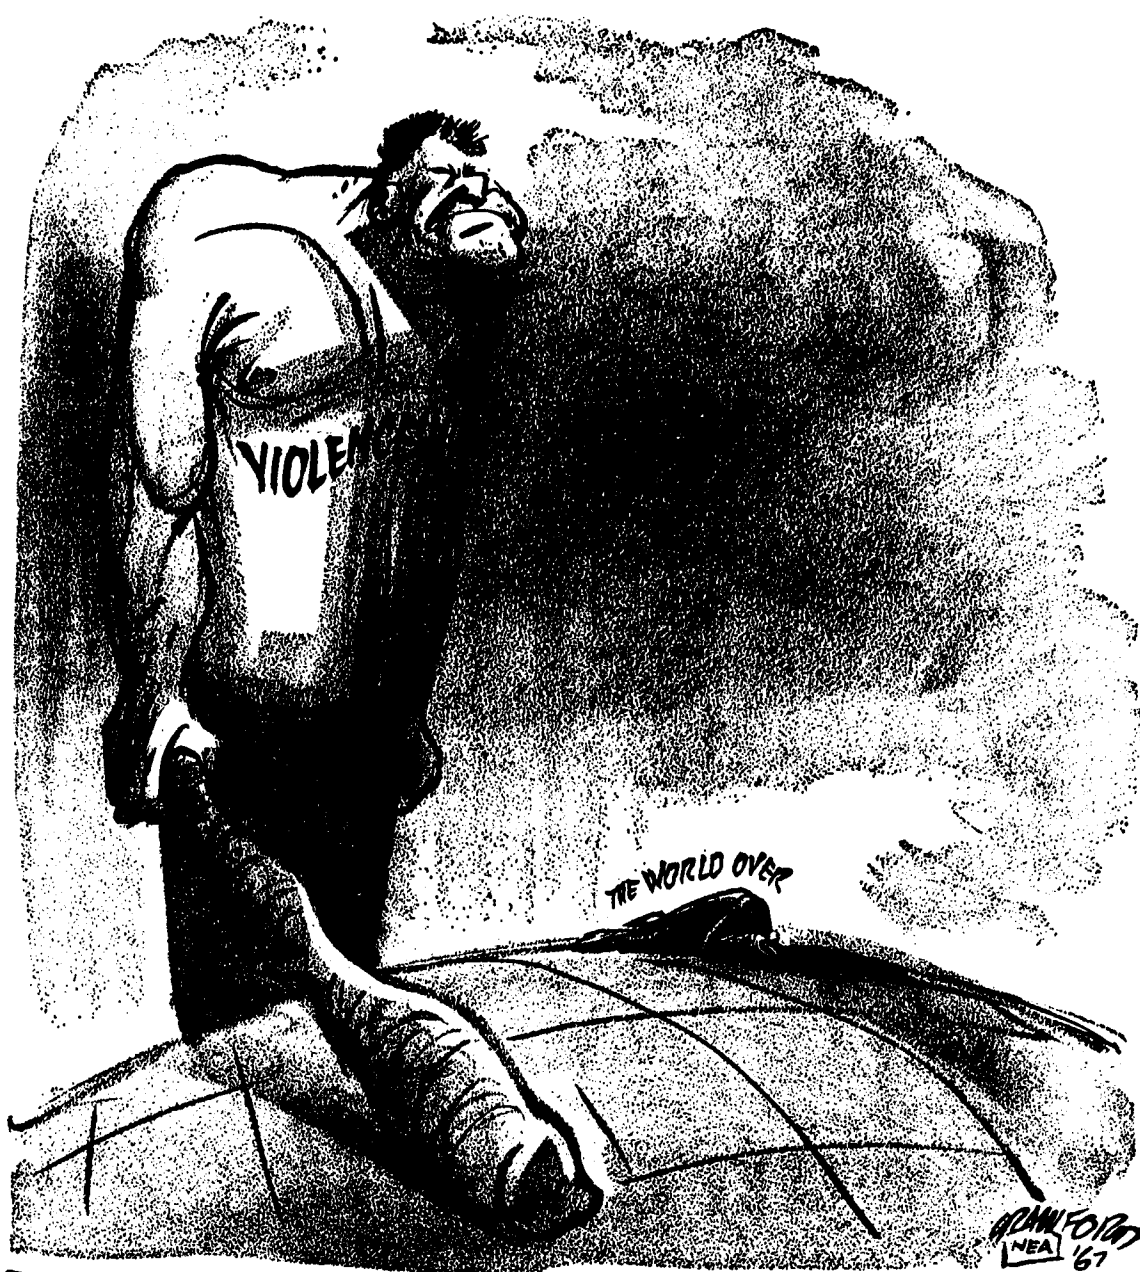

Wilder applause.

"Yes, and if we do, we can win in 1948."

Silence, except for the sound of faces turning crimson.

"Well," said Romney, trying to pick his speech off the floor, "we should have won that one, too."

Cong Terror Still Maims Vietnamese Will To Resist

By RAY CROMLEY

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

The school room was very quiet. It was a meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association in a small South Vietnamese town. The members were trying to figure out how they could prevent their teachers from being kidnapped and killed by the Viet Cong.

They were already short of teachers. Viet Cong kidnappings and threats had increased. The government's education representative in the area, in desperation, had told the citizens that unless they could protect their teachers they would get no further replacements.

He meant business. With low salaries and with no assurance they would live through the experience, young men were not volunteering for schools in the area.

Said one prominent local man in the PTA group: "But what can we do? We have no arms. The guerrillas will simply kill us." He looked bewildered.

They talked about the matter for awhile. Some thought that when they heard the VC were coming they might hide the teachers.

Then someone told the story of a teacher whom the VC had tracked down after losing sight of him for years. Others began relating stories of how the Viet Cong had killed or threatened villages who defied them.

Nothing was decided. The meeting broke up with the PTA members shaking their heads unhappily. They were deeply disturbed by what the VC were doing. But they were afraid and didn't know what to do.

This, then, is the South Vietnamese government's problem. No army can protect the teachers, hamlets, farmers' co-operative or labor union officials, candidates for office or youth association leaders from being kidnapped or killed by Viet Cong terrorists.

Only the people of the hamlets can do it.

Since the Viet Cong, to live, must depend on the villagers for food, information, recruits and labor, except in the border areas, the local population can destroy the VC by passive resistance.

But because there has not been local self-government in Vietnam for these past generations, the people do not yet know what they can do. They're used to following, not taking initiative. Unfortunately, too, in most of South Vietnam's villages, the people do not yet realize they have this power to destroy the VC.

Yet many desperately want to do something.

Talk to the friends of a school teacher who has been killed by VC enforcers. Visit the home of a candidate who has been killed because he dared to run for office. Look at the bewildered face of a fishing co-operative treasurer whose children have been murdered because he wouldn't co-operate with the guerrillas.

Walk through a South Vietnamese hamlet burned to the ground by the VC as an example. Look at the maimed bodies of men, women and children thrown out by the blast when a bus has been bombed by Viet Cong.

These people don't think of the VC as George Washingtons fighting for their country, but they feel helpless against them.

Ann Landers: Claims Wildly Inflated

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I teach sociology in a Connecticut college. I made a recent travel study around the nation, talking to college students on sex. Their reports indicate that a good-looking male student of 21, if he has a smooth tongue can seduce nine out of 10 of the pretty girls he takes out, regardless of her age, religion, social or economic background.

Are these young boys bragging or dreaming? —NO NAME PLEASE

Dear No Name: The percentage sounds wildly inflated to me. Moreover, I suspect males who make such claims are not only bragging and dreaming — they are also selling.

The idea that everybody is doing it has great sales appeal. The young men hoped to get this notion across to you as well as the girls whose resistance they are attempting to break down. Get it?

Dear Ann Landers: I was a heavy woman when my husband married me 17 years ago. I tried every imaginable kind of diet, and I did lose weight but I always gained it back.

Five years ago I put myself under a doctor's care. He found I had a thyroid condition and gave me medication and a strict diet. I lost 80 pounds. My husband kept saying, "You'll probably gain it all back."

I was very proud of myself, but my weight loss didn't accomplish what I had hoped for. My husband was still more interested in watching sports events on TV or going out alone. His idea of celebrating our wedding anniversary was to go to sleep early.

Within one year, I gained back the 80 pounds plus another 20. I've never been so depressed. I don't even feel like a human being, let alone a woman. If it weren't for our four children, I'd get a divorce. I see a social worker every week, and he tells me that no progress can be made until my husband comes in for talks. My husband refuses — says I'm the one who is nuts, not him. Please tell me what to do. —LORAIN

Dear L: If you've been seeing a social worker every week, you don't need me to tell you that your problem originates in your head. You are using food as a substitute for companionship and blaming your husband for your obesity. You need intensive therapy and I hope you get it soon.

Dear Ann Landers: I know this letter stands a one-in-a-million chance of getting printed because so many people write about serious problems, but I'm going to take a chance anyway.

I work in the mail department of a large organization. Every day we receive hundreds of letters to employees. The envelopes often read: Mary Smith, Macy's Department Store, New York.

Mary could be a corset buyer, a cleaning woman, or the secretary to the president. It takes a lot of time to hunt up Mary Smith, and the hundreds of other employees whose mail is inadequately addressed.

Please tell people to write the name of the department on the envelope, and the person's title, if he has one. —FRUSTRATED

Dear Frus: Here's your letter, and based on my own mail, which runs about 1,000 letters a day, your chances for getting a letter in print were not one in a million, but approximately one in 333, since I usually print three letters a day. Thank you for writing about a problem I've never heard of before. Who says there is nothing new under the sun?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Thoughts

The talk of a fool is a rod for his back, but the lips of the wise will preserve them. —Proverbs 14:3.

He is a wise man who does not grieve for the things which he has not, but rejoices for those which he has. —Epictetus, Greek philosopher.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

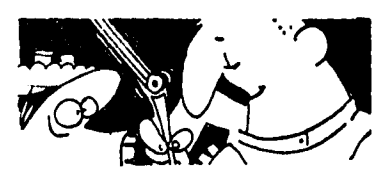

Although Canada has complete political autonomy, the queen of England is still considered the country's head of state, says The World Almanac. Actually, the queen has virtually no power. Her duties are confined to such actions as instituting new military decorations or dedicating new bridges or buildings when she is in Canada.

Specially Treated to Retain Its Rich Look

Never has there been a more versatile bedroom group that offers so much flexibility in refurnishing your bedroom than this rugged, masculine styled Solid Oak Group. Now you can custom decorate any bedroom, regardless of size, with a rich, warm beauty that will remain as lovely and serviceable as the day you bought it. It is so perfect for growing children as the design and construction stands up to the rigors of prankish antics of high-spirited, fun-loving children. Every piece has sturdy mortise and tenon construction with no-mar plastic tops that are so perfectly matched you cannot tell it from the solid oak. The spacious drawers are hand-fitted with dovetail construction and have smooth-operating, lubricated center guides. As the children grow older, you can add new pieces from this large selection and rearrange the room or make two individual rooms for them. Don't forget the master bedroom or guest room in your refurbishing plans! Every open stock piece is full-scale size and the rich, hand-rubbed coppertone finish, especially treated for retentive beauty, will give the room a warm, friendly charm that is so inherent of Early American furniture. Truly, it is the most economical purchase you could ever make... it is an investment in practicality, durability and years of cherished loveliness. Dove In Hawkish State

Fulbright Faces Tough Challenge

By HARRY KELLY
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, challenger of presidents and foreign policy for a quarter-century, faces his toughest political challenge as a dove in a state regarded as hawkish on the Vietnam war.

Two of Fulbright's most prominent fellow Democrats in Arkansas—former Govs. Orval E. Faubus and Sid McMath—think the senator is in trouble with the voters because of his attacks on administration war policy and so will be vulnerable in next year's primary.

Faubus and McMath, as well as Republicans bolstered by election gains last year, are seriously considering trying to unseat the maverick chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But they all note that a lot can happen in a year.

"Most people think Fulbright's strength will depend on what happens in Vietnam," said Faubus in an interview.

But, he added, "I think he's in the greater difficulty than he's ever been before."

"He'd be defeated today because the majority of people in Arkansas don't support his position on Vietnam," said McMath, a ruggedly handsome lawyer and Marine Reserve major general who has spoken often on Vietnam since making a September trip to the war zone. McMath denies publicly he is considering taking on Fulbright but it is an open secret in political circles that he is.

Some prominent Arkansas businessmen who have helped to bankroll the party as well as support Fulbright and Faubus, tend to discount reports Fulbright is in trouble.

But some of them acknowledge privately that if Faubus does challenge Fulbright—and they would prefer that he take on Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller—Fulbright will be in the political fight of his life. Fulbright has not announced whether he will run again.

However, Rockefeller believes Fulbright will be a formidable candidate and says he has gained strength in Arkansas "because he has the nerve, if you want to call it that, or the intestinal fortitude to disagree with the administration."

In an interview Sunday with Peter Jennings of ABC News, Rockefeller said, "The folks here in Arkansas are proud of our boy who stands up and takes a position, whether it is favorable or unfavorable."

The governor added he did not necessarily agree with Fulbright's stand.

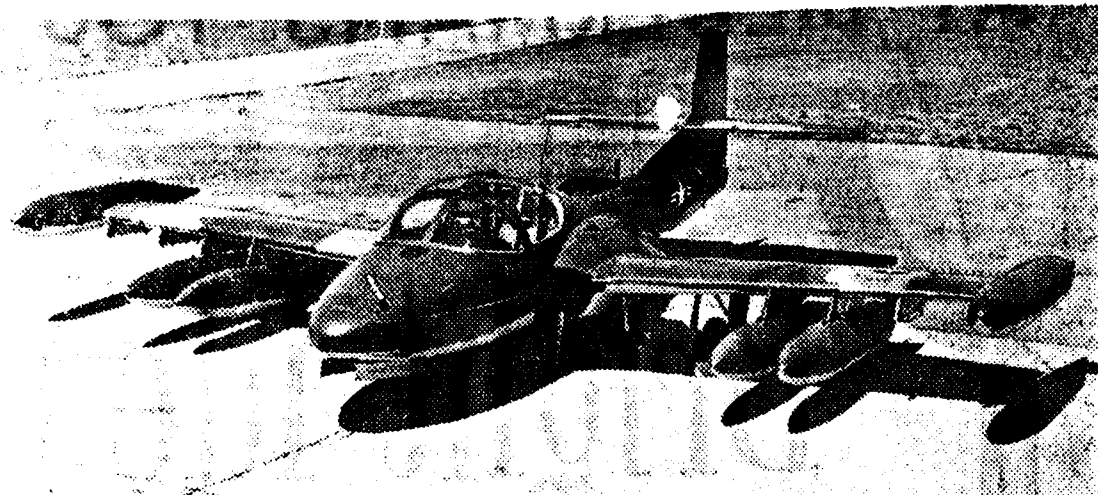

When rumors began reaching Fulbright that his Vietnam dissent was rubbing voters the wrong way, he sought to run the reports down, a source said. He concluded some had been planted by those "who want to shut him up on Vietnam," the source added.

One Little Rock observer said there had been "curbstone speculation that LBJ Democrats might be stirring up some opposition to Fulbright" because of the senator's attacks on Johnson's Vietnam policy.

However, those in the Fulbright camp as well as others attuned to political high frequency say there is no evidence of this.

In his 1962 re-election battle, Fulbright also was told he was in trouble, ran scared and defeated relative unknowns in the primary and general election by two to one margins.

Fulbright feels it is too early to worry much about the 1968 election. He won't announce until the end of the year, probably after stumping the state and sampling the reaction, whether he will run again.

NEW ATTACK PLANE for the U.S. Air Force is the A-37A, first combat-designated aircraft delivered to the military by a general aviation manufacturer. Built by Cessna, it is suited for operation from short, unimproved airstrips with a takeoff distance of 2,650 feet over a 50-foot obstacle. Designed for ground support missions, it has armor plating protection and will carry weapons ranging from 750-lb. bombs to rockets, flares and provisions for a 7.62 minigun. It has two jet engines, but is capable of operating on one near its gross weight of 12,000 pounds.

Ozark President To Give Lecture On IC Campus

Thomas L. Grace, president of Ozark Air Lines, Inc., will be on the campus of Illinois College Monday to speak to students in a "business management" course from 12:35 to 1:50 p.m. in Jones lecture hall. The public is invited also, according to Richard H. Schulze, instructor in the course.

Grace is a native of Nebraska and was a pilot in the U.S. Army Air Force from 1942 until 1946. He is married and has one daughter.

Following his military service, he joined Slick Airways in 1946 and held several administrative positions, including president from 1950-54, until the company consolidated with Flying Tiger Lines, Inc. — when he became executive vice-president of the new corporation.

He became a vice-president of Northeast Airlines until he took leadership of Ozark.

The Illinois College students in the management course have heard several business leaders, as part of case-study problems in the course. Previous speakers have included James Coultas, president of Elliott State Bank, Jacksonville; Saul Thomashow, public accountant and management consultant and Walter Sether, general manager of Mobil Chemical Co. Kordite Division.

Gregory Rites Held Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mildred Gregory, wife of Milo Gregory, were held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Cody and Son Memorial Home with Dr. Frank Nestler officiating. Mrs. G. O. Webster was the organist.

Serving as honorary pallbearers were Alfred Bossarte, Dean Cannell, Harry Crabtree, Odell Fellhauer, Walter Hamilton, Glenn Peterson, Ray Steinheimer, George Thayer, Jack Thomas and James Welch.

Pallbearers were Robert Brubaker, Robert Kraushaar, John Cully, Charles Tavender, Ivan Garrison, Bob Walker, Robert Gibson and William Zellman.

The Washington Elementary School faculty and staff and members of Alpha Phi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma attended the service in a group.

Burial was in Memorial Lawn cemetery.

DIVORCES GRANTED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Circuit Judge Creel Douglass awarded final decrees in two cases of divorce last week in Morgan county circuit court: Mildred A. Rider vs. Robert L. Rider on grounds of adultery; Paula E. Lawrence vs. Richard O. Lawrence on grounds of desertion.

Cases handled by the clerk: speeding violations, Judi A. Flynn, 1 North Crescent Drive, $12; Mary Logue, Route 2, $6; Patricia A. Little, 468 South Mauvaisterre, $10; Clyde Little, 936 N. Prairie, $10; Ned L. Price, Mt. Sterling, $8; Clarence H. Campbell, 569 Sandusky, $8; Gardner C. Hanks, 407 Turner Hall, $9; Lawrence Echerd, Diverson, $10; Archie W. Briggs, 1145 S. East, $7; Norma L. Gunnels, 405 E. Laurel, $11; Rose E. Woodrum, Winchester, $8.

Other violations handled by the clerk: Tom Long, Route 1, parked in traffic lane, $10; Harvey L. Meadows, 851 S. Prairie, expired safety test, $10; Edward L. Smith, 341 Freedman, improper passing, $10; Michael D. Moore, 830 W. State, excessive noise, $10; Vincent Lonergan, Murrayville, expired safety test, $10; Harold Lomelino, Palmyra, passing in no passing zone, $10.

All fines listed were subject to the addition of five dollars court costs.

Nichols Park
Ladies Golf

The Nichols Park Ladies Golf Association officially opened its 1967 season May 8, despite the cool, rainy weather. Fran Chumley and Evelyn Cruzan did not seem to mind the temperature as they managed to have the longest drives of the morning and each took home a new ball. Betty Price kept her putter warm and took home a new ball for low putts.

This week Betty Dyer tied Fran Chumley for low score honors. The novelty event was deducting penalties on #2, 5, and 8, from the total score. Betty Price had the lowest score for this event.

We certainly welcome Maggie Hatcher, Maxine Cumby, Jessie Colclasure and Ruby Brummett to our group, as well as Virginia Olson and Marge Walker. We hope you will enjoy your Tuesdays at Nichols Park. The committee also welcomes the familiar faces of Fran Chumley, Betty Price and Betty Dyer. We also want to invite any other women interested in golf to join us this Tuesday and every Tuesday throughout the summer.

If any one would like more information as to the coming events, please contact Bill Lynn at the Pro Shop or Marge Howard 243-2691, Lucille Eberhardt 245-4784, or Evelyn Cruzan 245-7973.

I have just a couple weeks of school before I can join in the fun and not have to listen to "Little Chumley" say "Mother's playing golf right now." Am really looking forward to the season ahead and until then good golfing Ladies!

— Marge Howard

Lutheran Women At District League Meet

The Ladies Aid of Salem Lutheran church held a business session May 18 with Mrs. P. J. Davidsmeyer presiding. Mrs. Thomas Hardwick acted as secretary and Mrs. C. A. German as treasurer. After the singing of a hymn, the Rev. H. C. Rose led in responsive reading and prayer.

Welcomed as a new member of the society was Mrs. John Reinders.

Mrs. Lena Buescher and Mrs. Kenneth Price of the Guild had called upon the sick and shut-in members of the congregation and reported.

As a Mother's Day tribute, Mrs. H. C. Rose had arranged the pictures of Service Men of Salem congregation who are now on active duty in Vietnam or in other fields of military

Debate Seen If Constitutional Convention OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — If two more states ask Congress to call a constitutional convention to reverse the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote rule, the one thing certain is that there will be a long and heated debate.

Much of this will center, at least in the early stages, on whether a number of the petitions already received are valid applications for a convention.

By the count of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., 32 states have now petitioned for a convention. He proposes, if two more come in, to march on the Senate floor with a motion that Congress call a convention.

But Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., and others dispute the Dirksen count.

First of all, they point to resolutions adopted by the Washington and Wyoming legislatures in 1965. It was not until the following year that the Supreme Court made its pronouncement that both houses of a legislature must be apportioned on the basis of population.

What the Wyoming and Washington legislatures asked was that the federal courts be foreclosed from considering questions of apportionment of either house of a legislature. At the time they acted, the federal courts were just edging into what the late Justice Felix Frankfurter once called this political thicket.

Of all the petitions, there are only six which apparently are not questioned by anybody.

Four of these came in this year from Colorado, Illinois, Indiana and North Dakota. The other two came earlier from Kentucky and Oklahoma.

Tydings asserts that legislatures in the other petitioning states were all malapportioned at the time and that hence the validity of their petitions is questionable.

The other states which adopted petition resolutions in 1965 or 1966 are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia.

Dirksen, who has been using his influence around the country to promote petitions, twice failed in efforts to have the Senate approve a constitutional amendment to permit one house of a legislature to be apportioned on factors other than population.

Since there never has been a constitutional convention except for the first one in 1787, there is no established yardstick for measuring the validity of a petition. It is a question that most constitutional experts view as nonjusticiable, meaning it could not be put up to the courts.

So Congress alone will have to decide what is valid.

Enemy MIGs

National Highway 1 from the southern border of the DMZ to the Ben Hai River, reported killing 250 North Vietnamese soldiers in heavy fighting Saturday. The airborne soldiers also captured 26 weapons. Their casualties were described by a government spokesman as light.

On the Vietnamese right, Marines in the six-mile wide buffer zone came under furious howitzer fire but reported no contact with North Vietnamese regulars.

The announced goal of this penetration into the zone that was set up by the Geneva conference of 1954 is to root out all North Vietnamese from the southern half. The Geneva conference ended the fighting between the French and the Vietnamese in Indochina.

In the air war, the U.S. command said the air battles broke out when American planes raided a truck repair facility eight miles north of Hanoi. Clearing weather opened the way for repeated raids on the north.

U.S. Air Force planes from the 8th Tactical Wing based in Thailand reported they destroyed three of the older MIG17s and probably got a fourth.

Pilots in swift Phantom jets based in Da Nang reported they encountered MIG21s, the latest and fastest in the North Vietnamese air force, about 25 miles north of Hanoi and shot down two of them with air-to-air missiles.

In the demilitarized zone, Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, said he did not believe the North Vietnamese had any howitzers in the south half of the zone. Earlier it was believed the big guns were in the south half.

Hochmuth said his Marines are determined "to clean up the DMZ" and are not necessarily after enemy howitzers that killed 150 Leathernecks and wounded more than 1,000 in the past month.

In three days of operations in the demilitarized zone, South Vietnamese troops reported they have killed 342 enemy soldiers.

The U.S. Marines said they have killed 208 of the enemy since Thursday in the demilitarized zone and in related action just south of the zone.

The Marines reported their casualties in this area at 36 men killed and 290 wounded since Thursday.

The Marines and Vietnamese units are operating south of the Ben Hai River and along a line about 15 miles from the South China Sea coast eastward. The Ben Hai flows through the middle of the zone.

So far, there has been no indication the allied troops will push farther north against strong enemy positions on the North Vietnamese side of the river.

Only light, scattered action was reported in 15 other announced ground operations going on inside the country.

U.S. Navy ships kept up their gunfire support missions, many of them backing up the ground operations along the demilitarized zone. Radio Hanoi said its defense forces heavily damaged and set ablaze two U.S. warships near the demilitarized zone Thursday.

On the political front, the military regime's unity was threatened by the announcement Saturday that the chief of state, Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu would run for the presidency in the Sept. 3 elections.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, who already had announced his candidacy, appeared surprised when reporters told him of Thieu's decision. Ky has said he would drop out if Thieu chose to run. Asked what he would do now, Ky replied: "I don't know. I will have a talk with him first."

The Weather Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS STATE

The sun wore a halo Saturday in Illinois.

The halo was sighted Saturday morning in northern and central Illinois, describing a full circle around the sun. Dozens of observers telephoned U.S. Weather Bureau offices.

The bureau's Chicago office explained that the phenomenon appeared as a sparkling, cloud-white ring surrounding the sun at some distance. It was accompanied by a reddish, sparkling haze around the sun's edges.

Halos appear sometimes with the formation of cirrostratus clouds composed mostly of ice crystals, and floating more than five miles from the earth's surface, the bureau explained.

The halo was not sighted in most of Southern Illinois, where there was a cover of low clouds. There were a few sprinkles of rain in the south.

Temperatures at mid-afternoon ranged from 49 on Chicago's Lakefront to 67 at Metropolis. Other readings included Chicago Midway 56, Chicago O'Hare 60, Quad Cities 58, Peoria 55, Champaign-Urbana 61, Quincy 57, Rockford 58, Springfield 55, Vandalia 60 and Belleville 59.

Parolees Rights

monly denied most persons after they are imprisoned for serious crimes.

It urges also that parole be considered a right, not a privilege, and asked that parolees be allowed counsel to fight their cases in the event they are in danger of having parole revoked.

The commission hit at professional societies that influence licensing practices in professions and businesses such as medicine, law and barbering. The report says these groups' refusal to sanction licensing of ex-convicts often hampers efforts of the former prisoners to rehabilitate themselves.

The latest suggestions from the panel are contained in a report on corrections prepared by a group that studied the problem for the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice. It was the fourth of nine such task force reports to be issued.

Most of these reports were summarized in the commission's overall report issued in February. But the recommendations of the panel on corrections dealing with civil rights of prisoners and ex-convicts were not contained in the original report.

The commission believes that the focus of correctional institutions should be in most instances on rehabilitative treatment, and specifically methods of reintegrating the offender into the community.

In this connection, it concedes rehabilitation efforts may be judged by some to conflict with at least one goal of the criminal justice system — to deter crime.

LEGION AUXILIARY PLANS POPPY DAY AT CHANDLERVILLE

CHANDLERVILLE — American Legion Auxiliary 694 held a meeting at the Legion Hall Tuesday evening with 13 members present.

The president, Mrs. Ted Ingram, opened the business session which included a discussion of plans for Poppy Day, scheduled in Chandlerville, May 25.

Members of the auxiliary will conduct a Poppy Day canvass. A $5 donation toward the purchase of a washing machine for Bell Cottage at Normal was approved. A picnic for all Legion and Auxiliary members will be held at the school June 11.

A committee to nominate officers for the coming year was named.

Bingo was played and prizes awarded. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. G. L. Jurgens and Mrs. Robert Potts.

Hostesses for the June meeting will be Mrs. Helen Amant, Mrs. Elda Dietsch and Mrs. Marion Dietsch.

Milk Industry Strike, Lockout Ends In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Milk deliveries were back to normal Saturday with the settlement of a one-day strike and lockout, the second such stoppage in less than three weeks.

Negotiators for the dairy industry and some 4,000 drivers reached a wage and benefit settlement shortly after 6 a.m.

Mayor Richard J. Daley, acting as go-between, had kept the negotiators at the task for more than 12 hours before they reached an accord.

The contract, subject to driver ratification, provides for a $5 weekly increase in base pay this year and an additional $4 next year.

Disputes involving wholesaler and retail distribution scheduling were left for future bargaining.

The proposed pay increases were the same as those rejected by the drivers after negotiations May 3. This time, however, representatives of the Associated Milk Dealers agreed to pay drivers for the three days they were idled by strikes and lockouts.

Thomas J. Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Milk Drivers Union, Teamsters local 753, said he expects the drivers to ratify the new pact. A date for balloting has not been set, but it is expected to take place within two weeks.

Milk deliveries halted May 1 and 2 after drivers struck one firm, touching off a lockout by the other 60 members of the association.

Milk quickly disappeared from store shelves as housewives stocked their refrigerators.

The drivers rejected a settlement reached May 3, but a truce kept milk deliveries going until the union struck the Sidney Wanzel & Sons dairy early Friday.

The employers' association responded with another lockout, which kept milk off the streets until Saturday morning's settlement.

OK Construction Of 5 Reservoirs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction of five reservoirs in Indiana and Illinois is recommended in a report by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.

The report, announced today, also recommends a flood-protection project at Marion, Ind.

The recommendations were made in the third of a series of reports on water-resource improvements in the Washbasin. Five other reservoirs recommended in two previous reports have been authorized by Congress and are in the planning stage.

The report now goes to the chief of Army engineers. Thereafter it will be submitted to the states and federal agencies concerned, and then to the secretary of the Army. If he approves, it will go to Congress.

The reservoirs and their estimated cost:

Louisville, on the Little Washbasin near Louisville, Ill., $20,698,000 federal cost and $8,302,000 nonfederal.

Helms, on the Silet Fork near Iuka, Ill., $13,500,000 and $9,100,000.

Big Walnut, on the Big Walnut near Greencastle, Ind., $21,618,000 and $14,729,000.

Blue, on the Big Blue near Morris-town, Ind., $22,618,000 and $6,582,000.

Downeyville, on the Flatrock near Moscow and Milroy, Ind., $17,489,000 and $16,211,000.

The flood-protection project on the Mississippi River at Marion, Ind., would consist of levees, floodwalls and drainage facilities. The federal share of the cost would be $1,240,000, the local $320,000.

'Love Of Learning' Plays Smaller Part

Education for education's sake in America is lost, according to Robert L. Gold, assistant professor in the department of History, Southern Illinois University.

Gold hurled the accusation to students, parents, faculty and administration gathered last week for the annual honors day convocation.

More than 400 students from all four classes received recognition for outstanding scholarship at SIU.

"The universities of America are an abyss, a primeval dark pit where we, the faculty, and you, the students, drift continually farther apart," Gold said.

He said the quest for knowledge has been pushed aside by two other goals of today's college student.

These new goals are social realization and social obligation.

Students attend college because they feel they "are supposed to" and because a college degree is required for employment today, he said.

Another failing of American universities is that "students have become a numbered army, unknown to administration, faculty or themselves," Gold contended.

"I teach all too frequently in classes where 300 to 400 students sit before me whose names I will never know," he said.

But the issue is not one sided. "Faculty members are, too, a as a substantial number of Soviet-made, radar-controlled SAM and 100mm guns.

Vital to this North Vietnamese air defense is a highly modern radar system for early warning and for tracking oncoming U.S. aircraft.

Intelligence sources say this air defense system is controlled from a central point, with data on the speed and probable course of American planes fed to the gun positions and to surface-to-air missile sites.

The number of North Vietnamese radars has increased by about 15 times, sources say.

The SAMs, while relatively ineffective in knocking down American planes, have caused U.S. pilots to fly at times below 5,000 feet to evade them. And this has put the American planes well into the effective range of conventional antiaircraft guns.

Earl Derby declared in the House of Lords, on May 11, that the real history of the late Irish rebellion would not be made public, because foreign govern-

The Emperor of Brazil, on May 4, issued a decree abolishing slavery in the Empire. By its terms all children born after April 8, 1867, are free, and all living slaves are emancipated on April 1867.

Queen Victoria has recently invested seven Knights of the Bath with the Grand Cross, and twenty Knights Commissioners of the Second Class, with their appropriate insignia. Though the names of the fortunate persons thus honored have hardly been heard before, yet their immortality is now, of course, secure.

More Than One Woman Pilot

We recently received this communication from Paul H. Vannier, generalissimo and waterboy at the Naples Boatel:

Dear Cecil:

Not in the way of detracting any glory from the Beardstown "river families" or Mrs. Mary Hulet, "the only woman in the United States to get a license to pilot," as chronicled in the May 11 issue of your paper but to set the records straight for posterity:

Naples dovetails into the era of steamboats with many owned by Naples citizens and the Naples-St. Louis Packet Co. operated out of this port with a host of pilots living here.

The "Fannie Keener," built in 1897 for Keener Bros., was shallow draft and kept the Naples-Peoria freight and passenger service open when the river was at low stages.

It was named for a great-aunt of Edith Keener, who still resides in Naples.

Edith K's mother, Anna M. Keener was issued pilot license No. 1 for women July 11, 1899—license number 7711 and it was renewed June 28, 1904, license number 13,654. These licenses were issued by the officer in charge, U. S. Coast Guard—Marine Inspection, Room 216, Old Custom House, St. Louis.

She was pilot on the "Edith K," an excursion boat named for her daughter. It had accommodations for 150 passengers.

Mrs. Keener died in 1960 at the age of 87.

Buster Welch, a retired Naples resident, remembers the "Fannie Keener" which sank near Naples shortly after the 1904-5 World's Fair in St. Louis.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian:

There is something wrong about the weather just now. Although the calendar says May 18th, it is cold and all the almanacs are out of kilter.

Short skirts are getting to be quite a rage here. There is a great contrast between the short dress of this season, and the sweeping trails of last season. Chignons too, are fast disappearing, perhaps in disgust.

Cass county residents have been assessed income tax in the amount of $4,925.85, announces C. F. Diffenbacher, assistant assessor. Samuel H. Petefish has the highest assessment, $371.81, followed by W. H. Crum, George Kehl and John A. Petefish.

J. Henry Shaw, Esq., has been at considerable expense in obtaining all the books and papers relating to the new National Bankruptcy law; also the judicial decisions of both English and American courts upon that subject, and is ready to help the unfortunate in obtaining a discharge from their debts in the U.S. Courts. (ADV.)

From the Carrollton Gazette:

We are informed that our railroad has purchased nine new engines and that it will be finished and trains running ere winter. Special trains, laden with rail and ties, are passing to the north end almost daily. One of the engines, and a fine one, too, "Gov. Yates," passed yesterday. Let the good work go on.

On Saturday last a man, whose name we did not learn, was assaulted in town by some ruffians, and, we are told, came out worse for wear. The true cause of the whole difficulty was whisky.

We are informed that on Sunday last a fatal shooting affray took place in our neighboring town of White Hall, resulting in the killing of a man by the name of McGlothin and wounding another by the name of Garrison. We have heard no particulars, except that they had some private difficulty, in which whisky played a prominent role.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

A barge loaded with stone was sunk in the Illinois river, near the mouth of Apple Creek, on Saturday, and two of the hands drowned.

Two Portuguese, Manuel and Chris, had a lively "turn up" on west Court street on Tuesday. First round in favor of Manuel; second round hotly contested; Chris got his opponent's head "in chancery" and pegged away until Manuel "caved." Each fined five dollars and costs.

The meeting of old settlers of Morgan county, to be held in the Public Square of this city on Saturday next, to talk over old times and recount the early history of the settlement, promises to be largely attended and very interesting. Should the meeting be large it will adjourn to the Fair Grounds, where a picnic will be a prominent feature of the occasion.

TURNER'S MAY FESTIVAL—In consequence of the bad weather last Monday, the annual May festival of the Jacksonville Turner association, at the Brewery Groves, was postponed till next Monday.

Another large party leaves to-day on the "Belle of Pike," Capt. Abrams, for St. Louis to see the wonderful "Black Crook" show.

HUMORS

Marry young, and, if circumstances require it, often.

The last case of jealousy is that of a lady who discarded her lover, a sea captain, because he hugged the shore.

"The greatest organ in the world," some wicked old bachelor says, "is the organ of speech in women, because it is an organ with no stops."

In an obituary notice of an old citizen an Ohio paper says, "He was honest and industrious until enfeebled by disease and age."

Euripides was one of the very few men who have been choked to death by the seed of a grape, but a great many die every day from swallowing the juice.

The man who has nothing to boast of but his illustrious ancestry is like a potato—the only good belonging to him is underground.

FEATHERS OR LACE

Contemporary fashions deserve contemporary underwear. How would you feel about wearing satin boxer shorts, underpants, suits or dresses? Borrowed from the men but, then, isn't everything? Bloomers rimmed with feathers for night prowling or lace for conservative daytime wearers. Now we know what goes with what!

The Income Tax
In 1867

It was income tax time in the U.S.A. a hundred years ago today, due and payable June 1.

People wondered what the bureaus in Washington City could do with so much money. Taxes were becoming oppressive. The levy on the 1866 income was 5% of the assessment, which was total income, less a $1,000 personal exemption, less any taxes paid, less "repairs" to the taxpayer's residence or place of business.

Some pretty rich folks didn't pay any taxes at all; they had spent nearly all their income on "repairs."

Last week I wrote that I didn't know how much tax John T. Alexander paid on his assessment of $50,000. During the week I found out he paid $2,500, exactly 5% of the assessment.

Land And Banking

Other high assessments included the Estate of Jacob Strawn, Deceased, $15,952; Phebe G. Strawn, his widow, $12,571; A. E. Ayers, $12,245; A. E. was the "& Co." of M. P. Ayers & Co., Bankers and Exchange Brokers. But he made a little more money than his brother, who was assessed on a net income of $12,141. John Robertson, wealthy landowner who was the principal money man in the new First National Bank of those days, paid on $10,423.

In the "over $5,000" class were Lloyd W. Brown, northeast of Alexander, $9,930; William Brown, Jacksonville banker, $7,974; James O. Strawn of near Orleans, $7,440, and W. S. Hook, a teller at the Ayers bank who later became an exceedingly rich man through the presidency of the Jacksonville & Southeastern railroad and ownerships of Jacksonville's first light and power plant and the street car company.

Other Rich Folks

Twelve Morgan men were in the over $3,000 and under $5,000 class.

This was led by Samuel French, Chapin farmer and landowner, $4,549. Next came Robert Hockenbush, wholesale and retail dealer in drugs, paints, oils, etc., who later helped develop what is now Elliott State bank, $4,520. Then came Murray McConnell, the town's first attorney, $3,985; J. M. Masters, who owned acre after acre around Murrayville, $3,808; John F. Joy of Joy Prairie, northwest of Jacksonville, $3,307; F. E. Dayton Co., a partnership made up of the Adams boys, drugs, medicines and hardware, $3,200.

In seventh position was Lyman Chapin, co-founder of the town, $3,198; Julius Strawn, $3,049; L. L. Adams, partner in the Dayton Co. who personally held the rights on two sure-cure patent medicines that sold very well in those days, $3,212.

Then came Joseph A. Green who had many acres all around the town, $3,116. Samuel Wood, big land owner and stock feeder southeast of town, reported $3,000, as did William Cassell, livestock dealer.

The big money was obviously in land and banking. The professions didn't do so good in those days.

Plenty Of Lawyers

There were about 22 lawyers in Jacksonville then, but only four paid any tax. McConnell paid $199.25 on his assessment of $3,985 net income; I. L. Morrison was assessed $2,721; J. Ketchum, $1,693; William Thomas, $1,351.

There were probably 25 physicians here in 1866 but only three of them paid tax: Dr. Andrew McFarland, superintendent of the Central Insane Asylum who owned considerable land west of Jacksonville, paid on an assessment of $2,290; Dr. David Prince, $428, and Dr. G. Y. Shirley, $205.

There were four dentists, but only one of them was assessed. This was G. V. Black, lately of Winchester and who was then innovating the technique of removing diseased tissue from the tooth and plugging the cavity with an amalgam. He was later termed "The Father of Modern Dentistry" and he paid $44.95 tax on a net income of $859.

Among The Educators
School teachers weren't much bothered by income tax in those days. Rev. Dr. Charles Adams, property owner and president of Illinois Female College, was assessed $2,771; Dr. J. M. Sturtevant, president of Illinois College, $797, and Prof. Rufus Crampton, also of I.C., head of the mathematics and surveying department, head of the Jacksonville Business College, and city engineer, $628.

How is that for irons in the fire?

The newspaper business was just so-so. J. J. Ironmonger, printer, and Col. G. P. Smith, editor, co-owners of the Daily and Weekly Jacksonville JOUR-NAL, were assessed $761 and $794, respectively. James R. Bailey, editor and publisher of the weekly SENTINEL, wasn't assessed at all. Judging from his paper and what he charged for advertising I can truly believe he didn't make the $1,000 exemption.

Politics Not So Hot

And things were slow in city politics, with only one alderman, Robert Osborne being listed. He was the town's No. 2 stock dealer and was assessed $2,345. Mayor John Mathers didn't pay any tax and his opponent for the job in the April election, Elizur M. Wolcott paid $5.75 on an assessment of $135.

Everybody complained about the blood-sucking taxes and wondered what the leeches in Washington City could possibly do with all the money coming in.

Well, the boys on Capitol Hill didn't know what to do with all of it, so the law was repealed following the tax on 1868 income, payable in 1869.

There has been a vast improvement in the quality of bureaucrats since that time. Today the boys could spend everybody's total income and still complain of "inadequate funding."

General Ord, commanding in Arkansas, has notified the legislature of that State not to assemble. A new Legislature is to be elected by the whole people, including the newly-made citizens.

The Charleston street-railroad cars were thrown open on May 3 to whites and blacks alike.

All efforts at arranging a permanent peace with the Indian tribes living along the Platte and Arkansas rivers appears to have failed.

The Commissioners of Quarantine on April 30 selected Coney Island as a quarantine station.

A Mr. White was recently prevented from lecturing on "Romanism" by a mob at Quincy, Illinois. The citizens of that town have since vindicated the right to free speech, and protected him while he delivered his lecture.

There is now an eight-hour day in the State of New York as well as in Illinois, and in both cases it can only be regarded as a bid for the favor of the ignorant. Why not agree two feet shall make a yard? Why not pass a law equalizing wealth?

The South Carolina Republican State Convention met at Charleston on May 7. Only one white man was present.

A Western exchange says: Already the annual croakers are out crying, "No peaches," "Wheat winter killed," "Hog cholera," "Dead grape-vines," "Poor prospect for apples, etc., etc."

The city of Richmond has been in a ferment in regard to the "car question," which has been, at length, settled by the arrangement that four cars should be open to the general public, whites and blacks alike, and two other cars (making the entire number on the line) be appropriated exclusively for ladies and children — The company reserving the right to say who are ladies.

'Superdog' Breeders Reports Progress

MULDERSDRIFT, South Africa (AP) — For thirteen years, South African geneticist Dr. Daan Marais has been trying to breed the world's largest and smartest dog. Now, 800 dogs later, he feels he's nearing success. His ultimate aim is a mammoth watchdog and hunter with supercanine intelligence, strong and courageous enough to tackle a leopard or baboon, the scourge of cattle farmers in southern Africa.

Quit Gridiron For Role In Viet Reform Program

HONOLULU (AP) — Big Bill Miller is turning his back on a football career to take a difficult, dangerous job in Vietnam, far from the roar of the crowd.

Miller, who played defensive tackle in 1962 with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League, has been a player-coach with the Continental League's Charleston Rockets in his native West Virginia.

Now he is giving up the game, and temporarily leaving his wife and six children, to help the South Vietnamese government in its pacification program.

He won't be carrying a rifle. His weapons will be good will and a desire to help the Vietnamese peasant.

Miller is in Honolulu undergoing intensive training with the Agency for International Development. He became interested in the Vietnam program while working in his spare time with the Action for Appalachian Youth-Community Development in West Virginia.

It was there that he decided to make a career in community development.

"I had gone about as far as I could in salary and in a position to make decisions," he said. "I needed more experience in community development. I knew I wasn't going to get any more degrees with six children to feed, so I decided to sign up for Vietnam."

"I'm sort of a flag-waver, and what's happening in Southeast Asia will determine this country's policies for a long time to come. I feel I've got to contribute something to help. At my age—30—I've got to do it now."

Quit Gridiron For Role In Viet Reform Program

when I can be effective."

Miller will leave for Vietnam in July, along with about 38 other volunteers.

Miller's family is vacationing in Hawaii while he is in training, and "Moe"—as he calls his wife—is as enthusiastic as he about the project.

Mrs. Miller and the children plan to live on Taiwan during the two years Miller is working with the Vietnamese. The children range in age from 1 to 10.

SCHUYLER, BROWN HISTORICAL GROUP HAS FIELD TOUR

MT. STERLING — Members of the Schuyler - Brown County Historical Society took their first field trip Sunday, May 14th. Members met at Ripley Park.

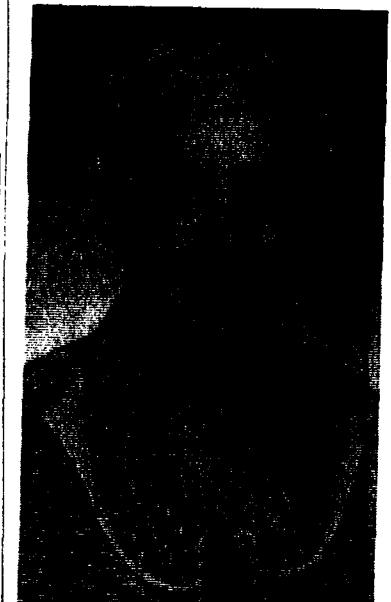

Sid Gaddis of Mt. Sterling displayed pottery and pictures of the William Greenwell home, the Greenwell mill and Ripley stores.

Janet Henninger told how the small community of Ripley began. Guy Seckman and William Fey of Mt. Sterling, told interesting stories of people and life in Ripley.

The group visited the Dale Wear farm and bridge where Mr. Ward showed pictures, maps, etc. At Greenwell's mill they heard Sib Gaddis, George Long and Guy Seckman explain the operation of the mill and told of the Greenwell families.

The Society has composed a news bulletin for members, which will be mailed twice each year.

HONORED

Mrs. Edna Ramsey Shannon

A former Murrayville resident, Mrs. Edna Ramsey Shannon, housemother for Iota Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity at Eureka College, was honored recently at birthday dinner given by the Tekes at Toluca.

A $500 check for an all expense trip to California was presented to Mrs. Shannon by John Jones, fraternity president. The gift represents donations from 55 of the approximately 250 Tekes that have been activated since "Ma" Shannon began as housemother 21 years ago, and from the actives and pledges now belonging to Tau Kappa Epsilon. Mrs. Shannon expects to leave for California June 17.

Mrs. Shannon and her mother operated the telephone office at Murrayville for many years, before she accepted the post as housemother.

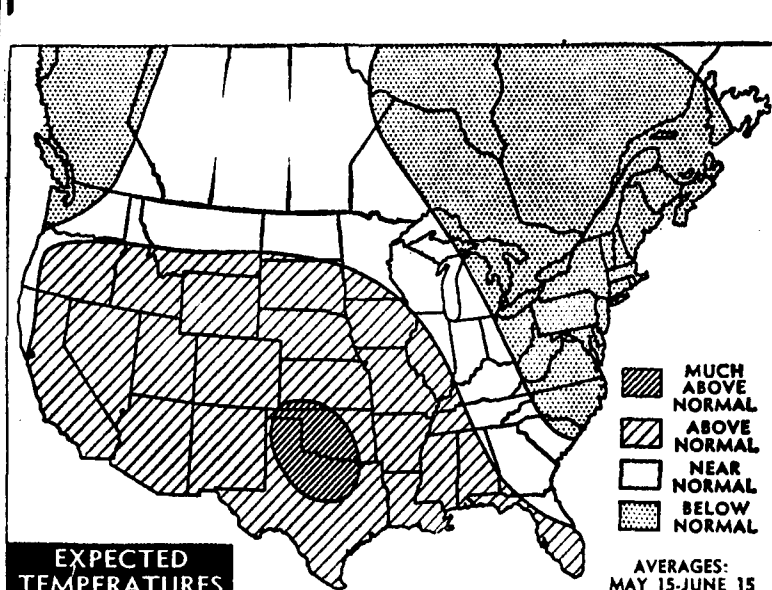

CONCORD CLUB HAS BANQUET

The Concord Woman's club held its annual spring banquet in the Blackhawk restaurant's Starlight Room May 10. Eleven members were present for the dinner.

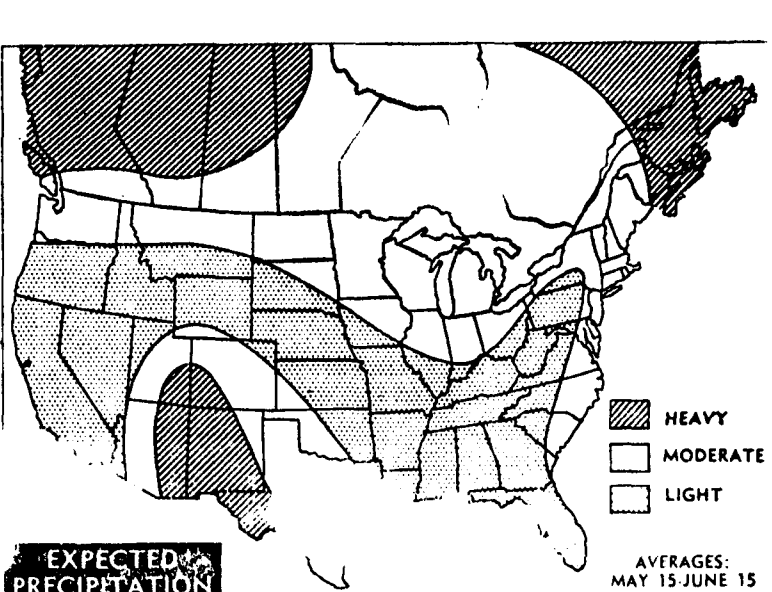

The new president, Mrs. John Walters, conducted the business session.

June Soon

Maps show Weather Bureau's estimated forecasts of average temperature, precipitation through June 15.

Temperatures are expected to average below seasonal normal over the middle Atlantic states and the northeast. Near normal over the northern and central Pacific coast, northern border states, and in a band from the upper Great Lakes to the south Atlantic coastal states.

Precipitation is expected to be subnormal over most of the south, the northern and central plains, the great basin, and most of the west coast states. Above normal totals are indicated for the southern plateau. Elsewhere near normal precipitation is in prospect.

Plan Reunion Party For WWI Vets In Fall

A Sunday in the month of September has been selected for the Get-Together-Party for the "golden boys of 1917 World War One." The hours will be from mid-noon to 6 p.m. in the evening. The exact date has not yet been decided nor has the location. A number of clubs and organizations have offered club-rooms and all are being given consideration. Since many of the veterans are in poor health, suffering from a variety of ailments and crippling conditions, it will be necessary to decide on a location with easy access. Entertainment will consist of World War One songs and marches throughout the afternoon. Already recordings are being contributed for the occasion. It is suggested that anyone sending records, please place their names on same so they can be returned to the correct owners. Transportation will be provided any one unable to reach the location to be decided on. Efforts will be made to try to care for all those on various diets while on the "chow-line." As plans progress more information will be released through this newspaper.

Teen-agers and Breakfast

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — I'm frustrated. I really try very hard to give my teen-aged daughter fruit, cereal, bread, butter or margarine, and milk for breakfast, as the school nutritionist tells me I should. But she just skips it. Says she is bored by the stuff. Have you any suggestions to help me make her eat a decent breakfast before going to school?

A — The important thing is to get teen-agers (as well as everyone else) to eat some protein food in the morning. If they reject the recommended breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, butter or margarine, and milk, then let them select some nutritious food they do like. The point is to get them to eat, not to discipline them into eating what you think they should. If they want a frankfurter on a roll, a slice of pizza pie, a cheeseburger, let them have it. We know one healthy and active teen-ager who says she likes a television dinner for breakfast.

These off-beat breakfast items are nutritionally valuable and can provide the one fourth of the day's total nutritional requirement they get before dash-ing off to school, not how close-ly they follow a good but often unacceptable pattern, that pays the health and stamina dividends.

TALL IN THE... SADDLE? Seen on the movie screen James Garner, left, and Jason Robards will be two western types talking to each other on horseback. In reality, the scene for the movie "Hour of the Guns" was shot with the two mounted on stepladders — with only the upper parts of their bodies showing. Saddlers achieved the same effect and saved the trouble of rounding up and saddling two horses.

Mrs. William Joseph Daughton

Sharon J. Bourn Wm. J. Daughton Exchange Vows

Miss Sharon Therese Bourn of Jacksonville and William Joseph Daughton of Springfield were united in marriage Saturday morning, May 13, at the Church of Our Saviour. The Right Reverend Monsignor Michael O. Driscoll officiated.

Large baskets of yellow glads and Majestic daisies were used at the altar. Miss Connie Spahnower was soloist and Mrs. Alta Eisch was at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Bourn, 1232 South East street. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Joseph O'Meara. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Daughton of Springfield.

Miss Linda Zeller was maid of honor and Mrs. Buford Green was bridesmatron. Both are former high school classmates of the bride.

Mark Camille of Springfield was best man. He is a former classmate of the groom. Thomas Reiss of New Berlin, college classmate, served the groom as groomsman. Ushers were Phil Schickedanz, cousin of the bride and Patrick Kennedy, college classmate.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over peau de soie fashioned with a Chapel sweep train. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a petal head-dress of lace accented with pearls and crystal. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses with gardenias.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in yellow crepe skimmer dresses, floor length, with Venice lace yokes and short sleeves. A crepe train accented lines at the back. A multi veiled head-dress completed each costume. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of yellow and white daisies.

The mother of the bride wore pink linen with lace applique with a floral hat. Her accessories were black. The mother of the groom wore a 3 piece blue knit suit with avocado accessories. Each mother wore a corsage of white roses.

A reception was held at the Holiday Inn following the mid-morning ceremony. Assisting were Sandra Schickedanz and Karen Reed, cousins of the bride, Heather Steele, college roommate, Charlotte Thady, Kathy Lonergan, Peg Shanley and Kathy Hermes.

Since returning from a wedding trip to St. Louis the newlyweds are making their home at 1506 West State street.

The bride graduated from Routt High School in 1963 and is a senior at Illinois College and a child care trainee at Illinois School for the Deaf the past two years. The groom graduated from Griffin High School in Springfield the same year and is also a senior at Illinois College. He will attend graduate school in the field of nuclear physics this fall in South Dakota.

Alpha Iota Entertains Moms At Country Club

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Jacksonville Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Iota Sorority was held Wednesday evening, May 10, at the Virginia Country Club, near Beardstown. The committee in charge included Jean Robertson, Dixie Little, Karen Henderson and Edna Walsh.

The theme, Slipper of Flowers, was carried out with shoes filled with flowers for the table decorations. The programs were shaped like a shoe. Favors for the guests were carnation corsages of a variety of colors.

Edna Walsh gave the invocation preceding a delicious swiss steak dinner. Following the dinner, Jean Robertson, Toastmistress, extended a welcome to mothers and guests. She introduced Mr. and Mrs. Burton Schlie, who demonstrated making corsages and flower arrangements. Carolyn Smith and Jean Odaffer were awarded the corsages.

The Slippers of Flowers were awarded to the following guests: Mrs. Wayne Thompson, Mrs. Joyce Little, Mrs. Lucille Green, Mrs. Henry Souza, Mrs. Clara Robertson, Mrs. Ruth Summey, Mrs. Dorothy Piper, Mrs. Mary Ellen Rogers, Mrs. Mary Buck and Mrs. Josephine Hanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Leatham

Miss Mansfield, Raymond Leatham May Newlyweds

Miss Sharon Kay Mansfield of Modesto and Private First Class Raymond E. Leatham of Murrayville were united in marriage Friday evening, May 13, at the Church of Christ in Jacksonville.

Evangelist Ben Loudermilk officiated. White mums were used at the altar. The bride's brother, Keith Mansfield, sang. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mansfield of Modesto and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Leatham of Murrayville.

Mrs. Donna Angelo of Palmyra, cousin of the bride, and Miss Linda Ferris, Palmyra, attended the bride. Marsha Mansfield was junior bridesmaid.

Donald Leatham of Alexander served his brother as best man. Bob Cunningham, Greenfield, brother-in-law of the groom, was groomsman. Kellie Angelo was the flower girl and wore green.

Ushers were Ronnie Truitt, Marvin Sims, and Bob Oxley.

The bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with a lace bodice. Her English illusion veil was accented with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and lily of the valley.

The bride's attendants wore yellow satin conventional length dresses on empire lines.

The mother of the bride was in a blue knit dress with beige accessories and the groom's mother wore a green knit dress. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

Assisting at the reception held at the Community building in Modesto were Mrs. Kay Little, Mrs. Josephine Sims, Mrs. Betty Mansfield and Mrs. Lela Cunningham.

The bride graduated in 1965 from Northwestern High School at Palmyra and from the Flamingo Beauty College, Jacksonville. She is employed at the Fashion Flair at Chatham. The groom graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1963 and is serving with the Army.

FOLLOW UP HAND CARE
After any painting, scrubbing or gardening job, an application of hand cream is recommended to lubricate the skin. Turpentine, paint removers and detergents are extra-hard on hands and follow-up care is important. At bedtime, apply a second coating of hand cream to help counteract roughness, chapping or irritation.

When a recipe calls for a "small" head of cabbage, you'll probably be safe in using a cabbage that weighs about one pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Bingham Lowe

Lowe And Barton Nuptials In Pike

PITTSFIELD — Miss Charlotte Ann Barton, formerly of Griggsville and Bingham Lowe of Pittsfield were united in marriage Saturday evening, May 13, at the Griggsville Methodist church. The Reverend Prentice Douglas officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Barton of Princeton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lowe of Pittsfield.

President Names Committee For Club Courtesies

Mrs. J. D. Bunting, president of the Jacksonville Woman's club, announces the appointment of Mrs. Roy Shelton and Mrs. J. T. Butler to serve as a courtesy committee for the club. Any club member knowing of any illness of a member is requested to notify either of these women serving on this committee as soon as possible.

Mrs. Gaston Foote is chairman of membership. Assisting her are Mrs. Roy Davenport and Mrs. James Lakin. All area residents desiring to join the local club should contact any of the three committee members. New members are always welcome.

The next meeting of the club will be the Oct. 14th luncheon, the exact time and location to be announced.

Even though the club meetings are in recess for the summer there are Federated club activities. Students will be attending the conservation, art and music schools on scholarships presented by the club to Jacksonville area students.

Federation Day will be held July 26th at Allerton House. Only reservations for 150 can be accepted for the luncheon which will be received on a first come, first serve basis.

Club news will be released through the press relations chairman, Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie. Club dues and finances are to be sent to Mrs. Henry Cruse.

Mound Woman's Club Meets At President's Home

Members of the Mound Woman's Country club were entertained in May at the home of their president, Mrs. Harlan Mason. A short business session was conducted after the hostess welcomed her guests.

Mrs. Donald Richardson gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Clyde Cooper the treasurer's report. Carolyn Potter, chairman, Wilma Richardson and Inez Scott were named as a nominating committee.

Mrs. A. J. Stewart presented Miss Mary Margaret Wax who gave an interesting program, Progress Made in Illinois in Treating Mental Retardation. A discussion followed.

Dainty refreshments were served from a lovely table. Mrs. Inez Scott assisted at the coffee urn.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Otto Beerup, Jr., and Mrs. Leslie Lewis.

Only three of New York's 34 Broadway theaters are actually on Broadway. They are the Pal-Springfield. The groom, a member of the Pittsfield High School class of 1965, is serving with the Air Force.

GONE TO THE FEET

The merry mirrors of Marie Antoinette's bathroom are now blazing a new fashion trail for leg-watchers with shining, twinkling reflections in mirrored ornaments on patent leathers or silks. Toes, to be sure, must be fully rounded or gently squared, heels low and curvy or slightly high and pinched.

You can use a package of condensed mince-meat, prepared according to package directions, as the filling for a spongecake roll. After the filling is prepared, and before using, add some grated lemon rind and lemon juice.

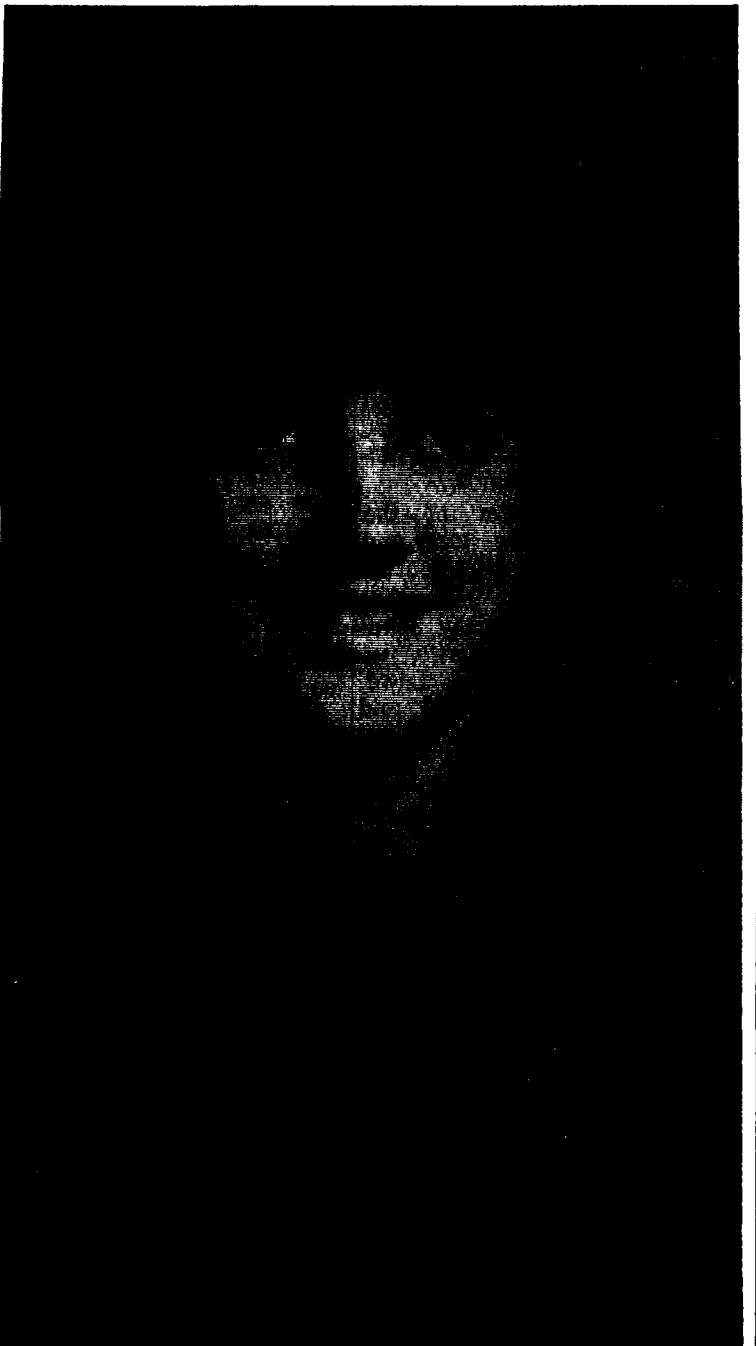

Alanna Heiss

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heiss, 1106 West College avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alanna, to Jene Highstin, son of Mrs. Gustaf Highstin of Baltimore, Maryland, and the late Dr. Gustaf Highstin. A mid-summer wedding at the United Church of Christ Chapel on New York University campus is planned.

The bride-elect graduated from Jacksonville High School and Lawrence University at Appleton, Wisconsin, where she affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Miss Heiss is employed by the Child Welfare Department, State of New York.

Her fiancé graduated from University of Maryland and is a candidate for his MA degree in fine arts at New York University.

Kathleen Kays

ARENZVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford L. Kays of Arenzville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Kathleen, to Donnie L. Alcorn, son of Mrs. Katha Alcorn of Jacksonville. A July wedding in Arenzville is planned.

Miss Kays will graduate from Triopia High School on May 29th. Mr. Alcorn is presently stationed with the military at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

Rockport Couple To Celebrate Anniversary

ROCKPORT — Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cox of rural Rockport, who live in Atlas, will be observing their golden wedding anniversary on May 31st and will be celebrating the date next Sunday afternoon, from two to five o'clock at their home.

This is not the customary 'Open House,' one usually attends. Friends, neighbors and relatives are requested to wear house dresses, work clothes, sunbonnets, straw hats or old costumes. A prize will be given the couple wearing the best costume of fifty years ago.

A prize will also be presented the couple coming the greatest distance and a door prize will be given following a drawing at 5 o'clock. The winner does not need to be present.

At four o'clock all couples present, who have been married fifty years, prior to this date, will receive a prize.

If any of the prospective guests plays a stringed instrument he or she is requested to bring it along as entertainment includes a song fest. The gathering is to be very informal and unsophisticated.

Mr. Cox was born at Wray,

Colorado (in Yuma county) and his parents were James W. and Mary E. Cox. He is a veteran of World War One and an overseas veteran. He taught in Pike county schools for 45 years.

Mrs. Cox was born 3 miles from Rockport and has lived in the area most of her married life. Her parents were Francisco and Sarah R. Worthen. She taught 33 terms in four schools. The couple taught school their last 17 career years together in Pittsfield Unit District 10.

Having decided to travel they returned their contracts for the 18th year unsigned. Since then the couple has traveled extensively in 48 states, Canada and Mexico and spent the past 9 years in the lower Rio Grande Valley in Texas.

SPARKLE IN THE RAIN

Sparkle plenty from top to toe in the rain. Marvelous vinyls are madly attracted to each other this season. We start with helmets, sou'westers (with or without see-through window on a rainy day you can see forever) or the peaked fireman's helmet. Coats steal stripes, flowers, tattersalls, bubble dots and can be had in classic or belted trench coat styles. Throw in slicked-up gaiters to match the coats and end it all with a shiny tote to match.

Weddings PARTIES and CLUBS

NEW OFFICERS of the Jacksonville - MacMurray Alumnae Association were named at the spring luncheon held at the Mathews home on Book Lane. Above is Mrs. Joe Grojean, president with the retiring president Mrs. E. C. Bone. Other officers are Mrs. Clarence F. Brewster, vice president; Mrs. Robert B. Thomson, Jr., secretary and Mrs. Harry Hofmann, Jr., treasurer.

Engaged

Brenda Sue Amos

FRANKLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Amos of Franklin announce the engagement of their daughter, Brenda Sue, to James Robert Shearl, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Shearl, also of Franklin.

Both young people graduated from Franklin High School and both attend Western Illinois University at Macomb.

Bride Elect

Peggy Sue Williams

MURRAYVILLE — Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williams, Murrayville route one, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Peggy Sue, to Michael E. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Walker of Manchester. A June ninth wedding is planned.

Miss Williams will graduate this month from Winchester High School. Her fiancé is a 1966 graduate of the same school and is now attending Western Illinois University at Macomb.

Mrs. Jefferson, Lynn Fagan Of Brown Co. United

MT. STERLING — Lucille Jefferson and Lynn Fagan of Mt. Sterling were united in marriage Thursday morning, May 18th, at the First Christian church in Quincy.

The pastor, Dr. Harvey M. Quinette, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Fagan left for a short wedding trip and will be making their home in Mt. Sterling.

Over 90 Attend Mac Alumnae Luncheon

Over ninety attended the luncheon meeting May 13th for members of the Jacksonville MacMurray Alumnae held at the home of Mrs. Jack Mathews, 10 Book Lane.

Mrs. Bill Gross was chairman for the affair, a Hawaiian Luau. She was assisted by Mrs. John Spencer and Mrs. Clarence Brewster, who were in charge of reservations.

The Alumnae honored Dr. and Mrs. McKendree Blair. Dr. Blair is retiring after 33 years as professor and chaplain at the College.

Dr. Charles Fisher and The MacMurray Singers entertained with several vocal arrangements, concluding with a medley of MacMurray songs.

A business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. E. C. Bone. Dr. Gordon Michelson, president of the College, spoke briefly predicting a bright future for the school.

The new officers to serve for two years, were proposed by the nominating committee chairman, Mrs. William Wall.

VISIT RELATIVES IN AREA

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hansen and son Clifford of Franklin Park and Delores Green of Lombard, Illinois visited friends and relatives in Jacksonville, Beardstown and Quincy. They also visited New Salem Park.

May Luncheon Closes Season For Woman's Club

The closing May luncheon for members of the Jacksonville Woman's Club was held Saturday, the 13th, at the Central Christian church with one hundred and forty-four attending.

Linen covered tables were centered with flowers and large paper roses added much to the spring decor. Mrs. Roy T. Baker provided a lovely centerpiece for the speaker's table and for the piano.

Mrs. Clyde L. Cooper offered the blessing before the serving of the luncheon. The meeting following was opened with the pledge to the flag led by Mrs. Van B. Hunter. The president, Mrs. Alva G. Stainforth, welcomed members and Mrs. Roy Shelton introduced the club's newest members present, Mrs. John Chapman, Mrs. Oliver Kelmer, Mrs. L. A. Million, Mrs. Herman Baker, Mrs. Sanford Hutchison and Mrs. W. H. Meyer.

Cake Bake Survey

Mrs. Viron Ranson gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Henry Cruse gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Leon Stewart read the report of the auditing committee. A report was made on the Pillsbury cake bake resulting from the cake mix distributed to members at the April meeting. Mrs. John Marshall conducted the survey.

Awards

District 20, IFWC awards from the convention were announced. The club retained the Davenport trophy for having the largest membership in the District. A 100% award was also received for fulfilling all Federation requirements and having a net gain in membership. The club received an award for cooperation in Conservation and a first place for its press book, which was displayed at the State convention in May.

Individual awards went to Mrs. Harry Killam and Mrs. James Harris for press clipping assistance in the press relations division. Mrs. Harry Merriman received second place in the Art contest for clubwomen. Mrs. Belford Bollman received an award in creative writing.

State Delegates

Delegates to the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs convention May 9, 10, and 11 in Chicago were Mrs. J. D. Bunting, Mrs. Arnold Burke, and Mrs. Earl Davis. A state award was won by Michael Johnson in Art. He is a student at Our Saviour's school and was sponsored by the local club.

Mrs. Bunting reported on convention speakers and highlights of the convention. Mrs. Harry Killam told of the art display.

Miss Charlotte Sieber, music chairman, presented Mrs. Eugene Laurent, MacMurray College faculty member and her accompanist, Mrs. Oliver Fillmore. Vocal selections by Mrs. Laurent were Lullaby, The Answer and You'll Never Walk Alone.

Mrs. Houde, introduced by Mrs. James Dunlap, chairman of the day, spoke on "Agony and Ecstasy," telling of her clubwork, pro and con, and suggesting every clubwoman 'keep smiling.'

Mrs. Gladys Rust conducted a memorial service for the nine members deceased the past year. Three of this group were past presidents.

Mrs. Stainforth displayed the large pin presented during the State convention by the 20th District president, Mrs. O. R. Robertson of Winchester. The pin proclaims a club has joined the Community Improvement program, a GFWC project.

Mrs. Paul Gnagay read the history of the club, highlighting accomplishments.

"Mr. President"

Mrs. J. Edmund Dinwiddie, press chairman, presented the press-book to the president, on behalf of the club. Mrs. Dinwiddie announced to Mrs. Stainforth the club also had an honor award for Mr. Stainforth for his assistance to the president and the club throughout her presidency the past two years. The trophy reads, A. G. Stainforth, Mr. President, 1965-67. The Stainforths graciously accepted the unexpected award.

Mrs. Roy Davenport served as parliamentarian in the absence of Mrs. Clyde Landreth.

Mrs. Barnard Camm was chairman of hostesses and presented her assistants, Mrs. Roy T. Baker, Mrs. Bill Buchanan, Miss Rella Backus, Mrs. Tom Cornish, Mrs. W. O. Harp, Mrs.

CWJ Group Meets At Church May 16

The Armstrong-Davis CWF Group of Central Christian church met Tuesday morning, May 16th, at the home of Mrs. Arvel Becker, No. 8 Terry Drive. Fourteen members and two guests were present. Mrs. Becker served coffee, tea, sweet rolls and doughnuts during the social period previous to the meeting.

Mrs. Russell Armstrong presided at the business meeting. Plans were discussed in regard to a bake-sale. Mrs. Lyle Davis made announcements relative to the Church World Service Clothing Drive and Blanket Drive for underprivileged areas.

Miss Barbara Colvin gave devotions with Mrs. Armstrong closing the devotional period with a prayer. Mrs. William Fanning gave the treasurer's report.

The lesson study, taken from the book Long Forks, was given by Mrs. Verne Anderson. Lesson 5 pertained to "Money is as Money Does."

The next meeting of the group will be on June 20th with Mrs. J. Ivan Crawford at her country home near Ashland. The time will be announced at a later date. Guests at the meeting were Susan and Jamie Curtis.

James O. Harris, Mrs. Anderson Kitchens.

Mrs. Jesse Kinnett, Mrs. Verne Smith, Mrs. Carlton Schumacher and Mrs. Verna B. Taylor.

Mrs. Paul Black installed the next officers, pictured above. Mrs. Bunting responded with appropriate comment and Mrs. Stainforth presented her with the president's pin and in turn received from Mrs. Bunting a past president's pin, the latter on behalf of the club.

Linda L. Ward, Pfc. Wyatt Of White Hall Wed

WHITE HALL — Miss Linda Lou Ward and Private First Class Gary Neal Wyatt of White Hall were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, May sixth, at the local First Baptist church.

The Reverend E. Harris Paulson performed the double ring ceremony. Floral arrangements and greenery decorated the candlelight altar.

The organ prelude was played by Mrs. Donald Crossman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Ward and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wyatt, all of White Hall.

Miss Christine Weddersten and Nick Carmean attended the couple. Wayne Mast seated guests.

The bride wore a gown of white lace over satin. A jeweled crown held her veil of illusion and she carried a nosegay of white roses with ivy.

Miss Weddersten wore pink and white and her flowers were pink carnations.

The mother of the bride also wore pink and the groom's mother chose gray and white. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

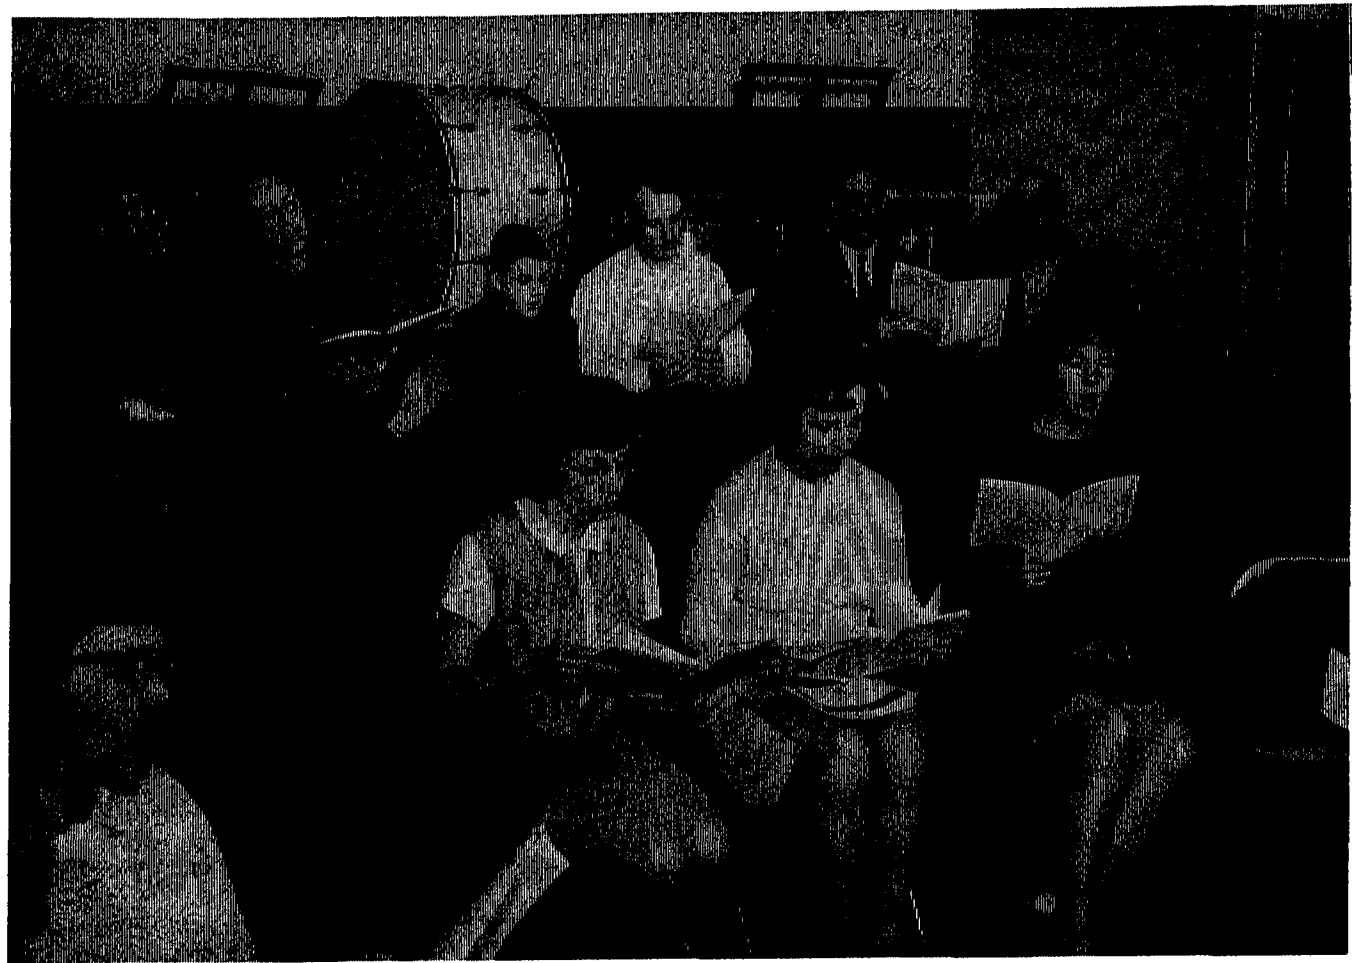

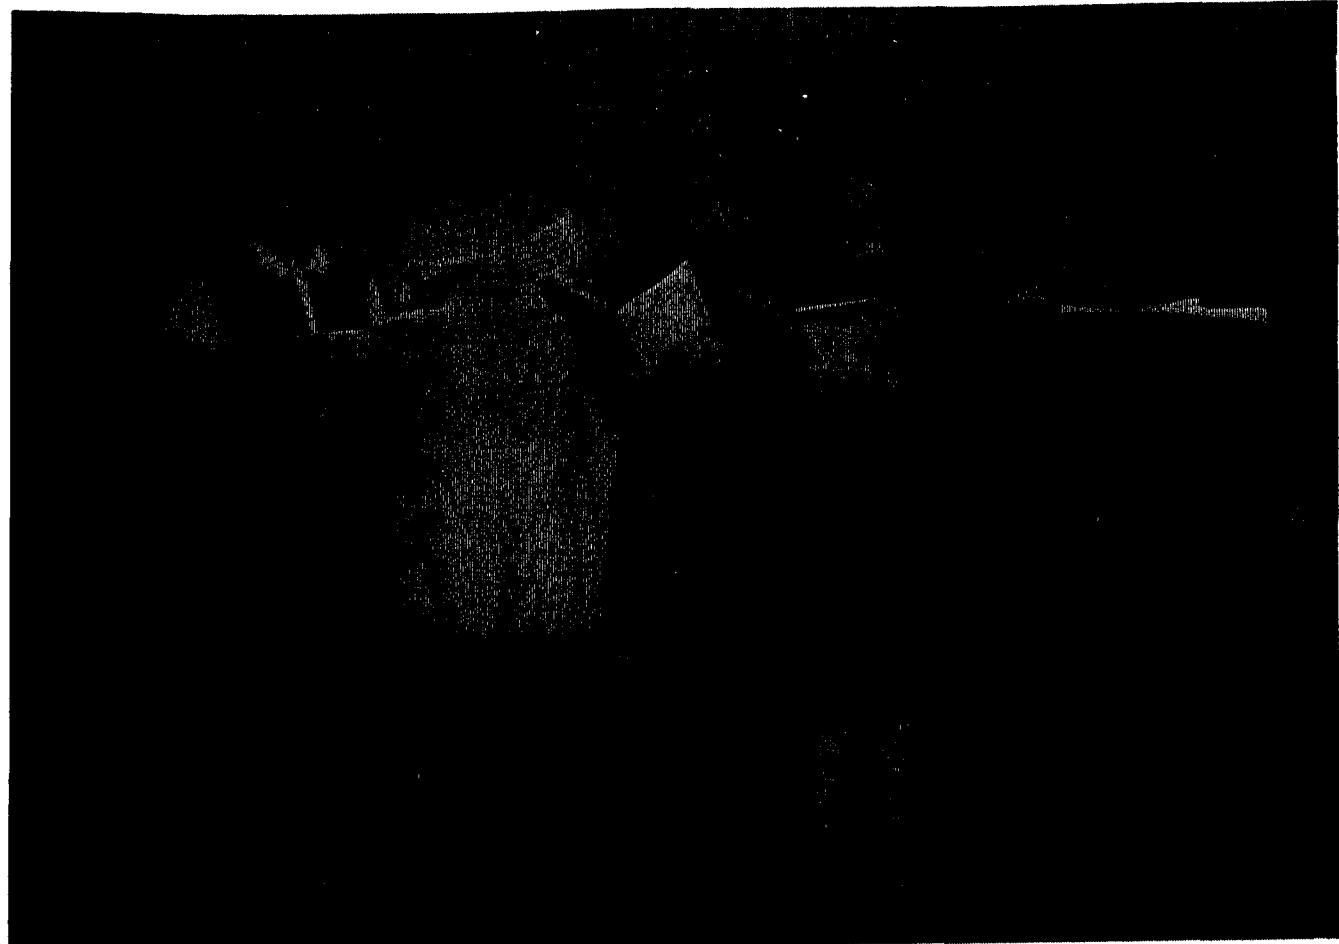

A reception was held the following day, Sunday, at the home of the bride's parents. Assisting at this time were Mrs. Ruth Neff, Mrs. Marcia Conrad and Miss Carol Horney.

The newlyweds will make their home at Presidio, California, where the groom is stationed with the U. S. Army. He is a graduate of North Greene High School where the bride previously was a student.

BLEND THEM NATURALLY

It's a wise woman who makes up her hair color. Beauty does start at the top. The color that surrounds a woman's face is her most dominant color point and the one that other people notice first. So if make-up is to look completely natural, it must blend naturally with skin tone and harmonize with hair color.

KOOKIE COOLERS

The mindress plus the maxi-bloomers add up to kookie, up-to-the-mini coolers for summer. You can get a dancy, floaty shirt tent that widens way out in clusters of accordion pleats, a sweet baby smock dress with a back bow or two and dotted down the front with self-material buttons. And there's no stopping the pert show-off bloomers that peek out when the dancing starts.

Carl Frasers Of White Hall Jo Celebrate May 28

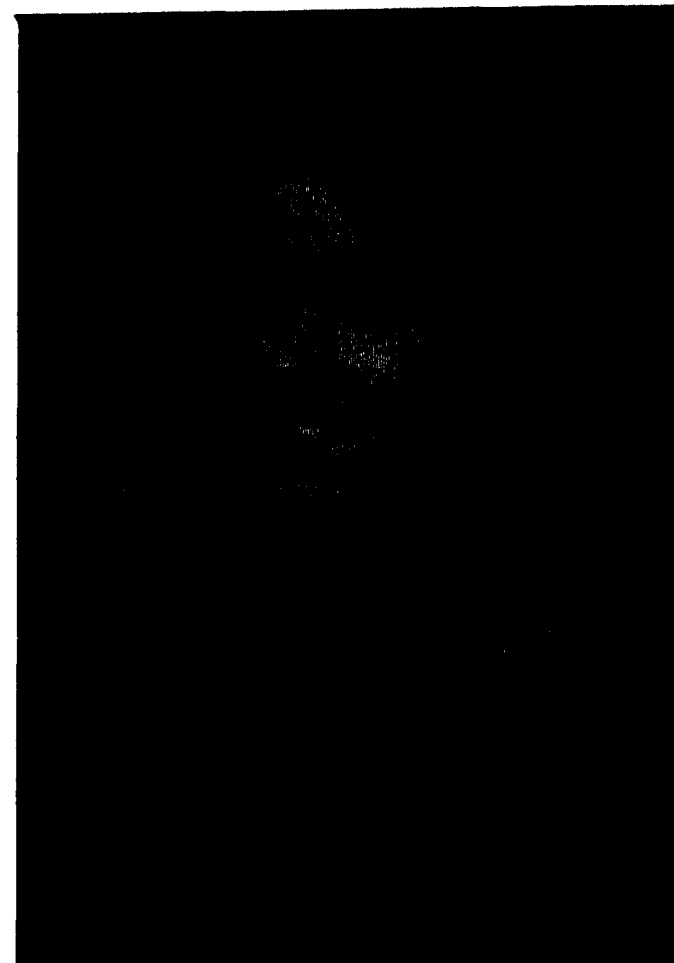

WHITE HALL—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fraser, White Hall route two, will be celebrating their golden wedding anniversary next Sunday, May 28th. Open House will be held at the residence, 8 miles southwest of here from two to five o'clock in the afternoon. Friends and relatives are cordially invited to call.

Miss Anna Woodman and Carl Fraser were married at the rural Methodist church in the High street area here May 23, 1917. The Rev. C. W. Andrews of Berdan officiated.

They have spent all of their married life in this community. For 25 years Mr. Fraser taught school and he has also engaged in farming. They are parents of two daughters, Mrs. Eloise Haverfield, White Hall and Mrs. Alleta Simonds, Bethalto. There are six grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Ruth Elma Stewart

ALEXANDER — Mr. and Mrs. Chester R. Stewart of Alexander announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruth Elma, to Woodrow Wilson Cheesman, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow W. Cheesman of Altadena, California. A September wedding is being planned.

Miss Stewart graduated from Ashland High School and is a sophomore at Illinois College where she is a member of Chi Beta literary society and the Illinois College Band.

Mr. Cheesman graduated from the John Muir High School in Pasadena, California and is also a member of the sophomore class at Illinois College where he is affiliated with Phi Alpha literary society and the Student Forum. He is also employed at the Osco Drug Company in Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moore, Jr.

The 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moore, Jr., 650 South West street, falls on Tuesday, May 23rd. They were married in 1942 at the Methodist church in Bowling Green, Missouri by the Reverend H. E. Burton. Mrs. Moore is the former Carmelita Louise Thompson, daughter of Edna Thompson of Chapin. Mr. Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moore, Sr., 500 South Fayette street.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Smock and Roy Moore, brother of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are parents of two children, Mary Moore Rynders of Clarksville, Tennessee and Larry Moore at home. There are two grandchildren, Tommy and Tod Rynders.

VISITOR NURSE

Holy Cross Receives Exchange Program OK

In a letter from John C. Watson, Director of the Department of Registration and Education of the State of Illinois, Sister Maura, Director of Patient Care at Holy Cross Hospital, was informed that the hospital had met the requirements to conduct an Exchange Visitor Nurse Program. Holy Cross Hospital is the twenty-eighth hospital in Illinois approved for this program and is the third hospital outside the Chicago area to be enrolled in the program; the others are in Rockford and Waukegan.

The program has a twofold purpose: To provide nurses from other countries with a rounded cultural and educational experience and to recruit nurses for service in the hospital.

Because of the variety of backgrounds among the prospective nurses who may avail themselves of this program, a great deal of planning is necessary to insure qualification. The hospital recognized its responsibility for providing a satisfactory orientation to the community, particularly to the different cultural aspects of this locality and to the hospital. It realizes that the exchange visitor may come as a total stranger to the American way of life and that she will need care and understanding in becoming acquainted before she can perform to her level of competency.

It offers a real challenge to the personnel at the hospital which they have accepted and are preparing to meet.

Many Participate — Many countries participate in this program. At the present, 1150 exchange nurses are employed in Illinois.

Under this exchange program, the nurses may be employed as trainees in the approved hospital. These nurses are licensed within their own countries. At the end of two years, their visas expire and the nurses must return to their native country.

Jacksonville is unique in the many cultural opportunities it provides. The exchange trainees will have a greater possibility of learning American culture through close contacts with the educational and recreational resources of this community.

A 1966 graduate of Triopia, Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlin Hamilton of Chapin.

I. C. TRADITION

Plan Osage-Orange Picnic

The Osage-Orange Picnic, an annual traditional event at Illinois College, will be held this year at 6 p.m. Friday, June 2nd, on campus. Committee chairmen met recently at an afternoon tea at the home of President and Mrs. Caine to prepare for the picnic. Over three hundred persons are expected to attend.

In the top picture are, seated l-r, Mrs. Robert Hartman and Mrs. Ellsworth Black and standing, Mrs. Iver F. Yeager, Mrs. Lawrence Biebert, Mrs. Ernest G. Hildner, Jr. and Mrs. Walter R. Bellati.

The general-chairman is Mrs. Yeager and the alumni committee co-chairmen are Mrs. Doppelt, Mrs. Pine, and Darrow Steinheimer.

Alumni decade table chairmen are Mrs. Lee, Miss Claribel Cully, Henry Meyer, Mrs. Pine, and Mrs. Varble. The college table, a parents' table, several church tables, a students' table, and other special tables are being organized by committee members from the Jacksonville area.

A Tribute To Mildred Gregory

Those of us who knew Mildred Gregory must grieve because she has died. She was the rare gentlewoman; she sought to make her life, her surroundings, and her relationships with people a work of art; and she was sensitive to the quality of day-to-day living.

Mildred Gregory had the distinction of being a great lady and of maintaining this unique quality even as she worked in the professional world of teaching and as she participated actively in professional and community affairs. She was never aggressive; she was quiet and strong. She spoke harshly and maliciously of no one; she looked at child or adult clearly and justly and gently and worked from there.

To strive for some fair measure of perfection was a necessity for her. She felt the need and gave the time and effort to become a master teacher. To each young child she gave a feeling of security in the tremendous strength and warmth of her unfailing acceptance. She gave to the young child, too, a sense of the excitement and wonder of being aware.

Since goodness and wisdom are not gifts but achievements of the human spirit, we must grieve over her death. But had she not cared so much for the very quality of life, we would not need to grieve so deeply. The very fact that she will not again do all the small and great acts to make her home a place of serenity and rightness and beauty, nor watch birds feed the winter through at the many feeding stations in her yard, nor see the curve of flower beds, nor remember again the great flowering apricot tree that once stood to the north of her house, nor prepare again a meal in perfection and love, not teach a child again, not welcome again a new teacher to the building, nor feel again the wind on her face some evening on the peninsula of Door County—these are the things that hurt.

But in those moments when another woman shows grave kindness, when another woman is gracious in dignity and strength, when another woman is wise and quiet in the human dialogues that matter, we shall remember her and think of her.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER DINNER SERVED AT CASS CHURCH

ASHLAND — The annual mother-daughter banquet of the Happy Hustlers Bible class was held Thursday evening, May 18, the basement of the Church of Christ with 142 persons present.

The theme for the year was suggested by Mrs. Daisy Lewis of Ashland. The men of the church served the banquet.

The program opened with the reading of two poems, dedicated to young mothers. Sharon Way, the longtime leader, led the group in singing, accompanied by Marilyn Fulton. Mrs. Bernice Hoagland welcomed the daughters present and the response was given by her daughter, Dorothy.

Nancy Kaplan of Springfield entertained with vocal solos with her teacher, Mrs. D. Brandt of Springfield, serving as accompanist. Also appearing on the program were the high school girls quartet, composed of Sharon Way, Dottie Lou Blakeman, Mary Bloomfield and Jane David, and a sextette, including Janet Atwood, Louisa Dalton, Marilyn Clemons, Kathy Campbell, Marsha Yance and Mary Bloomfield.

The theme "Patterned For Living" was presented by Mrs. Louise Quinley. Rose Eisenhower, 1967 Mother Of The Year, was presented by last year's titlist, Nadine Elliott.

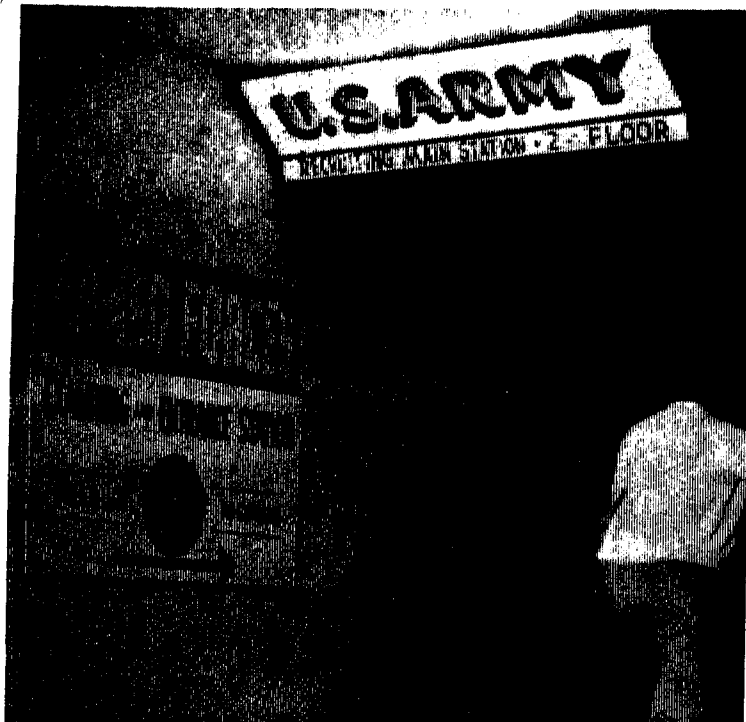

Recognized as the youngest grandmother present was Mrs. Imogene Way. Sandy Vernon of Alton traveled the greatest distance for the occasion.

The banquet closed with benediction offered by Reverend James Cook.

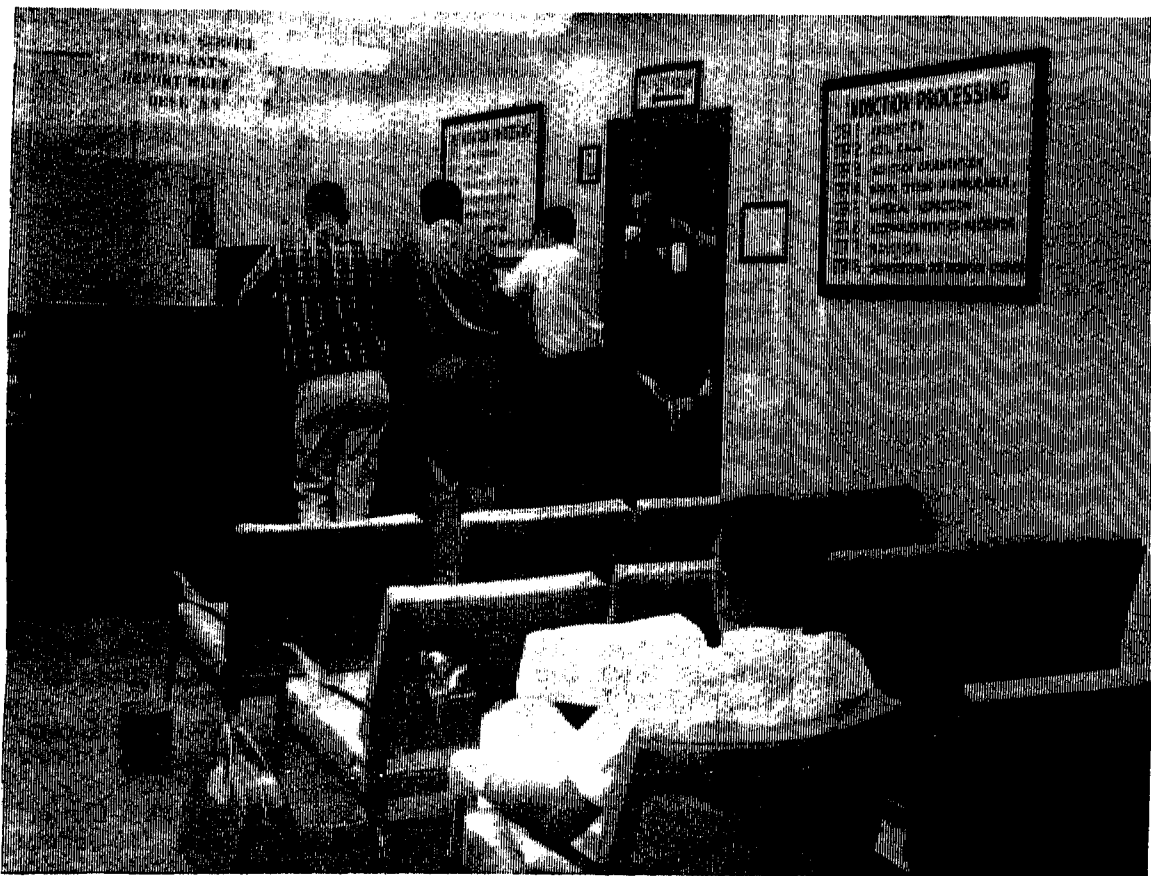

What To Expect If The Draft Board Calls

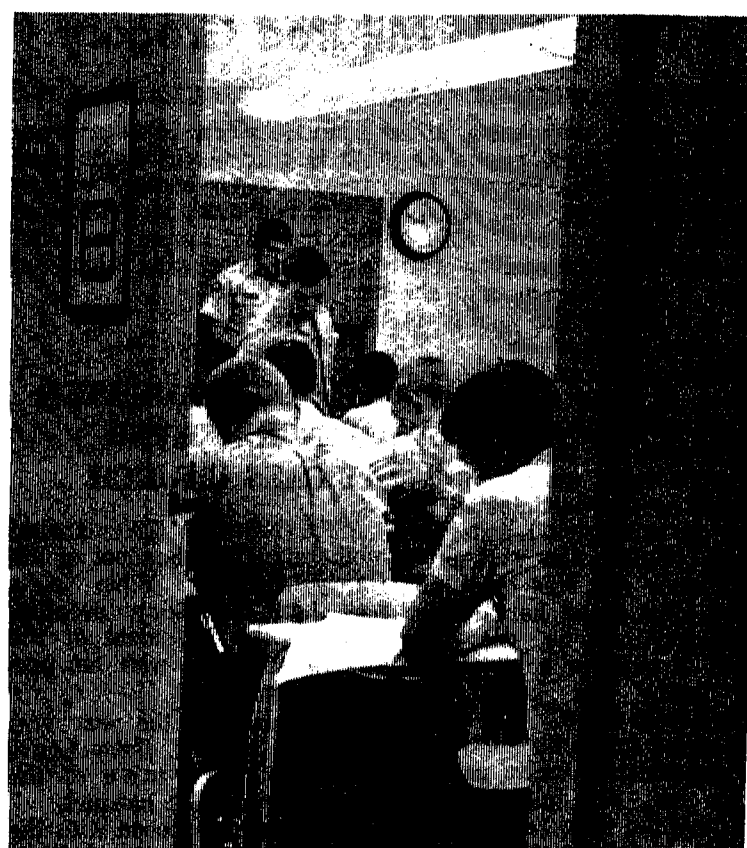

THE ARMED FORCES examining and Entrance Station is housed in the unmarked Mart Building at 12th and Spruce in downtown St. Louis. Charter buses, as seen above, shuttle inductees and those reporting for physicals here Monday through Friday.

ONE FLOOR UP

THE RECEPTION ROOM, or station one, is the check in - check out area. Examinees are called to the desk, given questionnaires and forms, and are dispatched to mental and physical examination stations.

APTITUDE TESTS are given either before or after the physical examinations. Examinees have 45 minutes to complete the 100 multiple-choice question tests.

HEIGHT AND WEIGHT measurements are the first stage of the physical exam. Testing for possible color blindness is also done here. Each examinee is given a small paper bag in which to carry valuables while going through the lines.

Modern language has made Webster's definition of THE DRAFT, as "a current of air," virtually obsolete. Mention of the word to men between the ages of 18 and 26 proves this fact. Today, the draft is a term used almost exclusively to describe induction into the armed forces: a practice which is presently undergoing criticism, and efforts for improvement.

But unlike death and taxes, the draft is not mandatory for all American males in this age bracket. Physical and mental disabilities, financial and family dependencies, and many other reasons keep a large percentage of men from induction. Yet there are two duties all must fulfill.

Required Of All
The first is registration with the local Selective Service office upon reaching the age of 18 — the second is reporting for physical and mental examinations when called by the draft board.

Little thought results from compliance with this first requirement. The second, however, is generally met with great apprehension, especially by those who believe military service not exactly what they had planned on for the next two years.

Apprehension is understandable, but uncertainty concerning the physical and mental examination itself adds unnecessarily to this human reaction. The procedure is essentially simple, and realizing what will be expected of the examinee can alleviate much of the uncertainty.

Day Begins Early
Pre-dawn departure is required of all leaving from Jacksonville for the charter bus trip to the St. Louis Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station. Men are also picked up in Winchester, Roodhouse and Jerseyville for the day-long excursion.

Jacksonville area men report to the American Legion home at 4:30 a.m. Every group has pre-assigned "squad leaders" who are responsible for each member's presence for departure, testing and return. Leaders are arbitrarily selected by the local draft board.

Passengers include those called for physicals, enlistees sent by recruiters, and inductees.

A breakfast stop (on the government) precedes the approximate 8:30 a.m. arrival in St. Louis. Following the signs to the station's second floor location, examinees enter a large reception room.

Here, men encounter their first waiting period: a phenomenon which may occur at several different points.

"Follow The Lines"
After receiving an abundance of forms, examinees are instructed to follow blue, yellow, or brown lines painted on the floor to testing stations. College grads often view such means of direction as an insult to their intelligence, yet strays are commonplace in the seeming maze.

Close inspection, however, yields only three long parallel hallways, connected by two shorter passages.

Men are divided into groups of 20 to 35 for taking aptitude tests. Before these are administered, a medical history form, and other general information questionnaires are completed by the examinee.

This procedure, lasting approximately an hour and a half, can either come before or after the actual physical examination, depending on available space.

225 Per Day

The examination station is geared to test 225 men per day on a staggered basis. This figure has been pushed to peaks of 500 per day in the past, yet March, April and May found fewer than 100 examined per day. Reports show that the station operated at 150% capacity during six months of 1966.

A lack of operational funds has kept the more recent totals at a minimum. An upturn is predicted for after July 1, when money is made available under the new fiscal year budget.

The appearance of cattleherding tactics, therefore, cannot be avoided. This should not be viewed as an absence of individual attention, however.

Undergo Tests
Examinees proceed through a winding line of medical tests, undergoing: height and weight measurements, a chest x-ray, and blood pressure, urine, blood, hearing, and eye examinations. After each check, notations are made on the individual's forms.

One stop brings the examinee to physicians, who check each medical history form, and confer with each man on any irregular entries.

This stage of the physical examination is thorough and private. Examinees are here asked to explain possible questionable entries, and voice all significant physical disabilities or limitations which might influence an honest evaluation of his physical capabilities.

All "Beefs" Heard
A final review of the medical history questionnaires, and the results of the recently completed tests takes place at the 'end of the line' desk.

Here, final 'complaints' are heard, and notes from family physicians are considered. Whether or not a man is found physically able to serve is decided here.

Examinees are informed of their overall performance upon returning all forms to the reception room desk.

The testing completed, men are given lunch tickets for use in the building's first floor cafeteria. Later waiting for possible stragglers, or delayed bus party members often results.

Back Same Day
All that remains is the return trip home, which includes a dinner stop, again, on the government. Arrival back in Jacksonville can vary from five to eight p.m.

In rare instances, examinees may be kept overnight, or asked to return in a day or two. In most cases, however, the examinee will know his exact status that afternoon.

Accommodations exist in the station itself for 72 men, should an overnight stay be required. These facilities are generally used, however, for inductees or enlistees awaiting assignment.

Apprehension or relief may now be the order of the day. Yet, those who knew what was to be expected of them avoided much needless uncertainty, and therefore, should be better mentally prepared for a possible future decision concerning service in the armed forces.

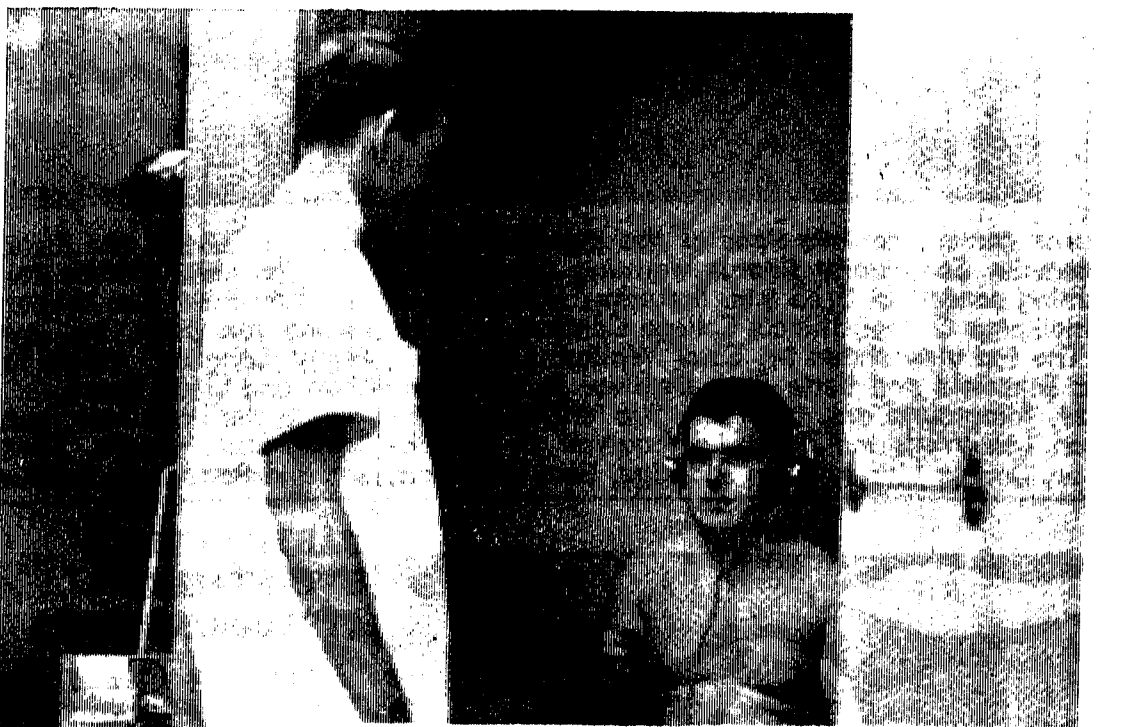

ENLISTEES into the Army, Air Force, Navy and reserve units are sworn in by Lt. Thomas Noles in the station's Ceremony Room. Prior to the ceremony, a recruiting officer briefed the enlistees on what would be expected of them, before calling for any final questions regarding their individual programs.

A FREE LUNCH is enjoyed by examinees in a section of the main floor cafeteria reserved for those undergoing examinations.

THE RED CROSS ROOM is designed to serve both examinees waiting for the return trip home, and inductees awaiting assignment. Facilities include card tables, a television, reading materials, records, and a coffee and donut buffet.

CHEST X-RAYS ARE TAKEN NEXT

PERSONAL ATTENTION is given each man during his physical examination. A doctor above checks over the individual's medical history record, adding comments on any possible physical disabilities.

Pittsfield Prom Royalty

Queen Vicki Lowry with Don Jenkins

PITTSFIELD—The Queen of the 1967 Junior Senior Prom at Pittsfield High School, held this month, was Vicki Lowry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walton Lowry of Pittsfield. She is pictured above with her escort, Don Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins, also of Pittsfield. Both are juniors.

The prom theme was "Oceans of Love." The gym was decorated to resemble an Island of Paradise, with palm trees centering the setting. The Queen made her appearance by a foot bridge located in a corner of the gym. Opposite was a waterfall and stream, symbolizing a seaside hide-away.

The Queen's attendants were Debbie Alspaugh, Debbie Smithers, Chris Colver and Donna Thornton.

George Roodhouse was prom coordinator; Karen Barton and John Schimmel were in charge of decorations. Debbie Alspaugh and David Dobb, programs; Marcia Stinson and Bill Durall, budget; Peggy Stillwell and Steve Grote, tables.

Kent Carnes, Vicki Lowry, Tom Henderson, Linda Gay and Richard Franklin were the overseers.

The Mature Parent

Adopted Child Must Learn Natural Parent's Feelings

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: When my sister died in childbirth 12 years ago, I looked after the baby for her father.

Ten months later he married a woman who wanted a family of her own and agreed to let us adopt Karen legally. She is as dear to us as if she were our own child. But within the last few months she has several times threatened to go and live with her father if she is not given her own way. I am sure he doesn't want her and want to know if I should tell her so?

ANSWER: No, but if that is the truth, she should be encouraged to discover it for herself.

As it is, I bet she's half-aware of it and is proposing to go live with her father because she wants her suspicion confirmed. I think she wants to get done with the anxieties caused by her unresolved relationship to him and to finally establish acceptance of you and your husband as her parents.

And the way to do that would be to eliminate him as a reliable parent, wouldn't it?

So, were I you, I'd co-operate with her effort to discover his unreliability for herself. I'd suggest that she propose making a long visit to her father's home and say, "If you're happier there than you are with us, you may want to stay with him. If you're not, come right straight back to us. Whatever happens, this home is yours for as long as you want it to be."

As a child enters adolescence, he needs certainty of his parents' affection. It's the firm ground of that affection he uses as his runway to take off confidently into the wild blue yonder — independence of it. But so long as there exists the possibility of firm affection in her natural father, it's hard for Karen to finally decide to trust yours. I think this brave child of yours is now trying to make this decision, and that she's proposing to leave your home in order to return to yours as the home she's sure of — the one that really belongs to her.

Triopia Festival Features Music For All Occasions

ARENZVILLE — "Music for All Occasions" was the title of the Spring Music Festival presented May 16 at Triopia Junior High School in Arenzville, under the direction of Ron Kennerly, vocal instructor in Unit 27.

Drummers David Beard and Carl Kinsey were featured in the processional. The Junior High School Contest chorus opened the program with "Let There Be Music," and also gave the closing number, "America, Our Heritage." The full Junior High School Chorus presented two sacred numbers, "When Jesus Wept" and "Beautiful Saviour."

The first grade sang "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star," and the Mexican Folk Song, "Chiapancas." The second grade numbers were the German Cradle Song, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," and "What Are Little Boys Made Of?" "If You Can't Say Something Nice," was the third grade number.

The boys of the first and second grades sang "Tom-Tom Song," and "Dance, Indian Man," and an Austrian Folk Song, "Instrument Song," done by grades three through six.

Marcia Schnake was featured on the bells and Betty Dufelmeier on the clarinet for the number, "Zum-Ta-Di-Ya," a Czech Folk Song by grades four through six. This group also sang "Alleluia" by St. Francis of Assisi.

Grades one through six presented a fun song, "Bingo." John Wessler and Byron Schroeder were trumpeters for "God of Our Fathers," done by grades four through six.

Two Spirituals were sung by the Seventh Grade Chorus, "It's Me, O Lord," and "Wade in the Water."

"Dominique" was the number given by the Girls' sextet. The Boys' sextet sang "Halls of Ivy."

The entire grade school contest chorus joined in the lively, "Oh, Yes! Wait 'Til I Get on My Robe."

A square dance demonstration was given by fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

Accompanists for the program were Janet Williams, Vickie Hamilton, Joyce Ginder, and Pam Nergenah.

JHS Golfers Tie For 3rd In State

Best Finish Ever For Crimsons

CHAMPAIGN — The Jacksonville High school golf team, with Jim Cisne finishing third in the individual standings, tied for third place in the state high school golf tournament, finished Saturday over two Champaign courses.

The tie for third is believed to be as high a finish ever recorded by any Jacksonville High athletic team. A JHS tennis squad tied for third in the state several years ago.

Atlanta Errors Help Pirates Post 6-2 Margin

ATLANTA (AP) — Pittsburgh took advantage of four Atlanta errors Saturday night and whipped the Braves 6-2 with the help of a three-run outburst in the sixth inning when the Pirates had only one hit.

Pitcher Bob Veale boosted his record to 6-0 although he was driven out in the seventh when Cleve Boyer and Marty Martinez singled and scored on Woody Woodward's double.

Reliever Al McBean, after giving up a single, ended the threat by getting Joe Torre to bounce out.

Roberto Clemente ignited the Pirates' triumph, slamming a bases-empty home run in the fourth inning. The Pirates added an unearned run in the fifth and then used Manny Mota's double, a sacrifice, a walk, Bill Mazeroski's squeeze bunt and throwing errors by Woodward and Martinez to nail down the victory in the sixth.

Clemente added an insurance run in the eighth when he doubled, went to third on an infield bouncer and scored on Donn Clendenon's single.

Redlegs Start Year With Split

The Jacksonville State Hospital Redlegs opened their softball season Saturday in impressive fashion, whipping Clancy's of St. Louis 10-0 in the opener before the visitors came back to capture the nightcap 5-2.

Bob Vinyard stayed in command throughout the opener, giving up five scattered singles. Bob Jenkins went two-for-three for the winners and drove in three tallies. The Redlegs received eight free rides.

Clancy's came up with four runs in the second frame of the last game and coasted in behind Larson's two-hit, nine-strikeout pitching.

Redleg hurler Norm Robinson, who fanned ten batters, and Fred Curtis collected Jacksonville's only two hits in the contest.

The two clubs will square off in a twinbill this afternoon, starting at 1:30.

The St. Louis club is now 4-2 for the season.

New Trier East, which also won the state tennis crown Saturday, won the team title with a seven-stroke margin over Glenbard West. New Trier's four-man, 36-hole total over the Illinois Savoy courses was 638 strokes. Glenbard West finished with 638, followed by Jacksonville and Maine South with 653.

Cisne fired a one-under par 72 Saturday over the Blue course, the easier of the two used, to go with an 80 over the Orange course Friday for a 152 total. Bob Peegard of Rockford Boylen capped individual honors with a 147, followed by Pat Keen of Tuscola with a 152. Mike Poulsen of Peoria Bergan and Bill Harper of Elgin Larkin were next with 153's.

Senior Greg Neff finished second to Cisne in the JHS scoring, adding a 77 on the Blue course Friday to an 86 over the Orange Friday for a 163.

Freshman Jim Dowland, who fired a 79 to tie for ninth in the overall standings Friday, turned in an 88 Saturday for a 167 final. Senior Fred Grant, playing the Orange course Saturday, turned in an 85 to go with an 86 Friday for a 171 total. Sophomore Barry Bringham, fifth man whose score does not count in the team total, added a 92 Saturday to a 91 from Friday for a 183.

Cassius Of Old Not Same Today

Editor's Note: Times change and so do people. Four years ago, Dave Burgin was a Pfc. in the United States Army working for the Armed Forces News Service. At that time Muhammad Ali was publicity-hungry Cassius Clay with interviews for everybody — even the U.S. Army. Dave Burgin remembers the day in July, 1963, and the interview. And how Cassius Clay had different feelings about the Army.

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — In July, 1963, I was standing on the corner of 57th and Broadway, hating New York's wet heat, my Army uniform with Pfc. stripes, 65 cents in my pocket.

Sixteen more months to be a human being again!

"The first thing I noticed when the cab stopped in front of me was the driver, a Negro, laughing hysterically, wiping tears from his eyes, pounding the steering wheel with both hands.

"The first young man to step from the taxi wasn't familiar. The face that followed was vaguely.

"Hey, aren't you Cassius Clay?"

"The very same, soldier," Clay said, his grin wide, his eyes roaming. "Tell him, Rudy. Hey, Rudy, stop looking at the foxes! I am the greatest, my friend. You didn't recognize me. You didn't see my picture in Sports Illustrated? Hey, Rudy, what's that address where we go?"

"Clay's handshake was limp. He eyeballed lunch-breaking secretaries or kidded with passers-by who stared.

"You a sports writer?" Clay said. "An Army sports writer? C'mon, man, you ain't even an officer."

No, but the armed forces have newspapers, too. How about an interview for the service newspapers?

"Sure, my man," Clay said. "No sweat. Anything for the Army."

The interview at the Armed Forces Press and Radio office turned out to be Clay's interview. He fired questions about what the Army was like, he wanted to know about KP and marching and how long did it take to make sergeant.

"Being a private," he was told, "is like being a Negro at a Ku Klux Klan meeting."

"Yeah, I know what you mean," said Rudy Clay, Cassius' brother. They both laughed.

The Clay brothers didn't have a care in the world that day. "We got bread (money)," Cassius said. "We got foxes (girls). I'm hip to English foxes. They the best in the world."

They laughed and joked and Cassius threw lines about the service as enlisted-men writers, who represented all the services, gathered to hear him. "You mean the Army and the Marines work in the same office?" he asked.

"I want to say hello to all you service mens (sic) over there in Germany and all those other places," Clay said to a radio microphone. "You're all doing a good job and when I finally get to the Big Ugly Bear (Sonny Liston), I'll be thinking of you."

What did he plan to do about military service?

"When I go into the service," he answered, "will Uncle Sam let me take my heavyweight title with me?"

That hot July day in New York was a long time ago. Vietnam was a trouble spot then, but nothing to what it is today. President Kennedy had not been murdered.

Had Clay been asked about the Black Muslims, I'm sure he would have replied, "Black what?"

The interview at the Armed Forces Press and Radio office turned out to be Clay's interview. He fired questions about what the Army was like, he wanted to know about KP and marching and how long did it take to make sergeant.

"Yeah, I know what you mean," said Rudy Clay, Cassius' brother. They both laughed.

SLIDING OUTS: These two Greenville runners give it the old college try but both are out at second base. Top, IC shortstop has Greenville runner Dennis Cassell out and tries for a pair on the relay to first. Bottom, second baseman Bud Lawrence lets Joe Aten slide into the throw at second while attempting to pilfer the bag. Both shots came during 3-2 second-game victory by IC Saturday.

Cubs Massacre Dodgers, 20-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Adolfo Phillips drove in six runs with a home run and a double and Randy Hundley knocked in five with a grand slam homer and a sacrifice fly as the Chicago Cubs massacred the Los Angeles Dodgers 20-3 Saturday.

Ken Holtzman, who reports to Ft. Polk, La., Monday for six months Army training, coasted to his fifth victory without a defeat on the biggest scoring spree in the majors this season.

The Cubs, who slammed 14 hits, took a 3-0 lead on Phillips' homer in the second inning and Phillips' three-run double in the sixth made it 15-3.

Hundley's slam in the seventh after two walks and an error made it 19-3 and Glenn Beckert completed the scoring with an inside-the-park homer in the eighth as the Cubs broke a three-game losing streak. Beckert also doubled in two runs in the fourth inning.

Ted Savage also drove in three runs and stole home. Ron Fairly and Al Ferrara hit successive homers for the Dodgers in the fourth and Ferrara also homered in the sixth.

ILLINOIS ESCAPES CELLAR, TAKES TWO

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois climbed out of the Big Ten baseball cellar with a double victory over Northwestern Saturday, 6-3 and 3-2.

The Illini scored six runs in the first two innings to wrap up the opener and won the second game in the final inning when Mike Murawski's third hit of the day drove in the winning run.

Mike Rodgerson, the winning pitcher in the first game, also started the second but tired and had to leave after four innings.

IAC Approves New Aid Policy

MACOMB, Ill. (AP) — Faculty athletic representatives of the IAC approved Saturday a new financial aid policy for student athletes.

Dr. Harry Fritz, president of the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, said the regulations will allow a maximum of 100 grants to provide for costs of tuition, fees, books and one-half room and board.

The aid program becomes effective in September.

The league also approved plans for an annual basketball tournament, with the first tournament slated for the 1968-69 season at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston.

The IAC's annual winter meeting was scheduled for Dec. 7 and 8 in Chicago.

Powell's Homer Lifts Baltimore Past Nats, 4-3

WASHINGTON (AP) — Boog Powell clouted a three-run homer following an intentional walk to Frank Robinson in the sixth inning and boosted the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-3 victory over the Washington Senators Saturday.

Frank Howard slugged his sixth and seventh homers over the fence in dead center off Dave McNally, for all Washington's runs. Howard's second homer in the sixth inning followed a single by Hank Allen.

Luis Aparicio singled leading off the Orioles' sixth and was sacrificed to second. After Brooks Robinson grounded out, Frank Robinson was walked intentionally.

Powell, hitless in eight times at bat in the series, homered over the fence in left center. The Orioles scored in the second on Frank Robinson's double and Dave Johnson's single.

Moe Drabowsky relieved McNally in the seventh following a two-out walk to Ed Brinkman and preserved McNally's second victory in four decisions.

Joe Coleman, 2-3, was the loser. Baltimore 010 003 000—4 12 0 Wash. 000 102 000—3 10 0 McNally, Drabowsky (7) and Haney; Coleman, Priddy (7), Knowles (8) and Camilli, W. McNally, 2-2. L—Coleman, 2-3. Home runs—Baltimore, Powell (3). Washington, Howard, 2, (7).

Pony-Colt League

Larry Stewart gave up only one hit, a triple by brother Bill Stewart, and pitched Coca Cola to a 7-1 Pony League triumph over Fanning Oil at Nichols Park Saturday evening.

Stewart struck out ten batters in going the distance. Coca Cola had three two-run frames although getting only three hits off a pair of Fanning Oil hurlers.

U.S. Keeps Walker Cup

SANDWICH, England (AP) — Bill Campbell carded an eagle 3 at the seventh hole in his singles match against Ronnie Shade Saturday and sparked the United States amateur golfers to a 13-7 victory over the British Isles in the Walker Cup.

It was the 19th time that the United States had won the trophy. Britain has won it only once — in 1938 — and tied once, in Baltimore two years ago.

The British, under Capt. Joe Carr, had mustered a rousing comeback threatening the Americans' 8-1 opening day lead when the 44-year-old Campbell, a former U.S. amateur champion and Walker Cup captain, made his dramatic charge.

Playing Britain's top ace, the man who sank the putt that saved the tie in 1965, the tall Princeton University graduate unleashed a string of five straight 3s — including two birdies and an eagle — on the outgoing nine, finally winning 3 and 2.

The eagle came at the 493-yard seventh. Hitting across blustery winds, Campbell boomed a big drive and sent his second almost stiff to the pin on the par 5 hole.

Campbell's victory over Shade put the Americans within one point of victory and it remained for Bob Dickson of Muskogee, Okla., to add the clinching point with a 4 and 3 triumph over Scotsman Sandy Pirie.

In the two days of competition over the Royal St. George's course, whipped by winds reaching gusts of 60 miles an hour, the Americans won nine of the singles matches, lost four and halved three. In the four-somes, in which two-man teams hit alternate shots, they won four, lost three and halved one.

The British, trailing 8-1 going into the final day's play, won three of the four four-somes in the morning and stepped off to a lead in most of the eight singles in the afternoon.

Campbell, only player to figure in four points without a loss, teamed with 19-year-old Jack Lewis of Florence, S.C., to win the lone foursome for the United States on the second day, beating Sandy Saddler and Pirie, 1-up.

Sprinter Smith Better 2 Marks

SAN JOSE (AP) — San Jose State sprint star Tommie Smith bettered the world records for the 400 meters and 440-yard run Saturday.

Smith was clocked at 44.5 in the 400 meters and at 44.8 for 440 yards.

The previous 400-meter world mark of 44.9 was set by Otis Davis of the U.S. Olympic team in the 1960 Rome Games. It was tied by Adolph Plummer of New Mexico in 1963 and Mike Larabee of the Southern California Strikers in 1964.

Smith outdistanced his teammate, Lee Evans by approximately 25 yards to smash the record set in 1963 by Adolph Plummer of the University of New Mexico, who ran it in 44.9.

Harlan Takes Prep Title As Nine Records Broken

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — In the greatest assault on the record books in the meet's 73-year history, schoolboy athletes established nine marks and matched another Saturday as Chicago Harlan edged defending champion Evanston for the state high school track crown.

The Harlan Falcons won the finale of the 15-event program, the mile relay, to compile 23 points for their first team title. Evanston was third in the relay and took second place with 19 points. East St. Louis was third with 18. Mel Bassett, Willis Richardson, Ron Draper and Jim Stevenson made up Harlan's team.

A record crowd of 10,047 in Illinois Memorial Stadium saw the meet in cloudy weather. There virtually was no wind.

Harlan's lanky Draper was a double winner. He skimmed the 120-yard high hurdles in :14.1 to erase the old standard of 14.2, set by John Smith of Des Plaines in 1941.

Draper equalled the 18.9 mark in the 180-yard lows in a photo finish with Steve Darrt of East St. Louis.

In the record barrage, the oldest in books fell. Mike Goodrich of East St. Louis sped the 220 in :20.9. The mark of :21.0 by Bob Packard of Rockford had stood since 1935.

Bloom of Chicago Heights took fourth with 12 points, followed by Moline, Champaign and Rockford Guilford each with 10.

Three of the four defending champions retained their titles. Hershel Benberry of Bloom broke the shot put standard with a toss of 62 feet 10 1/4. Andy Merutka of Palatine had held the mark of 62-2 1/4 since 1962.

Bill Bahnlth of Palatine repeated in the 440 in :47.4, beating John French of Barrington by a stride.

Rick Wohlhuter of St. Charles kept his 880 ribbon with a 1:52.3 clocking.

Senior Dave Calvert of Rockford Guilford swept the mile in a record-smashing 4:11.7, finishing 30 yards ahead of Lee Labadie of Maine West. Defending titlist Ken Ward of Proviso East was third. Buried was the old mark of 4:14.5 by Larry Weizorek of Proviso East in 1964.

The only double winner beside Draper was Goodrich. He won the 100 by 10 feet over Rick Lyon of Wheaton North in :09.7, one-tenth second off the record.

Here is the rest of the record siege:

Two-mile (a new event)—Rich Elliott, Proviso West, 9:32.8, line (Steve Williams, Curtis Anderson, Cris Moen, Craig Amundsen) 1:27.1. Old record 1:28.1 by East St. Louis in 1966.

Discus — Ed Rogers, Bloomington, 176-8 1/2. Old record 175-5 1/2 by Tom Bayless, East St. Louis, 1966. High jump—Ben Gaines, Evanston, and Brad Richardson, Olney, each 6-9 1/4. Old record 6-5 1/4 by Bill Palmer, Arlington Heights, in 1957.

Other winners were Rich Lewis of Evanston with 24 1/2 in the long jump and Howard Doulder of Oak Park with 14 feet in the pole vault.

Freehan, Brown Crack RBI Hits In 3-1 Tiger Win

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Freehan and Gates Brown cracked run-scoring singles in the seventh inning Saturday, lifting the Detroit Tigers to a 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

Jim Northrup tripled with one out in the decisive inning off loser Al Downing, 3-3, and Freehan singled him home. Freehan took second on a walk to Norm Cash and scored on a pinch-hit safety by Brown.

Dick McAuliffe gave the Tigers a 1-0 lead in the first inning with an inside-the-park homer when his low liner bounced past center fielder Joe Pepitone. It was his fifth homer.

Mickey Mantle tied the count in the fourth with his seventh homer high into the second deck in right center field.

Denny McLain went the distance and evened his record at 4-4 with a seven-hitter.

Francis Tarkenton has already seen what a difference being a New York Giant means. Now he can walk into a big restaurant and be recognized and get a good table. Elaine Tarkenton's also impressed by the difference. "She thinks of all that good Fifth Avenue shopping and Broadway shows," says Tarkenton, who huddled recently with coach Al Sherman for four days. "I've given her a $5 allowance at Saks."

But here's how dedicated Tarkenton is to football. He set a June 18 cutoff date on all outside engagements to devote a full month to getting himself in shape for training camp. He then received an offer of $1,500 to speak at an insurance company convention in Yosemite Park on June 21, with expenses paid for himself and Elaine. He turned it down.

Mayo Smith, who has the Detroit Tigers off and winging in the American League, didn't kid himself about the future when he returned to managing this year. "Only two men," he said, "ever beat the racket. Mr. (Connie) Mack and Mr. (Clark) Griffith. And the only way they managed it was by owning the ball club."

Hinton's Clutch Homer In Tenth Allows 5-3 Edge

BOSTON (AP) — Chuck Hinton's two-run, two out home run in the 10th inning lifted the Cleveland Indians to a 5-3 victory over Boston Saturday.

Hinton's shot, the 21st homer off Red Sox pitchers in the last eight games, followed a double by Vic Davalillo.

A two-run pinch double by Dalton Jones following two walks and a hit batsman helped the Red Sox tie the score in the seventh. Rico Petrocelli's single tied it.

Joe Azcue cracked a two-run homer for the Indians in the fifth after Fred Whitfield's lead-off double broke a spell of four hitless innings by Boston starter Jose Santiago.

The Indians added an unearned run in the sixth when Reggie Smith misplayed Leon Wagner's fly ball and it fell for a triple. Whitfield walked and stole second as Wagner scored on catcher Mike Ryan's throw. Cleveland 000 021 000 2-5 7 0 Boston 000 000 300 0-3 6 1 (10 innings)

As a manager, Dave Bristol's biggest problem is when the Cincinnati Reds go to Atlanta. Then all his relatives descend from the hills of western North Carolina for tickets to the ball game.

The play that convinced Bristol his young 18-year-old sensation, Gary Nolan, had the poise to stay in the majors came in a game the kid didn't win. Nolan had the Los Angeles Dodgers shut out 1-0, with two out in the ninth inning when Jim Hickman's pinch double drove in the tying run. "Another kid might be kicking the dirt," Bristol, "but this boy backed up home plate the way he was supposed to, and then he went out on the mound again and struck out Dick Schofield on three pitches."

Tom Seaver, another young pitcher who has been impressive (for the New York Mets), claims a unique distinction. He once pitched a game that started at 11 p.m. and ended in broad daylight. Of course, the game commenced in broad daylight, too, since it was up in Alaska during a summer vacation from Southern California on the one day a year the sun doesn't set.

Roger Rose, angling for a light-heavyweight championship bout, was an all-state high school football player in Montana who enrolled at the university on a grid scholarship. But in the spring, when he was supposed to turn out for his first shot at the varsity, Roger skipped the practice sessions to fight in Golden Gloves and lost his Idaho State on a boxing scholarship.

Looks very much like George Mikan. Mr. Basketball, has made a full grab of power in his new job as commissioner of the American Basketball League. He squeezed the founders out of the picture. But it looks like there might not be much to grab, since the ABL is having big trouble getting off the ground in several cities.

That stock car racing business is a wee bit different than ordinary highway driving. For instance, those souped up "stocks" driven by Richard Petty and buddies only go about 80 miles on 20 gallons of gasoline. Besides making his motion picture debut, Paul Hornung is also angling to wind up a sports telecaster a la good buddy Frank Gifford.

Maybe Johnny Neriud, the trainer of Dr. Fager, doesn't want his cult in the prestige events like the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but the horse's owners weren't happy about the pull-outs.

Between you'n me, other golfers might drum Frank Beard out of the union when they find out he really wrote his own instructional series, Shaving Strokes, for NEA, and in longhand yet, instead of using the traditional ghost.

Repoz' Single Caps Weird 3rd For 9-4 KC Edge

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A two-run single by pinch hitter Roger Repoz capped a weird third inning and sent the Kansas City Athletics to a 9-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday night.

The White Sox had taken a 3-2 lead with three runs in the top of the third, two on J.C. Higgins came in to pitch for Chicago in bottom half of the inning.

Higgins hit the first batter, Danny Catter, on the batting helmet, and after he threw a pitch over Dick Green's head, umpire Jim Odom warned him. After walking Green, the right-hander hit Sal Bando on the leg, and Odom ejected him from the game. Manager Eddie Stanky protested the umpire's action, and he too was thrown out.

Bruce Howard came on and got one out, but Tim Lorton beat out an infield single for one run and Repoz followed with a two-run single, putting the Athletics ahead to stay 5-3.

County Cavaliers Plan For 20th Anniversary

The County Cavaliers motorcycle club of Jacksonville will celebrate its 20th anniversary on June 18 with a reunion at the club grounds near Bluff Springs.

The motorcycle club was founded June 10, 1947 at Virginia and was then known as the Cass County Cavaliers. In October, 1949, the club's headquarters was moved to Jacksonville and the name was changed to County Cavaliers Motorcycle Club.

This name was derived from the fact that the charter members at that time came not only from Jacksonville or Morgan county, but from the surrounding counties as well.

The counties of Morgan, Cass, Menard and Sangamon were represented by these charter members and these counties are symbolized by the four stars in the lower right-hand corner of the Cavalier shield of the club emblem which was designed at that time.

The club's mailing address has remained Jacksonville since then, although their present club grounds are again located in Cass county, north of Bluff Springs.

The club is a non-profit organization and is a charter member of the American Motorcycle Association for 20 consecutive years.

Over one hundred men from various walks of life have participated in the sport of motorcycling through their association with the club. There have been two honorary members, Thomas Monicon of London, England, and Claude Newby of Jacksonville.

Only one member of the original club, Frank Slagle has remained an active member. Slagle joined the club in 1948, and has held the offices of president, secretary, treasurer, and is presently chairman of the safety committee, and co-chairman of the reunion committee.

He also holds a lifetime membership in the AMA.

In the 20 years of over a million miles of motorcycling only two members were involved in fatal motorcycle accidents. The club has been recognized for its safety program, and has received the AMA safety award 12 years. This award is presented to a club only when the club's previous year of riding has been accident free.

All past and present members and their families are invited to join in the celebration on Sunday, June 18. A fish dinner will be served at 1:30 p.m., and reservations are to be sent to Frank Slagle, 853 South East street, Jacksonville.

Anyone wishing more information has been informed to call one of the members of the reunion committee, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Slagle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Driver Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Morris, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McGlasson.

Says Taylor Signed With New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jimmy Taylor, one of the mainstays of the Green Bay Packers backfield for nearly a decade, has agreed to play for the New Orleans Saints, it was learned Saturday from a highly reliable source.

Earlier Saturday, the New Orleans States-Item, in a story by assistant sports editor Peter Finney, said Taylor signed a contract reportedly worth $500,000 to play for the Saints. The signing took place Friday, the story said.

AFL Expansion Major Topic At Combined Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Expansion of the American Football League to 10 teams in 1968, possibly by adding Cincinnati, and selection of the Super Bowl site will be the main topics of discussion Tuesday when the two major pro football leagues meet.

Although both the National Football League and the AFL will meet at the same hotel, no joint sessions are planned. However, the joint merger committee that worked out plans for the leagues to join by 1970, undoubtedly will huddle.

The blueprint for expansion calls for the AFL to add its 10th franchise for the 1968 season with two additional franchises contemplated by 1970 when the leagues probably will begin playing an interlocking schedule. The NFL has added New Orleans as its 16th team for the 1967 season.

Cincinnati appears to be in line for the next AFL franchise, possibly with Paul Brown, former Cleveland part owner-coach as a key figure. If and when a franchise is voted, only the city will be announced, not the new owners. A new stadium is in the works for Cincinnati.

Miami's Orange Bowl is among the leading sites under consideration for the Super Bowl game between the NFL and AFL champions, New Orleans' Sugar Bowl and the Los Angeles Coliseum, where the first Super Bowl game was played before 63,036 fans last January, also are under consideration.

One of the major decisions to be made will be whether the NFL will have a president to act on the same level as Milt Wollard, president of the AFL. Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the two leagues, has continued his duties as head of the NFL until some determination is made on a successor.

It is possible the NFL will decide to operate without a president but set up an administrator Rozelle.

33-Car Indy Field Hits 164.024 Rate

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The 33-car field for the 51st running of the 500-mile race May 30 was filled with over 164,024 miles per hour. The old mark was 160,251 m.p.h. last year.

There will be one more qualifying session Sunday in which a car still can make the lineup by replacing one of the earlier runners with a faster 10-mile average.

Nobody approached Mario Andretti's record-smashing speed of 169,779 m.p.h., a week earlier. A crowd only about one-fourth the size of the estimated May 13 throng of 200,000 watched the qualifying attempts.

Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz., the U.S. Auto Club's defending sprint car champion, was high Saturday at an average of 165,563 in an Eagle-Ford.

Other performances likely to rest assaults on the final day included 162,696 by Carl Williams, Kansas City, Mo., in a BRP-Ford, and 163,376 by Dennis Hulme, New Zealand Grand Prix racer living in England, in an Eagle-Ford.

Chuck Hulse, Los Angeles veteran, did 162,925 in Graham Hill's 1966 winning Lola-Ford, and Bob Veith, another old-timer from San Lorenzo, Calif., turned 162,580 in a Gerhardt Turbo-charged Offenhauser.

Hill broke a connecting rod in his Lotus-Ford after a long series of mechanical troubles and began breaking in his backup car for a final attempt to make the field Sunday.

Two Grand Prix drivers—Lucien Bianchi, Brussels, Belgium, 162,484 in a Vollstedt-Ford, and Jochen Rindt, Vienna, Austria, 162,389 in an Eagle-Ford.

Lee Roy Yarbrough, a southern stock car ace from Columbia, S.C., did a sound 163,066.

Other good runs included 162,228 by Bud Tingelstad, Hawthorne, Calif., and 162,396 by Gary Congdon, Garden Grove, Calif.

Reds Stay Hot, Down Phils, 5-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tony Perez' two-run single and a booming triple by Don Pavletich keyed a five-run sixth inning for Cincinnati as the Reds whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 5-2 Saturday.

Perez single followed a walk to Tommy Harper and Vada Pinson's double and tied the score at 2-2. Then Pavletich's triple put the Reds in front and knocked out starter Grant Jackson.

Reliever Dick Farrell was stung for two more safeties as the Reds' batted out five hits in their big innings.

Until the sixth, Jackson was almost untouchable in his duel with 18-year-old rookie sensation Gary Nolan. The Phillies' young left-hander allowed only two hits and struck out eight before Cincinnati found the range.

Southpaw Jerry Arigo, who came on in relief of Nolan and shut the door on the Phillies' two-run fourth inning rally, got the victory. He allowed just one hit in six innings of relief.

Turbine Causes Stormy Dispute At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The quiet running revolutionary turbine car has touched off a stormy controversy at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Mario Andretti, who won the pole position for the 500-mile Memorial Day race for the second straight year, said the turbine must go in a special class or "the 500 will soon be a silent race."

Metallurgist S.A. Silberman, who heads the U.S. Auto Club's technical committee, said a final check of the turbine car showed it measures up to specifications with plenty of leeway.

"It is well within legal limits," Silberman said.

No formal protests have been lodged against the car, he added.

The turbine car, which took the STP Division of Studebaker Corp. three years to finish, will start from outside on the second row in the 500.

Parnelli Jones drove the car to sixth best qualifying speed May 13—166,075 miles per hour, despite having to nurse a weak gear box.

One of the main fears of opposing drivers and mechanics is that the relatively trouble-free turbine will run longer and at higher speeds during the race than the piston engine cars.

The turbine has no clutch, only two glow plugs and a low fuel consumption. Its JP-1 fuel is identical to airplane fuel and is expected to give the turbine five miles per gallon. Piston engine cars get about 2 1/2 miles per gallon at the speedway.

The car is powered by a 500-horsepower Pratt & Whitney airplane-type engine.

Andretti took the pole with his piston engine car at 168,982 m.p.h., but the Brawner-Brahm-Ford is expected to hit a top speed about five m.p.h. less with a full fuel tank during the race.

"If it's going to be allowed to compete at Indianapolis, it should be in a special class," Andretti said. "This is done at Le Mans and the Salt Flats. There's just no way a piston engine can compete with the horsepower developed by a turbine engine."

Iowa Shades MSU For Big Ten Crown

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Surprising Iowa had to sweat out a Michigan State threat in the closing pole vault, but shaded the defending champion Spartans for the second Hawkeye team crown in Big Ten outdoor track history Saturday.

A half hour after the last running event in a 16-event program which produced seven conference records, the pole vault ended with Iowa edging Michigan State 52 1/2 to 49. Wisconsin was third with 40 1/2 and Michigan a close fourth with 40.

Michigan State's Roland Carter won the pole vault, but another Spartan vaulter, Jim Stewart, missed at the winning 15-4 height, the difference sewing up the title for host Iowa.

Carter, continuing long after the crowd deserted the field, was one of three Spartans who fashioned Big Ten marks in Michigan State's futile, down-to-the-wire title bid.

The record-smashing included Carter's 16-foot 5 1/2 inch vault and new conference bests in the 120 high hurdles and 660 run by Spartans Gene Washington and John Spain; by Hawk-eyes Jon Reimer in the 440 hurdles, Mike Mondane in the 440 run and Iowa's mile relay team; and Michigan's Jack Harvey in the shot put and Clarence Martin in the high jump.

Carter's vault was the best in history by a big ten athlete. It topped a 16'1" vault by Ohio State's Bob Neutzling in 1964.

The Hawkeye track team, which won its only other team title in the 1963 meet with 48 points, shading Wisconsin with 47 hoisted Coach Francis Cretzmyer on its shoulders in a victory parade.

Iowa captured four firsts, piling up 16 points winning both the 440 and mile relays—and producing new champions in the 440 hurdles and 3,000-meter steeplechase.

Michigan State, heavily favored to become only the third Big Ten school to sweep three straight team titles, had three firsts, but lacked the scoring balance of the Hawkeyes.

Iowa picked up points in the 11 events, two of which were held Friday, the long jump and discus.

Iowa's mile relay team, anchored by Jon Reimer, who also won the 440 hurdles title, seemingly sewed up the title with its record 3:08.7 clocking in the final running event on the day's 16 event program.

That put the Hawkeyes in front with 49 points, five ahead of Michigan State, but the Spartans kept the title fight alive in the pole vault as the crowd swarmed from the stands and surrounded the vaulting pit.

Most noteworthy of the new records was a 6-9 high jump by Michigan's Clarence Martin which broke the 10-year-old conference mark of 6-8 2/3 set by Al Urbanekas of Illinois in the 1957 meet.

The meet's only double winner was Ohio State sophomore Ralph Marinello, who added the triple jump title to the broad jump crown he won Friday. Marinello's distance for the Olympic-aimed hop-step-and-jump was 47-5 1/4.

Lanky Gene Washington, Michigan State's 1966 outdoor star, not only set a new conference record of 13.7 in winning his third straight outdoor 120 high hurdles title, but also averaged a double trimming by Wisconsin's Mike Butler in the indoor meet.

Washington barely breasted out Butler with the Badger sophomore also being clocked in 13.7 two-tenths of a second under the meet record of 13.9, set by Indiana's Bob White last year.

Here are the Big Ten track meet team standings:

Iowa 52 1/2, Michigan State 49, Wisconsin 40 1/2, Michigan 40, Indiana 31, Minnesota 28, Ohio State 16, Illinois 12, Purdue 7, Northwestern 6.

Ohio State Cops League Baseball Crown In Sweep

EAST LANSING, AP) — Michigan knocked off Michigan State with a 14-hit attack in a bid for the Big Ten baseball title, but Ohio State swept a doubleheader from Iowa to clinch the crown Saturday.

Ohio State downed Iowa 2-1 and 1-0 for a 13-5 percentage record, seven percentage points better than the 10-4 which Michigan had.

The Wolverines, in beating the Spartans, started in a 5-0 lead in the first three innings, with Andy Fisher scoring one run and driving in two others.

Michigan's first run, in the first inning, came on a triple by Glen Redmon and Keith Spicer's single, the first of three he hit in the game.

In the second inning Fisher singled, went to second on an infield out, to third on Bud Forsythe's single and scored on a single by winning pitcher Jim Ljijynen. Forsythe scored on a single by Rick Sygar.

Spicer singled to start the third inning, went to third on Jim Hosler's double and Fisher's triple brought both men home.

The Spartans got three runs in the fourth when John Walters walked, Tom Binkowski singled and Tom Ellis socked a home run.

Michigan State cut Michigan's lead to one run in the fifth inning by getting Bill Steekey, who had walked, to home on a sacrifice fly by John Walters.

Redmon singled in the sixth and eventually scored on a wild pitch for Michigan's last run.

Ljijynen and Jeff Zahn, who relieved in the ninth, gave up seven hits to MSU and struck out a total of only three, but the Wolverines' active bats solved their problems.

John Ellis nipped Olsons Cleaners 9-8 in a battle of home runs, while Wareco walked past Lucky Boy 14-4, in Pony League play Friday evening at Nichols Park.

Olsons Cleaners came up with three runs in the sixth to knot their game at 8-8 before the winners pushed across one in their half of the sixth to settle the issue. John Ellis had three roundtrippers and Olsons Cleaners two, including one by pitcher Pat Gibson, who fanned 11 in a losing cause.

Wareco led only 5-2 until a seven-run fifth, including a three-run homer by Aaron Hayes, settled the outcome. Gary Hutchinson gave up only four hits for the winners.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jeff Torborg's three-run homer in the fourth inning and tough pitching by Don Drysdale carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday.

It marked the first time the Cubs had lost three games in a row and the first time this season that Manager Leo Durocher was tossed out of a game.

Durocher came charging out of the dugout in the fifth inning when plate umpire Augie Donatelli told pitcher Joe Niekro to stay on the rubber while taking his signs.

Durocher argued Drysdale was doing the same thing and Al Barlick finally waved Durocher out of the game.

By that time, the Dodgers had the game wrapped up. Jim LeFebvre's sacrifice fly drove home a run in the first and Gene Michael singled home another in the second.

JHS Has 12 Errors In 11-0 Defeat

SPRINGFIELD — Jacksonville committed 12 errors in five innings and Springfield Griffin went on to post an easy 11-0 five-inning, Capital Conference-clinching victory over the Crimsons, at Lanphier Park Friday afternoon.

JHS managed only a single by Mike Tendick and two other base-runners against Griffin ace Bob Blackley, as the Cyclones ran their loop record to 3-1 and clinched the crown. JHS finished with a 1-3 league mark.

Seven different Crimsons booted the ball one way or another, while Griffin pounded Jacksonville ace Rich Coble for nine hits in three and two-thirds of an inning.

The loss leaves Jacksonville, which meets Granite City in the Staunton Sectional next Tuesday, with an 11-9 record and breaks a seven-game winning streak. Griffin finished with an 18-6 mark.

Under the plan, a country like Brazil, for example, would send a team to meet every Big Ten team, and in exchange an all-star conference team would be sent to Brazil the following summer for a series of 10 or 12 games.

The project, however, hinges on progress by the United States Basketball Federation in its current effort to get renewed approval from the FIBA (international basketball federation) for sanction of international competition. The federation request probably will be settled within two or three weeks.

The Big Ten also made a minor change in its freshman football program.

Because of different academic schedules, the frosh season now may be completed in the second half of the freshman season instead of the final four weeks of the regular football season. Some schools end their freshman season before the varsity season closes.

Big Ten Boosts Grid Travel Squads Up To 44

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Big Ten athletic leaders Friday increased conference football travel squads from 40 to 44 players and solidified plans for a basketball exchange program with international opponents.

The action came at a joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors concluding their annual spring business session.

The conference last year upped the football traveling squad limit from 38 to 40, and the increase to 44 approved Friday was undertaken in view of pressures of platoon football.

The conference authorized Commissioner Bill Reed to develop further a proposal concerning the international basketball exchange.

Under the plan, a country like Brazil, for example, would send a team to meet every Big Ten team, and in exchange an all-star conference team would be sent to Brazil the following summer for a series of 10 or 12 games.

Robinsons Slam Consecutive HRs During 11-5 Romp

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brooks Robinson and Frank Robinson slammed consecutive home runs Friday night, with Brooks batting ahead of Frank for the first time, as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Washington Senators 11-5.

Brooks batted third and Frank fourth and after Brooks hit a two-run homer in the sixth, scoring behind Russ Snyder, Frank belted his ninth homer over the fence in center.

The Orioles staked Steve Barber to a six-run lead but he was yanked in the sixth with one out and one run in on a bases-loaded walk to Fred Valentine.

The Nets scored three more runs before Wally Bunker finally pitched out of the inning.

The Orioles wrapped it up in the eighth with their third three-run outburst.

McCovey, Haller Rap HRs To Pace Win Over Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Home runs by Tom Haller and Willie McCovey touched off a three-run burst by San Francisco in the eighth inning Friday night that carried the Giants to a 6-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

Haller and McCovey connected off rookie Don Wilson, the long blast by McCovey bringing a loud cheer from the Astros against base Umpire Shag Crawford.

Only the night before, Crawford was involved in an argument on a disputed homer that led to his shoving episode with Giants' Manager Herman Franks.

This time, McCovey's ball was hit to deep left center, where there is a yellow line, and a ball hitting above it is ruled a homer. The Astros argued that the ball hit below the line.

The score was tied at 2-2 until the eighth.

Cokes Scores TKO To Retain Title

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Curtis Cokes, the world's welterweight champion, kept his record clear against the European challenge by stopping Francois Pavilla of France in the 10th round of a scheduled 15-round title fight Friday night.

Cokes floored Pavilla with a steaming right. When the Frenchman arose, Cokes battered him around the ring and into his corner, where Jean Brettonel, Pavilla's manager, threw in the towel.

It was ruled a technical knockout at 2:50 of the 10th round.

Referee Pat Riley said he stopped the fight because Pavilla would have been knocked out anyway. He said the count had reached eight when the towel was thrown into the ring.

It was Cokes' second defense of the title he won in August, 1966 at New Orleans, La., when he beat Manny Gonzalez. In November Cokes defended his title against Jean Josselin, with a 15-round decision.

Cokes weighed 145, Pavilla 146½.

Don't Call Sarazen The Old Man

By ROGER DOUGHTY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
MARCO ISLAND, Fla. — (NEA) — At 65, many men are happy to walk away from work forever and settle into a relaxing limbo while reliving past glories from time to time. Not Gene Sarazen.

Sarazen is one Golden Ager left from the Golden Age of golf who can still show the kids what the game is all about.

"It's not really a fair comparison," concedes Sarazen. "I have spent the better part of my life working in a factory or an office. I'd probably be delighted to throw off the chains just like a lot of other people."

But with me it's always different. Most men can't wait to retire so they'll have time to play a little golf. While I've been playing all my life. So why retire?

Sarazen, who still plays three or four times a week, avoids winter's chill by going to Florida and is very much the country squire at his farm in Germantown, N.Y., when he's not roaming the globe on assignment for his television show.

"The show keeps me busy about three months out of the year," says Sarazen, "and I spend the rest of my time doing whatever I want to do." Which means golfing, writing, offering valuable advice to younger golfers and acting as one of the game's most active elder statesmen.

"It's O.K. to call Gene an elder statesman," says one young pro, "but I wouldn't advise calling him a 'grand old man' or anything like that. Not while he can still break par."

Sarazen, who still goes to the tee wearing knickers, has had his share of oddball experiences on foreign courses with snakes, elephants and other wild beasts popping up all over the place. He has also had an opportunity to even or, in at least one case, better some old scores.

After ripping off back-to-back PGA championships in 1922 and '23 (he won his third title in 1933 to rank with Walter Hagen as the only golfers to have won the PGA more than twice), Sarazen suffered a rare embarrassment in the 1924 French Open.

The leader after two rounds at La Boulie, Gene's game came apart in the third round and he limped in with a staggering 89.

Last year Sarazen returned to La Boulie while on a television assignment and toured the course in 72 strokes. It took him 42 years to prove his point, but Gene can be patient when he wants.

Sarazen was the world's No. 1 golfer during the days of the depression, when money was scarce and most Americans were more interested in where their next meal was coming from than who had the best chance to win the Masters. Because of this he's uniquely qualified to ponder the problems presented by more than $4.5 million in purses in 1967.

Sarazen wants the PGA to bankroll young players so they can get started without sponsors. Sarazen feels some of the backers may be professional gamblers and other "undesirables" interested in the pot of gold at the end of a well-stroked putt. Sarazen himself started as a $15-a-week laborer who practiced golf evenings in a vacant lot.

"Those days are gone forever," says Sarazen. "There are just a few relics remaining."

Maybe, but nobody's ready to call Sarazen a relic yet.

Chisox Record 12th In Last 13 Games, 9-1

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Don Buford socked a pair of triples and Tommie Agee stole three bases as the Chicago White Sox whipped Kansas City 9-1 Friday night for their 12th victory in the last 13 games.

FINDING THE WAY

Heeding Commandments Is All-or-Nothing Deal

Dr. Loew

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D., Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Visit the Supreme Court building in Washington and you see two tablets engraved in marble and emblazoned on the carpets. Discuss moral values in today's society and some simple statements will be mentioned. Yet the tragedy confronting the Ten Commandments is that they can be ignored. They need to be the corpuscles of the bloodstream and not just the symbols of our religiosity. Begin the reading of these simple verities and you look up. I am the Lord your God. You shall have no other gods nor make any graven images. You shall not take the name of the Lord your God in vain. Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. The broad outlines of life are involved here. They have to do with the specifics of our attitudes, our way of approach and our dealing with life. This is why a vague religiosity won't do. If a man is not going to have other gods, he had better examine his attitudes a little more closely. He can make them into little gods. To believe in one God is to disbelieve in the little gods of culture or of skin pigment. To understand a living God is to deal with the profanity of making the very name of God seem meaningless. We profane the name of God not only by vulgar speech; we misuse it by making it an empty shell. We lose the presence of God by our denial of any expressions of reverence or worship. We are in danger of losing "the look up."

These opening statements of the Ten Commandments can alter our way of life, if we approach them not as symbols but as guideposts. If the citizens of any hamlet, village or city would renounce their allegiance to a whole host of little gods of money, power, prestige, worry, gluttony or self-centeredness, we could have a major revolution in our local communities. Instead, we have a way of rationalizing our compromises by saying, "I believe in the Ten Commandments, but..." And then we trail off into our recognition of those little gods.

The centuries of exploration into the structure of these sentences have underscored three positive descriptions in our understanding:

Man is to fear God above all else. That is, he has a reverence which is real and unyielding.

Man is to love God above all else. He has commitment which invests the whole of self.

Man is to trust God above all else. He has a confidence which is responsible and creative.

The pathetic sentence, which everyone connected with the recent Apollo aircraft tragedy has agreed upon, states simply, "We were anesthetized by success and did not take the necessary precautions."

This is precisely the American danger and when that happens we will know that we have substituted other gods for an understanding of a responsible reverence, a lively love and a committed confidence. Anesthetized by success, we can lose our way of life while on the very threshold of exciting adventure.

Life requires a look up, a look out and look in.

(NEXT: The Look Out.)

The Church of the Holy Sepulchre was built in 326. It stands where, in Christian tradition, Christ was slain and buried. Richly ornamented altars and mosaics mark the site of the crucifixion and tomb.

Cover the East and South hands and see if you can figure out how Helen Sobel Smith defended with the West hand against South's three no-trump contract.

Helen started by opening the king of spades. North's two-club bid had asked South to bid a four-card major if he had one, so Helen saw little point in attacking with a four-card minor suit when the chances were that South would also hold four cards in the suit.

The king of spades looked like a happy choice. It held the trick as East played the nine. Helen stopped to count points. She counted 22 between her hand and dummy. Give South the 16-point minimum for his opening no-trump and the best East could hold would be two jacks. It appeared certain that East held the jack of spades, so Helen continued with the queen. That was allowed to hold also. Declarer put the ace on the third spade lead and played his ace of hearts.

Helen was ready. She dropped her king. This established her partner's jack of hearts as an entry to the 13th spade and South wound up losing three spades, one heart, one diamond, game rubber and his equanimity.

The play looks easy when you see all the cards, but it was just as easy for Helen at the table. She might have lost a trick had her partner not held the jack of hearts, but what is 30 points against game and rubber? Furthermore, Helen felt that if South really held the jack of hearts he might have gone over to dummy and taken a finesse. Even in rubber bridge an extra trick is worth something and the finesse is one of the standard ways to get it.

Awaiting The Day

By Sondra Hannel

The old one grew tired
He longed to rest—
His strength was nearly spent.
His younger days
When he was King
So swiftly came and went.
He'd asked back in March
That a replacement be sent—
He'd hoped that it would be soon.
Now April was gone
And May was half o'er
And quickly approaching was June.

He'd worn out his welcome
That was for sure,
For folks were beginning to say,
"I wish he would go—
He's been here so long
I'm beginning to tire of his stay."
Then one day he saw signs,
His replacement was near.
Oh, that was a joyous day.
He, Old Man Winter,
Now could have rest,
For Spring was on its way.

Private Pilot's Handbook of Navigation

Reviewed By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

With spring weather here many of our adult readers will begin studying for their private pilot's license. Others, who already have their license will begin to take to the air again. Both will find "Private Pilot's Handbook of Navigation," by Lt. Col. Gene Guerny, USAF, and Major James C. Elliott, Air National Guard, (Aero Publishers 1967) a very important aid to navigation. As is to be expected, both authors are experts in the field of navigation. Lt. Col. Guerny is a veteran of twenty years of flying, both commercial and as a command pilot with the Air Force. He has written eleven other books on aviation and space flight. Major Elliott is a former aviation editor now in Pentagon Public Affairs Office for the National Guard Bureau and the Air National Guard. He has published numerous articles on a wide range of military operations and contributed to many aviation magazines. This book presents detailed answers to navigation problems encountered by private pilots. The material is written in technical but easy to understand, concise language. It is illustrated by numerous diagrams on almost every page and frequently several on a page.

The material includes all necessary information on methods of successful navigation. It covers all aspects of the subject from basic concepts to chart reading, dead reckoning, flight planning, radiophone phraseology, etc., with emergency procedures outlined in a complete appendix on Dead Reckoning computer use.

Appropriately the book starts out with a definition of navigation. "Air navigation is the art of safely and efficiently directing an aircraft from one place to another, and determining its position at any time. Actually it's more of a science that involves a wide variety of influential factors which must be taken into account by the pilot."

Let's Go Birding

Sadness Minus Despair

By Emma Mae Leonhard

This spring the migratory sparrows have been good. They came early, have remained with us for quite some time, and have been comparatively abundant.

We aren't talking about English Sparrows, which are too abundant and remain too long—they never leave us and know how to find everyone of our homes. We are referring to the other kinds: for instance, the buzzing shy little bird of the fields, the Grasshopper Sparrow; the Lark Sparrow, with its chestnut and white head and its song of emotion; the Chippy of yards and roadsides, with its sewing machine buzz; the little brown Field Sparrow, with its trills even in the hottest weather; and others.

Speaks Of Spring
To some of us it is the White-throated Sparrow that speaks of spring. Its sweet songs become an integral part of the rhythm of spring, particularly in the morning and the evening. On a cool cloudy morning its pensive whistles seem as ethereal as the sunlight itself. Indeed, its song is indescribable, although easily recognized. It seems a lament without despair—a lament of sweet hopefulness.

The White-throated Sparrow is not only one of our sweetest singers; it is one of our handsomest sparrows also. With no difficulty at all we can see its striped black and white throat and its clean-cut white crown patch, for it feeds chiefly on the ground, where it scratches noisily in any dead leaves left from the winter.

If there are no dead leaves in our gardens, it will feed around on the bare ground under trees and shrubs. Here it puts on quite a show of activity. It rarely rests in the same spot. Instead, it moves around with little rapid hops, many times flitting its wings simultaneously with each hop to help push its body forward. At each hop it examines and pecks at the ground, perhaps finding a delicacy which only a bird would recognize.

Such actions entertained a young Mourning Dove in my garden one morning while I was also watching them at breakfast. The dove stole out from the border of perennials, which it had chosen as a retreat, and stood motionless, solemnly watching the graceful antics of the White-throat.

Not once did it try to imitate the performance. In spite of its youth, it was wise.

Breezes

The breezes whisper songs to me
So sweet and bright and gay.
They blow the storm clouds across the sky
And bring us a rainy day!

Shining Moon

The stars are shining bright
And the moon will be soon
This is a glorious night
As I see the moon.
The moon is very big
It is very round
It is like a big pig
Eating off of the ground.

Job Hunter's Guide

By Christine Hembrough

When you are going to meet someone for the first time—what do you expect to find? Do you expect them to come dirty, late, or in clothes that belong on the beach? Not hardly—and neither do bosses. If you are going to apply for a job this summer it'd be wise to read and follow this—and then maybe you'll get the job that you've been hoping for!

Nervous?

When you walk into a personnel office—how will you feel? Nervous, just like everybody else. You can't change the way you feel—but you can plan around it. When you're nervous your mind jumps to your appearance. Do I look ok? Is my hair in place? Avoid that worry during your interview by arriving a few minutes early and ask the receptionist to use the ladies' room. Don't wear a complex hair-do because you'll keep worrying if every strand is in place. Keep your hair simple and neat and clean, clean, very clean.

Most likely when you're nervous you'll play with anything you can—such as jewelry, ruffles, sunglasses etc. These are things to leave at home.

Simple Dress

Wear a simple, clean dress, maybe a pin but no long necklace or dangling earrings. Leave your sunglasses at home or in your purse.

When you're waiting be very calm—as calm as you can. Don't fidget, and don't decide that this is the time to clean out your purse!

Questions, Questions!
Be prepared! You'll be asked plenty of questions so be prepared to answer. You'll probably be filling out forms so have an ink pen with you that you can rely on. Know your name, address, and phone number, social security number, age, birthdate, place where parents work, and know the dates and types of jobs you have had before.

Think of what you might be asked to do. A typing test? Then, don't wear rings or bracelets, long fingernails or polish, or anything that might stop you from being as speedy as you are.

Be Prepared

Think of what could go wrong. A run in your stocking? Bring an extra pair along. An overstuffed pocketbook could spill your belongings all over the floor.

A hemline that inches up? A wrinkled skirt? A crease-resistant fabric will stay fresh. Shoes that slip off or hurt? Don't wear real high heels or sandals; you might be walking a lot. Running overtime on your parking meter? Put in a little extra time before you leave.

Bosses' Pet Peeves
And what are pet peeves of prospective employers? They list:

Overdressing: teased hair, dresses that belong at parties, fancy jewelry, four inch heels. Untidiness: stocking runs, rumpled dresses, unclean hair, chipped nail polish, high rise skirts and nervous habits.

But, you've already taken care of these haven't you? You will make yourself at ease and a good impression on your employer.

Clever girl! Now let's go get that job!

HEY—Wait a minute! I'm not through yet!!! Did I hear you ask a question, make a suggestion, or say you have a favorite recipe or joke? I thought I did—SEND them to me right here at:

Signs Of Spring

In spring things start to grow. The grass begins to get green and spring flowers bloom. I saw a cocoon on a branch of a tree turn into a moth. I saw a grasshopper hopping in the grass and a butterfly flying in the sky. I saw robins in the sky flying high and a ladybug climbing a leaf.

Little Garden

I like the springtime
The grass is fresh and green
To plant your little garden
Your heart to fill with gleam.

I hear the wind blowing
Sunshine is all about
The streams are clear with water
And I hear my mother shout.

I love to go up high
In my little swing
To see the clear blue sky
That's all about spring.

Ploofy

On a night that to me was spooky
I met a dog named Ploofy
He was a short and hairy puppy
His ears were, oh so fluffy
His nose is always wet,
I wish he was my pet
He licked and snuggled my face,
At a nice and steady pace.

I took him home with me,
And he took off for my bed to see.
He slept like a sweet little puppy.
Whose ears are oh so fluffy.

Cats And Kitts

I have three cats and three kittens. Snoopy is one of the kittens and one night when we were in bed. My mother and father were ready to go to bed they heard a big growl and they went outside to see what it was.

There was a big dog turning away. My father picked him up, and Snoopy was kicking and meowing, and my father didn't know if it was just sore or broken.

He took it to the vet and my father is going to get him today.

Spring Day

Once upon a time there was a flower. It was a nice spring morning so the flower said, "I think I will bloom." Do you know what flower this is? "Of course," said the tree. "It is a morning glory." "Right," said the flower and closed up again.

The first world's fair in the American Southwest—HemisFair '68—is scheduled from April 6 to Oct. 6, 1968, on a 92-acre site in downtown San Antonio.

Nesting sites of bald eagles in national wildlife refuges are closely guarded and closed to the public during the mating season. Timber cutting in refuges is forbidden within half a mile of nests.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The fastest track stars could not begin to match the speed of some ocean fish. The swordfish, for example, has been clocked at 60 miles an hour, says The World Almanac. The tuna can swim at a remarkable 44 miles an hour, the dolphin at 37 and the salmon at 25. Flying fish often emerge from the water at 35 miles per hour and have been observed to glide in the air for over 40 seconds.

TROUBLE FOR ANDY

By John Rankin

Part 2: "Guilty"

David could not forgive himself for leaving his collie Andy unattended while he went into the house. In just those few moments something had happened, and when Andy came out there was that little girl crying and screaming as the blood flowed—and Andy stood near her. Now the dog, wagging his tail in friendly fashion, was in court and the judge was ready to give the word that would mean life or death for the big dog.

Judge Renche cleared his throat and leaned forward. David squeezed his mother's hand and waited.

Then came the dreaded verdict, "Guilty!"

The word exploded in David's ears like a bombshell and left him feeling limp and wrung dry. Faintly he heard Mr. Lang saying something to Judge Renche about an appeal, whatever that meant, and he raised his head to catch Andy's parting look and saw the smile in his eyes. Then not wanting anybody to see him cry he buried his head in his mother's bosom and sobbed his heart out!

At school the next day all the other kids were especially attentive and sympathetic toward David. And Miss Amy, the teacher, went out of her way to show kindness and understanding. But the school-room held little interest or meaning for him now, and he sat idle at his desk staring aimlessly into space.

New Trial

Then during the morning recess Miss Amy called David into her study. "Your father called," she said with a buoyant smile. "The court has granted Andy another trial." Something warm and gladdening surged up inside David and for a moment he stared wide-eyed and overjoyed at the kindly teacher. He moved a step closer and finding his voice at last he spluttered, "Then Andy's still... you mean they haven't...?"

Miss Amy placed a gentle arm around his shoulder and held him close. "No one has harmed a hair on your pet, dear," she assured him "and your father's lawyer is already searching for fresh evidence to present at the next trial."

There was more, but David couldn't wait to tell the other kids and he bolted from the room leaving Miss Amy smiling after him. A roaring applause went up from the group then on hearing the glad news, and for a little while the school-yard fairly reeked with happy, carefree youngsters. But finally the excitement and loose chatter quieted down and they began to see the overall picture in a more realistic light.

How To Help Andy?

They all sat down and talked in earnest then. Everybody felt that Andy had been convicted on rather flimsy evidence. No one had actually seen him bite the little girl—if indeed she was bitten at all. But unless somebody could come up with something different, his second trial coming up in three days would end up just like the first one.

Maybe an important witness that would turn suspicion away from Andy had been overlooked. A passerby, perhaps, or maybe an important word dropped here and there had gone unnoticed. Even a tiny thread of evidence might help. How to go about finding it was the thing.

Finally one of the group, a little fellow with a freckled nose, broke in to observe. "My Dad's a policeman and he says the best way to find out things is to talk to a lot of people. He says kids can dig up more stuff than grownups."

The idea caught on with the serious-minded youngsters and spread like wildfire. Suggestions were made and gone over carefully until finally a well-laid plan of action was settled on.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPEYOUR BIRTHDAY
By STELLA

SUNDAY, MAY 21 — Born today, you have almost insatiable curiosity and if you are on the trail of something new and exciting you will work untiringly toward your objective. It is not determination, however, that keeps you going; it is the sheer joy of discovery. You will have to be on guard against entering into projects that satisfy your yearning for discovery but bring no material profit in return — unless, of course, you are fortunate enough to have an independent income.

You have many of the qualities of leadership, but they will serve you best in the field of ideas rather than in handling people. Although you get along well with people, you do not really care to be responsible for them or their happiness; thus you are better off not attempting to lead them. You yourself, however, would never be happy as a follower; you have too much originality of mind and spirit for that.

You have exceptionally strong emotions and can easily be led by them. You will have to take care, therefore, that you do not allow unhappy emotional responses — depression, discouragement, etc. — to take over your life. You have too much to offer to allow yourself to be led around by the nose by unhealthy moods!

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Monday, May 22

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — This isn't your day to stand up and voice a dissenting opinion. If you disagree with others, you'd be wise to keep it to yourself.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — The unexpected could well throw you off your stride this morning — but not if you're prepared to respond quickly and well.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Don't force either yourself or others to make important decisions today. You need plenty of time to know your own mind.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) — Hold off on trying to put over your ideas. Evening is a good time to straighten out your thinking on matters of importance.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — A difficult day for keeping out of trouble — but you can do it if you are cautious beyond the usual.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — You may well be presented with a risky venture today; sidestep it if at all possible — but don't hurt anyone's feelings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Remember that a soft answer turneth away wrath. You can come out a winner if you keep your temper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) — Avoid tempting fate this morning. You can take a risk with little loss later in the day, however, so bide your time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Consider even minor decisions carefully before you make your next move. Present projects hang in the balance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Avoid speaking out of turn. This is the day when you can consummate a business deal successfully if you take your time about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21) — The right word expressed just at the right time could well bring success to your planning. Don't worry about tomorrow today.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20) — Haste will only lead you into error this morning. Take your time and you should be able to add another feather to your cap.

BACCALAUREATE AT BLUFFS HIGH TO BE THIS SUNDAY

BLUFFS—The Baccalaureate service for the Bluffs Community High School will be held Sunday, May 21 at the School Gym at 8 p.m.

The program is as follows: processional, Kenneth Parker; invocation, Rev. George Bischoff; scripture reading, Rev. M. D. Goldsborough; song, "I'll Walk With God," Ronda Orchard, Brenda Likes and Debbie Brackett accompanied by Mary Ann Traw; sermon, Rev. Goldsborough and benediction, Rev. George Bischoff.

MURRAYVILLE MAN ASKS PROBATION

A 30-year-old Murrayville man entered a plea of guilty before Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker Friday morning on a charge of driving while his driver's license was under suspension.

Herbert C. Trent, 30, of Murrayville was taken into custody Thursday afternoon and held in the county jail under $500 bond.

Trent asked probation and the case was continued until June 9 for a report from the probation officer.

Trent's bond was continued for appearance at that time.

Walter Russell
Dies, Rites Set
At Winchester

WINCHESTER—Walter Russell, 78, of rural Winchester passed away at 8:15 p.m. Thursday at Jefferson Memorial hospital in Mount Vernon. He was a retired farmer.

He was born in England April 14, 1889 and was married in Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada to the former Florence Brackborough, who survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Mark of Jacksonville and Clarence of Mount Vernon; three grandchildren, a brother, Thomas Russell of Jacksonville and three sisters: Mrs. Wilbur Godkin of Victoria, B.C., Mrs. Hannah Baragawin of Perth, Australia and Mrs. Albert Causier of Regina, Sask.

Two brothers preceded him in death.

Funeral services have been set at 2 p.m. Monday at the Woodcock Funeral Home, Reverend Victor DeSha officiating. Burial will be in Patterson cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Sunday.

ONE TICKETED
FRIDAY AFTERNOON

One driver was ticketed by city police following a two-car accident at the intersection of Goltra and East Morton avenue about two o'clock Friday afternoon.

City police said that a southbound auto on Goltra, driven by Rita Eighinger of 3 North Crescent Drive was headed across Morton and collided with a vehicle operated by Mary Roberts of 1049 South Clay.

Mrs. Eighinger told police she thought the Roberts vehicle was preparing to turn into Goltra when the accident occurred. Mrs. Roberts said she was preparing to turn into the Roberts Rug company instead.

Officers ticketed Mrs. Eighinger with failure to yield the right-of-way.

Jack Glisson Says "WE'LL LEASE YOU ANY '67 FORD FOR LOW MONTHLY RATES!"

Yes, now you can save just as the big fleets do—by leasing a new Ford instead of buying one. You don't need to be an executive or professional man—anyone with good credit is eligible.

Leasing gives you a new car at regular intervals. It gives you complete tax records of car expense. It gives you cash to invest or spend (we'll buy your present car, pay you in cash!). It could cost you less each month than buying the same new car model and equipment!

Want to know how we do it? Stop by. We'll gladly give you all the eye-opening facts... no obligation.

HELICOPTERS DON'T LOOP, as everyone knows, but nobody told the new rigid-rotor 'copter preparing for its first overseas demonstration at the 1967 Paris Air Show. Developed jointly by the U.S. Army, Navy and the Lockheed-California Company, it will also execute a barrel roll, something it is believed no helicopter has ever done before.

Land Of Coup, Ambitious Generals

Political Stability In Laos?

By BOB POOS
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Has political stability been achieved in Laos, the land of the coup and the ambitious general?

An American diplomat pondered this question and finally said: "I would say so, yes, if you consider all that has gone on before."

That may sound like a cautious reply but it is almost wildly optimistic in view of Laos' long-time penchant for switching government.

Another diplomatic source observed: "I'm not saying there aren't people who wouldn't try to overthrow Souvanna—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma—if they thought they had a sound alternative. But the feeling right now is that there simply is no one else of his stature to offer."

Souvanna heads a coalition nationalist-neutralist government. He is a neutralist and his deputy is a right-wing nationalist.

The third faction in Laotian politics, the Pathet Lao, represents Communist interests. It is trying by force to overthrow Laos' constitutional parliamentary monarchy, and is not in the present government at Cabinet level.

Establishment of a tripartite government came about in 1962 when 14 nations signed a pact at Geneva.

Laos would seem to be living proof that such combinations don't work if one of the parties is Communist.

A few months after the Geneva accords, the Pathet Lao, assisted by the North Vietnamese, began trying to render impotent the neutralist forces who composed most of Souvanna's military strength.

Skirmishing and assassinations forced the neutralists into a firmer alliance with the conservatives or nationalists.

By May 1963 all the Pathet Lao ministers had left Vientiane. They haven't been back since.

The three factions held one more meeting—in Communist territory—but without agreement. Open fighting broke out and has been going on ever since.

Vientiane and other Laotian cities were the scenes of several coups or attempted coups. A rightist coup failed in 1965.

Souvanna, first prime minister under the coalition government, was toppled once and again quit in disgust. He kept popping back.

Under Souvanna's leadership and through his efforts to achieve unity the moderate rightists and neutralists have subdued their difference.

Two of the most controversial generals, Kong Le of the neutralists and Thao Ma, former commander of the air force, are no longer in the country. Gen Ma was the frustrated officer who ordered the bombing of a military installation in the nation's capital last October. The move was doomed to failure from the first.

Working together, the conservatives and neutralists have managed to win control of about two-thirds of Laotian territory and maintain influence over about 75 per cent of the people. Two major combined military operations have had a measure of success.

Working quietly behind the scenes for stability is King Savang Vatthana—a devout Buddhist and enthusiastic farmer.

Peace, prosperity and development, those matters which eventually furnish real political stability, are closely tied to the war in neighboring Vietnam.

"We have little hope of finding peace again as long as the Vietnam war lasts," Souvanna has observed.

France-Bound Yanks Given Helpful Hints

PARIS (AP) — Leave your diet at home and bring plenty of travelers' checks if you're coming to France on vacation.

Getting in is easy: U.S. citizens do not need visas.

The first French official you'll meet, the customs inspector, likely will not even ask you to open your luggage.

Tip: Make sure you have reservations—hotels are crowded with tourists from all over the world.

Payment in travelers' checks usually will get a 15 to 20 per cent discount on perfumes and other goods.

The franc is almost equal to 20 U.S. cents.

The Left Bank in Paris is not a socialist financial institution; it's that part of the city on the south side of the Seine River.

There you will find lots of restaurants, antique stores, art galleries, historic sites, picturesque narrow streets and broad, tree-lined boulevards. You'll find the same on the north bank of the river; Paris is for walking.

Finding a parking place is usually a problem. There are good bus and subway systems; tickets are cheap and they'll get you around the city quickly.

Your hotel can suggest where to eat—depending upon your spirit of gastronomic adventure and the size of your pocketbook.

Most restaurants include a 10 to 15 per cent tip in your bill. You are still expected to leave an additional modest tip, depending upon how well you liked the food and service.

If you are not a gourmet—or trying to stretch a limited budget—there are plenty of "snack bars" where you can get cheap meals and sandwiches, including hamburgers and hot dogs.

Over 400 kinds of cheese can be found in France.

Average per capita consumption of wine is 42 gallons per year. Unless you are a connoisseur, you may find it best to let the wine steward select the

Murrayville Legion Auxiliary Names Delegates

MURRAYVILLE—The American Legion Auxiliary met May 3 at the Legion home with Delores Wilson, president, presiding.

Minutes were read by Emily Ring, secretary. Jane Rimbey, treasurer, reported a balance of $200.40 in the bank.

The president appointed a nominating committee of Louise Ormen, Margaret Longergan and Emily Ring to secure new officers for the coming year.

An invitation was read from the 20th district director, Lena June Scarborough, to attend the spring district meeting at Perry June 8. Elected to attend as delegates were Louise Ormen, Evelyn Longergan, Susie Greenwalt and Ethel Stringer. Alternates are Margaret Longergan, Elsie Tendick and Mabel Rimbey. The president also plans to attend. The Auxiliary will pay expenses of all delegates. The group approved the purchase of a $3.00 birthday gift for Robert Early, the boy at Bell Cottage, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Normal, sponsored by the unit.

Poppy chairman, Louise Ormen, announced Poppy Day will be May 26-27. The Merry Maids 4-H girls have been asked to help sell the poppies.

The names of district officers were announced so the annual reports could be sent in.

LAW on the farm

HOW MUCH LIABILITY INSURANCE?

In Biblical days people had a simple formula to compensate for injuries — "an eye for an eye." Today, through a more complicated but less painful process, juries arrive at money judgments to compensate for injuries to others. To avoid having to pay possible judgments, many people shift this risk to an insurance company.

Each policy has a provision that the company will defend and pay all sums the insured becomes legally obligated to pay if the injury or damage is covered by the policy. The policy refers to a legal obligation, not a moral obligation. A legal obligation is one resulting from a court judgment, or one for which the company believes the insured would be liable. A moral obligation is one for which an individual is legally responsible, but for which he feels he should pay.

Farmers' Comprehensive Personal Liability Policy. A popular liability policy is called "farmers' comprehensive liability policy." It provides payment for personal injuries and property damage to third persons to whom the farmer is legally liable. It often provides for medical payments to injured persons regardless of legal liability.

Most policies omit coverage for accidents resulting from custom work, unless there is an endorsement to the policy permitting such work. Some extend coverage up to 20 or 30 days per year of custom work before any additional premium is charged.

Although most policies still exclude coverage for injured employees, there is a trend toward including this coverage. If employer liability is not included, coverage can be obtained by endorsement.

How Much Coverage? A suggested minimum amount would be $100,000 per person ($200,000 per accident) for personal injury and $10,000 for property damage. For an average Illinois farm the yearly cost should be under $40. If you want to tack on riders for medical payments, custom farming and employer liability, another $50 to $60 annual premium should be adequate. Keep in mind, however, that the size and kind of farm operation has a direct influence on rates.

What About Combination Farmowner Policies? A new "package" policy, usually called a farmowner's policy, appears attractive and practical to the careful buyer of insurance for farm needs. The policy combines property insurance with liability insurance in one contract. A reduced premium or "discount" is offered with the combined package, thus making it less than the cost for separate coverages. In some areas of coverage, this policy contains more liberal provisions than separate policies.

Coverage often includes these things: comprehensive liability, including bodily injury, property damage, medical payments and general products liability; dwellings and other farm buildings and household goods; and blanket farm personal property.

An average farmowner's policy with this coverage costs about $300 per year. Additional charges are made for added risks or increased amounts of insurance.

Savings can be made in premiums by using deductible clauses. The amount of deduction varies from $50 to $250. The $50 deductible saves about 10 percent in premium, the $250 deductible saves about 25 percent.

Quakers Move Toward Forms And Ministry

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer

Quaker meetings, traditionally dependent for their content on silent meditation and the spontaneous comments of any- at it, objecting that we're becoming just like the rest of the churches," he added. "They trained pastors for leadership. And the unpredictable silences, out of which might emerge much discourse or hardly any, of variable worth, are giving way in many cases to planned periods of Bible readings, prayers, hymns and sometimes sermons.

"Some Quakers are moving in a direction of forms and ministry that are not much distinguished from some Baptist and Methodist churches," said Dr. Wilmer A. Cooper, dean of the Graduate School of Religion of Earlham College, Richmond, Ind.

But it's a controversial trend in some quarters. "A good many Quakers rebel at it, objecting that we're becoming just like the rest of the churches," he added. "They trained pastors for leadership. And the unpredictable silences, out of which might emerge much discourse or hardly any, of variable worth, are giving way in many cases to planned periods of Bible readings, prayers, hymns and sometimes sermons.

Nevertheless, in a Christian movement which in its origins went all the way in rejecting clergy-dominated religion by completely abolishing the role of the need of specially trained ministers.

And Earlham's graduate school, founded six years ago, is turning out men with divinity degrees to fill that need — the first Quaker institution in its 300-year history of the movement to do so.

About two-thirds of the 1,100 Quaker weekly meetings, or congregations, in this country now have either full-time or part-time leaders, who lead worship, do pastoral counseling, make calls, serve at funerals and weddings.

But they disapprove being called clergymen. "None of us like that," Dr. Cooper said in an interview. Generally they're also averse to any honorific religious titles, and to put it bluntly, "Don't call me reverend."

Among Quakers, such terms have sensitive historic connotations that imply giving up religious responsibility and rule to an ordained class.

In contrast, the key Quaker emphasis is that all believers share ministerial obligations as channels of God's truth through an "inner light" of the spirit — a charismatic factor increasingly emphasized by other churches.

As the 17th century Quaker founder, George Fox, put it: "Every man is his own priest."

There are about 122,000 Friends in this country, commonly known as Quakers, and 200,000 of the worldwide. With their stress on personal responsibility, they're noted for their keen social concern and activism.

Although the movement officially supports pacifism, it does not require it, in line with an openness to individual convictions, and many Quakers are not pacifists. Statistics indicate only about half in wartime register as conscientious objectors.

America's Bald Eagle.

In his headlong rush to alter the natural world, man has wiped out many wild species. Passenger pigeons once formed such huge flocks as to darken the sky—50 years ago, the last one died in an Ohio zoo. The Labrador duck, giant sea mink, great auk and many other life forms have passed from existence since Europeans landed on America's shores.

Many other creatures are on the thin edge of oblivion; some can be saved, others perhaps not, but all of them deserve a chance if only because man cannot be the only living animal on earth.

The bald eagle, this country's national bird, is in jeopardy. In a recent year, there were only 230 active eagle nests in the prime nesting areas of the south; only 96 nests were successful in hatching young. The reason is being sought.

Alligators, once found throughout our Southeast and west to the Rio Grande, wear skins that are valuable for leather items. Now, they exist only in Southeast coastal waters, in small numbers.

Hawaii has suffered greater losses to extinction than any other State. Sixteen species of native birds have gone, about 20 others are in danger, including the nene or Hawaiian goose. The nene lives on lava slopes of Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea volcanoes, 5,000 to 8,000 feet above sea level, an area so arid the webs of their feet have almost disappeared.

The timber wolf, once ranged across much of North America. In the "lower 48" states, they are now found only in isolated sections along Lake Superior and on Isle Royale in the Lake, although still relatively plentiful in Canada and Alaska.

The best known endangered creature in the United States is the whooping crane. There were only 14 whoopers left when the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife began keeping records in 1938. Their numbers painfully increased to 43 in 1966. Because of their 2,500-mile migration between nesting grounds in Canada and their wintering area on the Texas Gulf, whoopers are difficult to protect.

The Department of the Interior hopes to save endangered species of wildlife through research, development of sanctuaries, and other measures provided by the Endangered Species Preservation Act of 1966. 78 mammals, birds, reptiles, and fishes have been selected by Interior for special attention under this new law.

TAGGING ALONG behind his idol paid off for little Stewart Wallace of Sparta, Ill. The youngest idolized academy award-winning actor Sidney Poitier, at right, while the latter was filming a movie at Stewart's home town. Film director Norman Jewison spotted the boy around the set and gave him a part in the movie, called "In the Heat of the Night." Poitier plays a Negro detective from the north who investigates a murder committed in a small southern town.

Feuds Erupt As Youths Steal Cows For Brides

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — In the barren Karamoja district of northern Uganda, the price of a girl is 75 cows.

There has been a long drought and cattle are scarce, so the men of the Karamoja tribe have taken to raiding neighbors' herds to get together the cows they need to buy a wife.

The raids have created a major security problem for Uganda's president, Milton Obote. More than 1,000 police and special security forces equipped with helicopters are trying to maintain order in Karamoja and stop the bloody feuds over cattle between rival clans of the Karamoja and with neighboring tribes in Kenya and Sudan.

Karamoja was never brought fully under control during the period of British rule, ending in 1962. The desolate area 200 miles northeast of Kampala covers more than 10,000 square miles but has only 130,000 inhabitants. They are a withdrawn, nomadic people who resisted the civilizing efforts of missionaries and the British administration for decades. To this day, the men of the Karamoja take a special pride in wearing absolutely no clothes, not even a loin cloth. The women wear a small leather patch.

By tradition, a boy has to prove his manhood by killing a lion, a leopard, elephant—or an enemy. The enemy usually is the easiest to get. But the killer's relatives have to pay "blood money" by surrendering one of their girls—or the equivalent in cows—to the victim's family.

Modern Uganda politicians tend to blame the British for having allowed the tribe to retain such customs.

Interior Minister Basil Baturanga told the Uganda Parliament recently the Karamoja were never pacified because the former colonial regime deliberately "created a kind of human zoo in the area."

Karamoja raise cattle as a status symbol and never withdrawn, nomadic people who resisted the civilizing efforts of missionaries and the British plants and a pink milkshake made with raw, fresh blood tapped from a cow's veins.

The drought has created near-famine conditions and has led to bloody tribal battles in which many have died.

As the Karamoja are more primitive than neighboring tribes, they often get the worst of intertribal fighting.

Religion Today

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — To measure the vitality of Jewish life in America, experts have made a detailed examination of the situation in "Lakeville, U.S.A." And the results were seen as discouraging to the faith.

They indicate an "uncertain future" for it, a report says.

Although "Lakeville" is not its real name, the town is real, a prosperous, medium-sized suburb of 25,000 in the Midwest, chosen as reflecting an advanced stage of trends in similar communities throughout the nation.

About a third of its population is Jewish, most of them native Americans, thoroughly acclimated to the suburban scene—the kind to which Jews across the country are increasingly gravitating from traditional urban environments.

Conditions there were thus seen as an indicator of what lies ahead for much of the Jewish population.

While most of those in Lakeville would like to conserve their Jewish values, they were generally found to be "tentative and uncertain about maintaining regular religious patterns of life."

"The press of the general environment is so compelling that instead of being conserved, the inheritance of earlier generations inevitably diminishes," the report said.

Highlights of it were disclosed Thursday by Dr. John Slawson, a social scientist and executive vice president of the American Jewish Committee, the human relations agency which sponsored the five-year study project.

The study was directed by Dr. Marshal Sklare, of Yeshiva University here, aided by two other sociologists, Dr. Benjamin B. Ringer and Joseph Greenblum, both of Hunter College.

Most Lakeville Jews were found to be "interested only in those rituals which demand minimal separation and deviation from the general."

Instead, "moral and ethical" living was the attribute most often cited as essential, by 93 per cent, to sound Jewishness, the ethics taking precedence over its religious roots and the particular marks and customs of Judaism.

In short, the study noted, the traditional view that "being a good Jew makes you a good person," has been turned around so that the modern Lakeville Jew feels that "being a good person makes you a good Jew."

Other characteristics cited as important to Jewishness by more than a majority included: Accepting their religious heritage without trying to hide it, supporting humanitarian causes, promoting civic betterment, gaining respect of Christian neighbors and helping the underprivileged improve their lot.

Success In Career Holds Heart Dangers

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government-sponsored study among Benedictine and Trappist monks indicates that the higher you go in your chosen life's work the greater your risk of a coronary heart attack.

The National Institutes of Health said in a report today that among members of both religious orders, the prevalence of coronary heart disease was approximately three times higher for ordained priests than for members classified as brothers. Brothers are members of a religious order who are not preparing for, or are not yet ready for, the final vows of holy orders.

While the study was limited to the monks, the agency indicated that the risks suggested by the findings might well apply to people moving up to higher echelons in any occupation.

The findings came about somewhat by chance, said the report.

The report declared: "A study originally designed to assess the relationship between dietary habits and heart-disease risk has disclosed that occupational stress may also be a potent factor affecting the development of coronary heart disease and such dangerous complications as heart attacks."

It said the study "compared a large group of Benedictine monks, who eat a typical American diet, with a similar group of Trappists, who eat a frugal, lacto-vegetarian diet considerably lower in fat."

A lacto-vegetarian diet consists of milk and vegetables.

Not unexpectedly, said the report, the Trappists had substantially lower amounts of fatty substances in the blood serum than did the Benedictines and experienced only about one-third as many episodes of coronary heart disease.

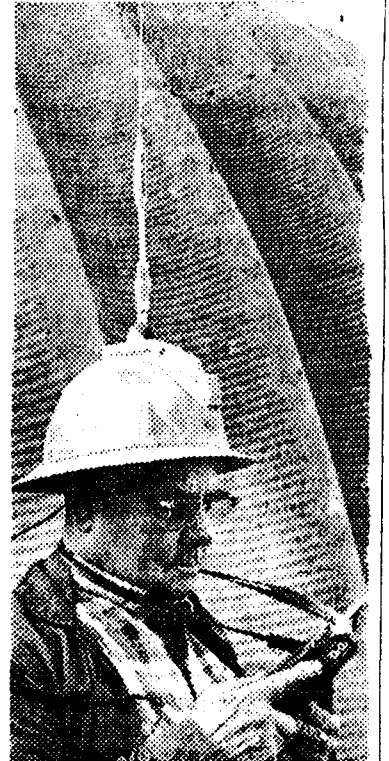

But the study also disclosed that as monks from either group moved up to higher echelons within their order, their heart-disease risk increased steeply even though their dietary habits remained essentially the same.

OFFICERS NAMED TO BIG BROTHER, SISTER ASSOCIATION

Murrayville Methodists Sponsoring Sex Education Meetings For Youth

By REV. WAYNE GOODWIN

MURRAYVILLE — "Our supposedly sophisticated young people are, we are learning, appallingly ignorant about sex," says a recent magazine publication (Readers Digest — May 1967). The article presents a challenge to the Church and Schools to do something about a "Sexual Revolution" that is in most instances perverted.

The Murrayville Methodist church with its pastor, the Reverend Wayne Goodwin, and its youth counselors, Mr. and Mrs. F. Alan Heaton have accepted this challenge from the publication and from the Methodist Youth Fellowship to do something about this lack of education in this vital area of the young person's life.

They are presenting four sessions entitled "Sex Education" on four Sunday evenings during the regularly scheduled Methodist Youth Fellowship meeting. The response from the parents and the teen-agers has been astounding. The pastor reports that there have been 24 registrations signed by the youth and their parents. Purpose The purpose of the course is to give factual and pictorial sex information in a Christian setting, so as to help the young people of the church become better Christians and in turn better able to lead and guide society.

It is felt by the pastor and the counselors that the biological facts of life go hand in hand with the moral and spiritual training, and that the future happiness of the teen-agers will be greatly influenced by Christian principles and attitudes on sex.

Initial Meeting

Session one was an introductory session laying a foundation for the whole subject of sex. Some basic themes, such as the old and new morality, exploitation of sex, and certain statistics which in themselves stress the need for such a course, were discussed. The session closed with the giving of 52 words to be defined by the young people, and questions and "talk back" from the youth.

Session two will be entitled "What teen-agers think about sex today." A film "Sex: A Moral Dilemma for Teen-agers" will be shown, with a discourse to follow on the "miracle of birth."

Session three will be on the subject "Where babies come from." This session will consider human anatomy, procreation, and birth.

The last session will be a discussion on "Sex — Right or Wrong, or both," with such themes as sexual perversion, abortion, unwed mothers, venereal disease, genetic control, and real love.

It is hoped that this course will in some way help reduce the two divorces out of every four marriages, and the 200,000 to 300,000 cases of venereal diseases in teen-agers, and the estimated 90% of all girls examined for marriage having had illicit sex relations, and the 100% increase in illegitimate births in some areas of our country in the last 15 to 17 years, as well as preparing the young people for marriage. The Methodist church in Murrayville, the pastor, and the youth counselors, along with the teen-agers, believe that adequate information on sex will be a good start, and feel that in our community, at least, this course on Sex Education will reduce the statistics quoted above, and will bring more desirable results in the years to come.

VFW OFFICERS elected last week at the regular meeting of Post 1379 and Auxiliary included Floyd E. Norman, commander, and Cecelia A. Proffitt, auxiliary president.

Other officers of the post were: Cy McCurley, senior vice commander; David Wilson, junior vice commander; Thomas Farrell, quartermaster; Joe Logan, judge advocate; Sam Coe, chaplain; George E. Jones, adjutant; Clifford Jones, Everett Thomas and Edward Houston, post trustees. Edward Houston served as installing officer.

Officers of the auxiliary elected were: Rosemary Vaniter, senior vice president; Teresa Hazelwood, junior vice president; Adeline Warmoth, chaplain; Lee McCurley, conductress; Vernelle Bryant, guard; Marge Hull, treasurer; Eleanor Hayes, secretary; Lottie Bradshaw, Agnes McDevitt and Hazel Roman, trustees; Maxine Power, musician. Agnes McDevitt served as installing officer and Judy Watt served as installing conductress.

Following the election of officers, members of the post and auxiliary gathered for refreshments and a late dinner. The new officers will assume their duties in late June.

PATTERSON RNA GROUP TO ATTEND GREENE-SCOTT MEET

PATTERSON — The local Camp of Royal Neighbors met May 16 in the school gymnasium, with the following officers and members present: Carol Little, Katherine Conrod, Leona Dawdy, Bea Taylor, Eloise Summers, Nona Owdom, Cora Augur, Lida Dawdy, Elaine Newingham, Minnie Steelman, Lura Dawdy, Marilyn Ford, Mildred Wilkinson, Mary Nagle, Norma Blakey, Margaret Ricks, Mildean Van Meter, Hazel Smith, Meleta Stewart, Wilmoth Cade, Phyllis Dawdy, Mildred Dawdy, Bertha Nicholson, Hazel Strowmatt, and Janet Dawdy. Mrs. Stanley, State Supervisor, of Jerseyville, was a guest.

After the formal opening, minutes and reports were read, and an invitation from the Winchester Camp was read, inviting the camp to the Greene-Scott Convention, to be held there on June 5th. Mrs. Stanley instructed the officers in some of the work, which the camp will have charge of at the convention.

After the closing and coin drill the members were served refreshments of cheese cake, snacks, coffee and iced tea, by Lida Dawdy and Hazel Smith, hostesses for the evening. Bingo was enjoyed with prizes for the winners. Mrs. Bertha Nicholson was awarded the door prize, given by Hazel Strowmatt. Several received gifts from their secret pals.

Hostesses for the June meeting will be Janet Dawdy and Nona Owdom.

Eye Possible Effects Of Tariff Cutting Pact

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP) — American businessmen and consumers wondered this past week what the results of the Kennedy Round tariff agreements will mean for them.

It may be as long as 10 weeks before they find out—but there were some hints.

The tariff-cutting agreements were reached by the United States and 52 other nations after four years of negotiations in Geneva.

The reductions affect about 60,000 items and more than $40 billion annually in world trade. The United States has 6,300 products and $15 billion to $16 billion in trade involved.

Only a few items such as carpets, watches, glass, lead, zinc and petroleum products won't be affected.

The tariff reductions were reported to average 33 to 35 per cent, generally spread over four years.

The negotiations were called the Kennedy Round because Congress granted U.S. authority to participate during the administration of President John F. Kennedy.

President Johnson must sign the trade package by June 30, when his tariff-cutting authority expires. It will take until then to assemble the proposed new tariff schedule.

While details weren't generally available, executives of some industries apparently knew enough about what was agreed upon to express objections immediately.

The criticism came mainly from the chemical, steel and textile industries.

Their principal objections were that the United States did not succeed in having other countries remove nontariff barriers that hamper American export sales.

These barriers include border taxes, import licensing requirements, quotas and other restrictions.

"A very bad deal for the American chemical industry" was the way Thomas P. Turchan, a vice president of American Cyanamid Co., described the agreement.

"We've opened the door for foreign producers to move into our domestic markets by making the largest tariff reduction in United States history," he said. "In exchange for this, we have received virtually meaningless concessions."

John P. Roche, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, said the steel industry couldn't improve its export position unless nontariff barriers were removed.

An American Textile Manufacturers Institute spokesman said the effects of the agreement on the domestic industry would be unfavorable "based on the virtual tripling of imports into this country since the Kennedy Round talks began."

In other news, the Commerce Department reported that corporate profits in the first quarter of the year declined by the largest amount for any quarter in about eight years.

Pretax profits fell 5.5 per cent to an annual rate of $77.3 billion from $81.8 billion in the 1966 fourth quarter and 6.5 per cent from $82.8 billion a year earlier.

After-tax profits were at an annual rate of $45.3 billion, down from $48.1 billion in the previous quarter and from $48.7 billion a year earlier.

Personal income in April rose $1.4 billion to a record annual rate of $614.1 billion but the gain was the smallest since October 1965.

The Commerce Department said the April slowing in income reflected reductions not only in manufacturing but in the distribution industries and in transfer of payments which consist mainly of Social Security and veterans benefits.

Durable goods ordering in April edged up one-half of one per cent from March but shipments fell 2.4 per cent, the Commerce Department reported.

The gain in orders to $22.2 billion resulted from downward revision in the March total to $22.1 billion from the previously estimated $22.2 billion. The April total was down from $24.2 billion a year earlier.

Housing starts in April inched up 0.9 per cent to an annual rate of 1,171,000 units from 1,161,000 in March.

Automobile production last week was estimated at 173,800 passenger cars, off one per cent from 175,365 the previous week and 11 per cent from 194,296 a year earlier.

Car sales in the first 10 days of May gained 17 per cent from a year earlier on the basis of daily selling rate. Total units sold showed an even sharper increase, but there were nine selling days in the period this year and eight last year. Dealers sold 253,949 cars against 193,269 a year earlier.

Auto Industry Told: Demands Must Be Met

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers Union president, told the union's Ford Council Saturday, "We will strike unless we get our full, fair share of the economic benefits" reaped by the auto companies.

"We will go to the bargaining table united and determined to go forward," Reuther declared. "We will ask for nothing more than our fair share. We will settle for nothing less."

The council's 300 delegates, representing the 160,000 UAW members in Ford Motor Co. factories, interrupted his speech here, and at 11 other places, with applause. Reuther drew standing ovations at the beginning and the end of his 33-minute talk.

He said the union would not enter this summer's labor contract negotiations, starting in July, predetermined to strike, but he told delegates that if they want to win economic justice "wishing will not make it so."

"The whole history of the labor movement has been a history of struggle," Reuther said. "The great corporations have never been willing to grant us, as a matter of right, that full measure of economic justice."

"It has been won by the workers who were willing to fight for it," he said.

Reuther was asked at a news conference which of the goals on the union's list he deemed essential to economic justice this year. His reply: "All of them—that's why they're on the list."

The council, in the second day of its three-day closed meeting, is tailoring the goals to the needs of Ford workers. It unanimously adopted a resolution Friday asking that Ford be made the prime target in this summer's talks.

A boom in outlays by business for new plant and equipment that began early in 1961 has continued to set new records. Spending has been channelled more toward modernization than expansion.

The rise in personal income during 1967 is expected to be about $35 billion, less than the $45 billion during 1966 but still producing the biggest consumer market in history.

Bean Futures Post Best '67 Advances

By ED DE MOCH
CHICAGO (AP) — The soybeans futures pit at the Chicago Board of Trade, virtually inactive for months, was unexpectedly energized Friday and prices made their best advance of the year.

Soybeans futures, influenced by possibly increased exports to European countries as a result of the recently concluded Kennedy Round agreement, advanced nearly 3 cents a bushel.

World tension, the Vietnam war, Middle East troubles and the India-Pakistan border problem, also were factors in the price advance, to a degree.

Other grains at the commodity exchange also advanced, for the most part, under influence of the activity in soybeans.

When trade closed down Friday, wheat was 1¼ to 2½ cents a bushel lower for the week, May $1.62 ¼; corn was 1 to 3½ cents lower, Mar. $1.31 ½-32½; oats were ½ to 1 cent lower, Mar. 69½ cents; rye was 1¼ lower to ½ higher, May $1.22½ and soybeans were 2¼ lower to 2½ higher, May $2.83½-81.

Soybean oil was 2 to 19 points higher for the week, May 10.23-24; soybean meal was 75 cents to $1.30 higher, May 69.90-70.

Trading in May contracts of all commodities terminated at noon Friday.

Before Friday's advance, all grains had been ¼ to 3 cents a bushel lower for the week.

The market had been slow all week, with prices generally trending lower. It had opened on a generally mixed one Friday. Around mid-session, Undersecretary of Agriculture John Schnitzler appeared before a Senate agriculture subcommittee to report on his part in the Kennedy Round pact. After the hearing, he talked with newsmen.

Schnitzler was quoted as saying that the agreement would help U.S. trade and that some reductions in duty had been made on wheat, soybeans and other grains and commodities. He did not specify how much or divulge any other details of the agreement.

However, the trade immediately visualized expanding exports, especially to relieve what this year is expected to be the biggest carryover of soybeans this country has held.

Soybeans futures shot ahead, then receded before the close. The full range between the low and high was about 3¼ cents.

To some extent, a weather market ruled over most other grain movements. Favorable growing weather depressed wheat prices during the week, and a private crop report that too much hot sun might cut winter wheat production tended to help advance prices.

Corn planting and field work had been seriously retarded by wet fields and rain since mid-April, but the work began to move swiftly this week under favorable weather conditions.

The private crop report, however, stated that despite closer plantings and increased acreage, corn would need good growing weather to approach the 1965 production figures. This tended to strengthen the September and December corn deliveries Friday.

Trade in oats and rye futures was generally light, most of it confined to local professionals.

Soybean oil and soybean meal trade was light and both moved only slightly during the week, until Friday when approval was given to Pakistan of some 30,000 tons of oil.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices advanced for the third straight week at the Chicago Stockyards, moving ahead $1.50 to $2 and topped at $25.50 for the first time since last Sept. 9.

The big factors in the advance, when trade closed Friday, were said to have been the continued reduction in hog supplies and higher wholesale dressed pork prices.

Hog receipts at Chicago totaled 24,000 head for the week, compared with 26,000 last week. Mixed 1-2 butchers brought mostly $24.75 to $25.25 but 26 head topped at $25.85. Mixed 1-3 butchers sold at $24.25 to $24.75. Mixed 1-3 sows went at $20.00 to $20.50.

Slaughter steers were 25 to 75 cents higher while slaughter heifers were mostly 75 higher. Cattle receipts at Chicago totaled 21,800 head, compared with 24,200 the previous week.

Prime slaughter steers sold at $26.75 to $27.25 and some high choice and prime brought $26.00 to $27.00. High choice and prime went at $25.75 to $26.50. High choice and prime slaughter heifers brought $25.50 to $26.00.

CHICAGO (AP) — (USDA) — Hogs 5,000; most 1-2 200-225 lb butchers 24.75-25.25, around 150 head at 25.25 and 80 head at 25.50; mixed 1-3 190-230 lbs 24.25-24.75; 230-250 lbs 23.50-24.50; 2-3 240-260 lbs 23.00-23.75; 260-290 lbs 22.00-23.00; mixed 1-3 370-400 lb sows 19.50-20.00; few lots 320 lbs 20.00-20.50; 400-450 lbs 19.25-19.75; 45-500 lbs 18.50-19.25.

N.Y. Stock Market Suffers Continued Decline Last Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Disconcerting news developments accompanied a stock market decline last week.

It was the market's second straight losing week and it disappointed the hopes of some traders that it would rally above a theoretical support level.

The Dow Jones industrial average sank 15.48 points to 847.55. Volume was 49,435,990 shares compared with 52,382,110 the previous week. The market fell four out of the five trading days.

On Monday, Wall Street took seriously the consensus of 100 leading industrialists, members of the Business Council, that business faces strains in the coming months because of further escalation of the Vietnam war, higher taxes, shrinking profits and a rising federal deficit. The market declined.

The only advance was Tuesday, a technical jog to the upside. It was trimmed late in the session by news that William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, had warned against massive short-run speculation by mutual funds and other large investors.

Thursday trading was dampened by published reports that the drop in first quarter earnings was the sharpest since 1959.

On this day, history was made by Pacific Petroleum which traced on a single block of one million shares, largest on record at the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week fell 3.1 points to 324.7. Of 1,607 issues traded, 893 fell and 566 rose.

Prices of medium and long-term bonds declined again. Short-term issues were slightly better.

Corporate bond prices were unchanged to a little lower.

Installment credit debt has reached a record volume requiring about 15 per cent of all personal disposable income for servicing. New installment credit purchasing has exceeded the repayment rate since 1961.

Federal, State Funds Approved For YMCA Senior Citizen Plan

Federal and state funds totaling $19,250 have been approved for the Jacksonville Young Men's Christian Association to establish and operate a multi-purpose center for the benefit of about 10,600 older persons who reside in Jacksonville and Morgan County, according to Robert Mowry, executive director of the Y.M.C.A.

The center will offer a variety of group recreation and educational activities and also serve as an informal place to meet, socialize and discuss subjects of mutual interest.

Classes and activities planned include handicrafts, photography, bridge, chess, ceramics, stamps, travel, literature, various physical games and others.

YMCA Clearing House

The Y.M.C.A. will be the hub or clearing house for plans and programs, but important segments of the services to the aged program will be carried out in several neighborhoods using churches, public housing, and other facilities.

Information and referral services to other community resources will be handled at the Y.M.C.A. Once each month there will be a combined meeting in the Y.M.C.A. to discuss mutual interest topics such as medical care, Social Security benefits, self care, and income in retirement.

The center was approved as qualifying for federal funds granted to Illinois under the Older Americans Act of 1965, with administrative authority invested in Harold O. Swank, director of the Illinois Department of Public Aid. Approval was based on the prior review of the Illinois State Council on Aging, chaired by William L. Rutherford, Peoria.

Three-Year Project

The center is a new three-year project with an overall funding of $22,000.00 the first year. The federal share is $16,000 and local shares are each $2,750. The diminishing federal share may not exceed 75 percent the first year, 60 percent the second or 50 percent the third. After three years the center expects to operate on local resources.

The federal funding is part of an initial grant of $403,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The state funds are from an appropriation made by the Illinois legislature for services to older people.

Implementation of the act is being directed toward multi-purpose centers offering a variety of activities and services to older people. To date 14 projects have been approved in Illinois since November, 1966. Four are in the Chicago metropolitan area and 10 are in down-state counties.

Local communities and agencies interested in establishing programs for the aging may obtain guide lines from the Illinois Department of Public Aid, 400 South Spring Street, Springfield, Illinois.

In announcing the grant, Robert Mowry stated the beginning of the program would be July 1st. The grant enables the "Y" to offer a greater program to the Jacksonville area.

Rose Bill Would Assist Election Judges At Polls

Rep. Tom Rose (R-Jacksonville) has introduced a bill designed to cut down on the long hours election judges are required to work.

The bill, which was sent to the House Friday, provides that in precincts of over 500 voters the county clerk or a board of election commissioners may appoint three tally clerks who would come on duty when the polls close to assist the election judges in counting the ballots.

Rose's bill, which received a unanimous vote of the elections committee of the House, was also endorsed by the county clerk's association of Illinois.

"Many election judges serve over 24 continuous hours in the very important job of manning the election polls and counting the ballots," Rose stated.

He pointed out that not only are the judges inadequately paid for their time, but it also poses a difficult problem for them to stay alert over such a long time.

The bill further provides that a political party having three judges of election shall have two tally clerks and the party having two election judges shall have three tally clerks.

Pay will be based on one-half of the pay of the judges.

Co-sponsoring the bill with Rose was 50th district Republican H. B. Ihnen of Quincy.

Winchester Woman's Club Installs Slate

By Naomi Lawson
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone 742-3190)

WINCHESTER — The Winchester Junior Woman's Club met at the Slagle Ranch Inn on Thursday evening with 16 members and two guests present. The hostesses were Mrs. Larry Exton and Mrs. R. R. Funk.

The tables were decorated in a violet theme. The violet centerpiece was awarded Mrs. Pete Lackey.

Mrs. Richard Taylor, Mrs. Kenneth Beckman and Mrs. Roland Todd reported on their attendance at the state convention in Chicago.

During the evening the outstanding club member, Mrs. Carl Evans, was named. A gift was presented to Mrs. Raymond Slagle for her aid during the meetings. A cook book was given to Mrs. R. R. Funk.

A $750 check was presented to Father James O'Hara for playground equipment at Monument Park.

Books, "The Good Ship Hope" and "Yankee Come Home," were presented to the Winchester Library in honor of the past presidents, Mrs. James Spencer and Mrs. Roger Hurrellbrink.

Cook books containing recipes of the food served at the smorgasbord this spring are being sold by members.

Mrs. Robert Black, retiring 20th District Junior Director, installed the new officers in a candlelight service. Installed were: Mrs. Richard Taylor, president; Mrs. Edward Frost, first vice-president; Mrs. Kenneth Beckman, second vice-president; Mrs. Carry Hurrellbrink, secretary; Mrs. Earl Boston, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Larry Exton, treasurer.

A past president's pin was presented to Mrs. James Spencer.

Mrs. Taylor appointed the following board: Social, Mrs. Gary Leib; Membership, Mrs. Thomas Anders; Ways and Means, Mrs. Charles Marshall; Mrs. Roland Todd and Mrs. James Cox; Revision, Mrs. Hays Wiltshire; Publicity, Mrs. Dean Robinson and Mrs. Pete Lackey; Auditing and Budget, Mrs. Wayne Kilver; Telephone, Mrs. Wayne King; Parliamentarian, Mrs. James Spencer and Property Chairman, Mrs. Denon Conrad.

There will be a meeting of the new board at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Edward Frost.

Circle Meets

The Mary-Martha Circle of the First Christian church met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Brown. She was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Jameson and Mrs. Charles Shipley.

Mrs. Muri Hardy presented the lesson and Mrs. Nancy Schwab was in charge of devotions.

Appointed to help plan the Royal Neighbors' convention dinner was Mrs. Lloyd Wisdom. Mrs. Lawrence Gillham and Mrs. Henry Corrie.

Doreas Circle

The Dorcas Circle met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bessie Andell. She was assisted by Mrs. Wes Andell and Mrs. Mae Morris.

The leader, Mrs. Paul Garrison, conducted the business meeting.

Reverend Marvin Cheney presented the lesson and Mrs. Leonard Plozman was in charge of the worship service.

Two guests, Mrs. Leib and Mrs. Ina Mae Stice were present.

A committee to help plan the meal to be served at the Royal Neighbor Convention in June was named and includes Mrs. Merle Helliwell, Mrs. John Carlton and Mrs. Leonard Plozman.

Managers Needed

Managers, assistants, and umpires for the 8-10 year age group and the 11 and 12 group in the local Little League are needed.

Anyone interested in this program should contact Homer Allen, head of the program for the Kiwanis.

There will be a meeting for those interested at 8 p.m. Friday at the Legion Hall in Winchester.

Flames Destroy Old Orchard Country Club

PITTSFIELD — Flames gutted the Old Orchard Country Club east of here Saturday leaving only the club pro shop and new banquet room as possible salvage. Both the pro shop and the new room suffered extensive smoke and water damage.

The original structure of the club was completely ruined and the floor of the dining room had fallen in when the fire was brought under control. The new lockers, all equipment in the lockers, new carpeting and paneling in the lounge was destroyed.

The fire is believed to have started in the furnace or boiler room, possibly from faulty wiring.

The alarm was given by Bob Allen, who arrived at the club at 7 a.m. to practice. He noticed the smoke and notified the Pittsfield Fire Department.

The remains will arrive at the funeral home here Sunday morning and the family will meet friends there 7 to 9 p.m.

YOUTH 4. BITTEN
BY DOG SATURDAY

A four-year old Jacksonville child was treated and released from Passavant hospital Saturday evening for a dog bite wound.

The child was identified as Mark Doolin, 4, of 1001 Doolin avenue, who was bitten while playing in his yard about seven o'clock.

Police said that the youth sustained a slight wound to his right shoulder, and was taken to the hospital where he received treatment.

Officers checked and located the animal and its owner. The animal had had rabies shots two weeks ago, and therefore the child did not have to undergo shots.

YOUTH 4. BITTEN
BY DOG SATURDAY

A four-year old Jacksonville child was treated and released from Passavant hospital Saturday evening for a dog bite wound.

The child was identified as Mark Doolin, 4, of 1001 Doolin avenue, who was bitten while playing in his yard about seven o'clock.

Police said that the youth sustained a slight wound to his right shoulder, and was taken to the hospital where he received treatment.

Officers checked and located the animal and its owner. The animal had had rabies shots two weeks ago, and therefore the child did not have to undergo shots.

New Record Posted As 3,667 Vehicles Get Safety Check

The 1967 Vehicle Safety Check Lane closed Saturday afternoon with a total of 3,667 vehicles inspected during the week, an all-time high for the program which has been in operation for 13 years.

The previous high total was 3,643.

Saturday's total of 518 inspections was the third highest for the 1967 six-day event.

Of the day's total, 68 rejections were recorded for defects in need of prompt attention and 39 cars that were rejected were returned for rechecks before the lane closed.

Of the 463 cars and trucks entering the lane Friday, 63 were found to have defects of various sorts and 38 of the drivers whose cars were rejected returned for safety stickers after repairs had been made. Seventeen drivers who had had repairs made after inspections on previous days also returned for re
